MISCELLANEOUS EUROPEAN ITEMS.

On Tuesday evening last the extensive premises of Messrs. Barclay and Perkins, the celebrated London porter brewers, were almost entirely destroyed by fire. The flames broke out on the platform between the mashing-tubs, a little after 5 o'clock, and continued raging till ten, when they were got under, though not till the premises was a complete mass of burning ruins. The whole of the brewery department, including the various and extensive utensils, was entirely destroyed; together with the engine-house and the gable end of the hop warehouse, and also the rear of Mr. Perkins's house, was entirely gutted. The property was insured in different offices, but, it is said, not to one-half of the amount of the loss. The brewing season being nearly terminated, the disaster will not be so severely felt. Had the accident occurred a few months back, Messrs. Barclay and Perkins's loss, upon the whole, would have been incalculable.

A few days ago, a large sea-monster was exhibited in the Saracen's Head yard, Newark. It is ascertained, that its proper name is a finner, a species usually seen on the north coast of America. It weighs upwards of 100 stone, (14 lbs. to the stone,) and measures ten feet four inches in length. The teeth, which are ivory, and eighty in number; the upper and lower teeth fit between each other, and present a formidable apparatus for destruction.

Of the present ministers, the Duke of Richmond, the Marquis of Lansdowne, and Lord Durham, are said to decline receiving the salaries of their respective offices. This, if true, though highly patriotic in the individuals, as a precedent, is of no great value; for, if it were to be understood, that no man should hold office who cannot afford to do so gratuitously, the public would, in nearly every department, be deprived of the services of the most efficient persons. What the country wishes to see is, not the working and the active deprived of their just remuneration, but the drones and sinecurists driven from the hive, in which they consume so large a portion of the honey.

The Society for the Promotion of Useful Knowledge have received from the King a Charter of Incorporation.

Tuesday's Gazette contains the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Fox, of the 1st or granadier regiment of foot Guards, to be Aid-de-Camp to his Majesty, dated May 23.

The Speaker's elevation to the peerage is now said to be so certain, that the patent only awaits the right honorable gentleman's choice of a title. Hardwich and Rochford are said to be the places which dispute the honour.

A penny subscription is raising to purchase a gold cup, to be presented to the Lord Chancellor, as a testimony of his undeviating devotion to the interests of the people.

A silver cup, beautifully embossed, after a design by Stanfield, was presented to Mr. Young, the actor, by the performers of Drury-lane Theatre, on the evening of his retirement from the stage, in the Green-room, at Covent Garden.

From a tabular statement, lately published, we learn, that the average annual income of societies in this kingdom, with religious and philanthropic views, amounts to the large sum of £619,645.

A letter from Rome of the 26th ult. says, 'Walter Scott has arrived here. He seems busy studying the characters of our Roman neighbours, and exploring the antiquities and libraries of this capital. He has already paid a visit to Tivoli, Albani, and Frascati.

If I may venture a conjecture, the next flight of his pen will be over the romantic fields of Roman history.

A very extraordinary phenomenon has been observed at Valenciennes, in France, in the grounds of two bleachers, which are more than 600 yards from each other, the linen laid out to whiten has become as red as if it had been dyed with blood. The water with which the linen was dressed has been analysed, and found to contain not the least acid. When the cholera became extinct, this colouring ceased. A chemist of the town attributes it to the effect of certain acid exhalations, from whence he supposes the cholera proceeded.

Sir Walter Scott left Rome for Florence, on his way to England, on Friday the 11th ult.

LONDON AND BIRMINGHAM RAILWAY.—We have pleasure in stating, that this important measure is steadily and successfully progressing, the preamble having been voted and proved, in a full committee of the House of Commons, on Friday last, after a division by a majority of 24 to 9. Several clauses were at the same time agreed to. The remaining clauses will be settled this day, and it is expected, that the bill will be read a third time and passed on Wednesday next, when it will be immediately carried to the upper house.

AILSA CRAIG.—A novel and highly enterprising speculation has been entered into by a company of this city, (Glasgow,) which, we are confident will prove lucrative to those engaged in it, and beneficial to the public. A lease, of nineteen years' duration, of Ailsa Craig had been procured from the proprietor, Lord Cassilis, by this company for the purpose of shooting and fishing. A range of houses, 120 feet in length, is about to be erected below the old castle, which is 400 feet above the level of the sea, and these buildings are for purposes connected with the business of the company. The Orion, yacht, well known in the annals of the Northern Yacht Club races, has been purchased, and is to be employed in the deep sea fishing of the company. By this speculation the fish and fowl markets of Glasgow and Liverpool will be supplied with fish of every description, and, among other fowls, with the solan goose, regularly by the steamers which daily pass by the rock.—Scotch paper.

SUSPICIOUS MOVEMENTS OF THE RUSSIAN ARMY.

—The news from the frontiers of Poland, of May the 15th, conveys the important intelligence, that movements were observed in the Russian army which indicated a change of the corps, and the assembling of a large force on the Prussian and Austrian frontiers. Eighty thousand fresh troops were said to be on their march to Poland to garrison the places now occupied by the troops that are to advance to the western frontiers. The Allgemeine Zeitung of the 24th of May says, there must be some great political object in this manœuvre, which is attended with too much expense to be intended merely to exercise the troops; and adds, that a short time will solve the enigma, and acquaint the world with the intentions of the cabinet of St. Petersburg.

PROPOSED NATIONAL JUBILEE.—There appears to be a general wish to celebrate the passing of the Reform Bill by a day of joy and thanksgiving, and, for that purpose, the 15th of June, the anniversary of signing Magna Charta, has been suggested by some correspondents. We think a better day might have been chosen. The royal assent cannot be given to the Scotch and Irish bills by that day, and till they receive the King's fiat the nation's joy will not be complete. The most suitable day of all would be that on which the King goes down to Parliament to give his assent to the last of the three bills, and could the progress of the Scotch and Irish bills be so accelerated as to make that fall on the 20th of June (his Majes-
