

the inhabitants, if they would avert the calamities of this dire disease, which has spread so much havoc over a large portion of our globe: if they would avoid a pestilence which has made no distinctions in ranks of life; which has spared neither age nor sex; but consigned to a premature death, and the gloomy precincts of the grave, thousands of our fellow mortals; to use every exertion to forward the views and intentions of our Board: let them pay due attention to the cleanliness of their premises; let them have a proper regard to their regimen; let them cheerfully, willingly, do all that it is possible for man to do; when, we trust, our settlements may still enjoy a continuance of that health, with which it has pleased a Divine Providence so long to vouchsafe to them.

OUR Correspondent at Bathurst informs us that a schooner from Quebec, via Percie, with Emigrants bound to this port, is at the Quarantine station, and that several of the passengers are in a very sickly state. He also informs us, that there are no quarantine regulations in force, in the district of Gaspe.
