

NEW WORKS.

FRANCIS OF VALOIS,
OR THE CURSE OF ST. VALLIAR,
A TALE OF THE MIDDLE AGES.BY EDMUND FLAGG, ESQ.
Author of 'Mary Tudor,' 'Duchess of Ferrara,' 'the Brigand,' &c.

Of the above work, written for the New World we only say that it is one of the best productions of its well known and popular author. The time is the 16th century, and the scenes and incidents of the Tale are of thrilling interest.

The Era of the reign of Francis Valois, was one of the most remarkable periods in the annals of Europe, not more for the splendour and importance of the events which it chronicles, than by that throng of illustrious personages by whose birth it was honored. 'It was the peculiar glory of that period,' says Robertson, the historian, 'to produce the most illustrious monarchs who have at any one time appeared in Europe. Leo, Charles, Francis, Henry Solymán, were each of them possessed of talents which might have rendered any age conspicuous—but such a epstellation of great princes shed uncommon lustre on the 16th century.' It was also the era of the Reformation; which, with the single exception of the advent of the Christian Faith, was the most remarkable event in the annals of Time. It came after the long midnight of one thousand years to publish again the Religion of the cross—not with the lance and the battle axe of the Crusaders nor with the blood-steeped scimeter of the False Prophet—and not with the wild and horrid rites of the priests of Northern Europe, nor with the mystic and magical cabala of the oriental Illuminati—out with a weapon less terrific and less bloody, yet more efficient and resistless—the Sword of the Spirit, the Gospel of Truth.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF FACTORY LIFE.

BY A FACTORY GIRL.

This is an original production, of great beauty and merit, written by a girl employed in one of the Lowell Factories for five years, and evinces a talent which would not dishonor most eminent authoresses of this country. The stories are beautifully told, and give pleasure of life in the Manufactories which will be new to many, and at the same time full of stirring incidents, wrought out with great effect. This work cannot fail to please all lovers of romance, and will rank among the most popular productions of American Novelists.

TERMS.—Single copies 12 1-2 cents—ten for 1$—or 8$ a hundred. It will be published on an extra Octavo New World, about the 25th January.
