Prospectus of a Paper to be called the QUEEN OF THE ISLES;

A Journal of British Political and Domestic Intelligence.

It is proposed in this Journal to give a full and satisfactory abstract of the British Newspapers, in all matters therein contained which may be of interest and importance to the natives of the British Isles upon this Continent.

The extracts which will be made from the English Journals, will be invariably taken from those whose accounts of passing events are the most interesting and the most to be depended upon for their veracity, and will be comprised under the following heads, viz:—

- 1. GENERAL POLITICS.—Under the head of which will be given an abstract of weekly events connected with the Political World. 2. Parliamentary Matters.—In which the Debates in both Houses of Parliament will be given; and in cases of particular interest, they will be published verbatim, as far as the limits of the paper will permit. 3. Agriculture.—Which will comprise an account of all such improvements in matters connected with farming in England, Scotland, and Ireland, as may from time to time be made; while the connexion of this mighty branch of industry with trade and commerce will be kept steadily in view. 4. Trade and Commercial Intelligence.—Under this head will be contained extracts from the most able and authentic Journals, which will be duly collated and arranged to meet the wants of the reader in this hemisphere. 5. Law proceedings in the English Courts.—Comprising the most interesting trials in the courts of both Great Britain and Ireland. 6. Sporting Intelligence.—In which will be given a full account of Races, Steeple Chases, Fox Hunts, Coursing, Angling, Shooting, Yacht Intelligence, Rowing Matches, and all matters interesting to sportsmen. 7. Literary Notices, Selections, and Theatrical criticisms; as well as a register of the most remarkable Births, Marriages, and Deaths, as they may appear in the British papers.

The Queen of the Isles will, in consequence of the multiplicity of papers published on Saturday, be issued on Wednesday. Its price will be three dollars per annum, to be paid invariably in advance; no order will be received unless accompanied by the necessary payment.

As we desire on all occasions to give our Albion subscribers the benefit of our other publications on the best possible terms, we have determined to supply the Queen of the Isles to them at one dollar per annum; but it must be understood that in all such cases this sum must be actually paid into the office without deduction of any kind, as we cannot open any account or give any credit upon such a trivial amount.

Persons thus taking both papers will have the advantage of receiving the news twice a week in consequence of the Queen of the Isles being published on Wednesday.

The paper will be printed with neat and clear type, on fair paper, in the quarto form, consisting of 8 pages, and published at the Albion office, No 3, Barclay street, New York.

Notice.

The Subscriber having authorized Messrs HADDOW & LOWDEN to collect and receive all outstanding debts due him at his Store at Chatham, requests all persons so indebted to pay the sums they owe without delay to Messrs Haddow & Lowden who are also authorized to adjust all claims against the Subscriber. JOSEPH RUSSELL. Miramichi, 26th October, 1843.

MURRAY'S Colonial and Home Library:

THE main object of this undertaking is to furnish the Inhabitants of the Colonies of Great Britain with the highest Literature of the day, consisting partly of original Works, partly of new editions of popular Publications, at the lowest possible price. It is called for in consequence of the Acts which have recently passed the British Parliament for the protection of the rights of British authors and publishers, by the rigid and entire exclusion of foreign pirated editions. These Acts, if properly enforced, will for the first time, direct into the right channel the demand of the Colonies for English Literature: a demand of which our authors and publishers have hitherto been deprived by the introduction of piracies from the United States, France, and Belgium. In order, therefore, that the highly intelligent and educated population of our Colonies may not suffer from the withdrawal of their accustomed supplies of books, and with a view to obviate the complaint, that a check might in consequence be raised to their intellectual advancement, Mr. Murray has determined to publish a series of attractive and useful works, by approved authors, at a rate which shall place them within reach of the means not only of the Colonists, but also of a large portion of the less wealthy classes at home, who will thus benefit by the widening of the market for our literature: and the Colonial Library will consequently be so conducted that it may claim to be considered as a Library for the Empire. Owing to the very low price placed upon the numbers of this series, the undertaking can succeed only if it meets with strenuous support of the Colonial Government at home and abroad, in giving effect to the law, and in supporting the just rights of British genius, industry, and manufactures, by preventing illicit importation of foreign reprints. It is also necessary for its progress and success that it be favoured with the patronage of the Reading public in all parts of the British dominions; and the chief aim and object of the publisher will be to render it worthy of their countenance.

Mr Murray's Colonial Library will furnish the settler in the woods of America, and the occupant of the remotest cantonments of our Indian dominion, with the resources of recreation and instruction, at a moderate price, together with many new books within a short period of their appearance in England; while the student and lover of literature at home, who has hitherto been content with the loan of a book from the book club, or who has been compelled to wait for its tardy perusal from the shelves of a circulating library, or perhaps has satisfied his curiosity by the scanty extracts in magazines or reviews, may now become possessed of the work itself, at the moment of its publication, and at a cost little beyond that entailed by either of the methods above mentioned. He may at the same time pay up a permanent Library in a condensed and portable form.

It will no doubt prove a source of satisfaction to the lovers of English literature in the Colonies, to know that they are enjoying the intellectual gratification of the works of native authors, without doing any wrong or injury to those authors' interests. Persons residing in the distant quarters of the world, to which the dominions of Queen Victoria extend, and unacquainted with the practical system of authorship and publication, may probably never have dreamed that they were doing an act of injustice to the authors, for whose works they perhaps entertained the sincerest devotion, by the encouragement they have been in the habit of giving to foreign reprints. But the reason why the American, French and other pirates of British copyrights have no difficulty in producing cheap books is, that they pay nothing to the authors of them. They cannot publish the works of their own authors at the same rate. But besides availing themselves of the genius and hard toil of others, without making them any return, the cost of printing and paper in those countries is nearly one half less than in England.

On the other hand, the pirated editions, owing to the hurried manner in which they are got up (being generally printed within twenty four hours of the receipt of the English edition), and in order to save the (in England necessary) expense of common revision, are full of the grossest blunders, which most often interfere with the correct understanding of the work.

The series of Works designed to appear in Mr Murray's Colonial and Home Library will be selected for their acknowledged merit, and will be exclusively such as are calculated to please the most extensive circles of readers. They will be printed most carefully, in a superior style, and on good paper.
