of the Agricultural edition of the Albion, to be conducted by J. S. Skinner, Esq.,

In undertaking to conduct, for the proprietor of the ALBION, a Department appropriated to Agriculture and Horticulture, the undersigned begs it may be believed that he enters upon the task with a full sense of the responsibility it imposes. Though he may not bring to its performance all the skill and various knowledge which maybe requisite to the highest degree of success, he does not hesitate to promise an example of that industry which it will be his duty to inculcate; animated as he is by the same, and even more zeal in the cause of agricultural improvement than that which prompted him, more than a quarter of a century ago, to establish the first periodical dedicated to American Husbandry. Friends of the Plough! what a change has "come o'er the spirit of our dream" since that epoch! Not only was that doubtful experience crowned with success, but many other and abler journals have been annually coming into existence over all the country, begetting an appetite for disquisitions on every branch of rural industry, far from being satisfied with abundant supplies, seems to increase by what it feeds upon, until happily, it has come to pass that those who are destined to earn their livelihood by tilling the soil, now more and more regard their pursuit, as one which demands, not only a close observation of field practice, and of actual results, but an active exercise of mind, to the end that by a better knowledge of all the principles involved, and all the agencies by which they are produced, these results may be controlled and modified. With these views it will be equally the duty and the pleasure of the undersigned to encourage, and yet more widely diffuse, the sentiment that Agriculture and Horticulture are in truth connected, as well in theory as in practice, with various interesting studies; and that in proportion as we advance in a knowledge of all the sciences akin to those pursuits, laws of nature hitherto unthought of, will be revealed, and new objects, infinitely variegated and interesting, be disclosed, over which the mere practical man passes, without perception, or relish; just as the blind man in the country, so much to be commiserated, is insensible to the glories of our autumnal scenery, and all the varied beauties of creation. Such is the melancholy contrast between the enlightened and the cultivated agriculturist!

But while it is intended that the commentaries and reflections of the Editor and his extracts adapted to our country, to be taken chiefly from the most recent European works and journals, shall be of a nature to promote habits of intellectual investigation, the paramount aim will be to make known to the reader, such new and practically useful discoveries, as, when availed of, shall augment the product of all capital, in any form employed, in any branch of rural industry. In a word and without further preface, it is designed to distil the spirit from the mass of foreign journals, and with it so sprinkle and refresh our fields and gardens, as to ensure for all their products a more vigorous growth, and more fruitful bearing.

The arrangement for an Agricultural Department in the Albion, cannot affect injuriously, the interests of any of the many agricultural publications now circulated in America. The Editor would decline any and all connexions that might thus enroach on the patronage justly due to his co-laborers, in the wide field of agricultural improvement.

The ALBION circulates not merely among a large circle of American friends, but also among the natives of Great Britain—in Europe, as well as in the United States; and as a country can in no way be better known than by its agriculture, it is conceived that much good may be effected familiarizing foreign readers with the condition of Agriculture in America; furnishing facts, showing how and where the foreigner may best promote his own welfare, and advance the interest of his adopted country, when "settling" with his family, either in the new or the old States of the American confederacy. So far from desiring to trench upon the well deserved patronage of the regular agricultural journals, it is repeated, the Editor is well persuaded that the interest awakened by the agricultural articles of the "Albion," widely read as these articles will be over a large part of the world, will contribute considerably towards turning attention to the American agricultural journals, is the best source of practical and exact information concerning the condition and prospects of the industrial interests and capacities of the people and the soil of the United States.

There is no possession of which the undersigned is more proud than of the esteem with which he flatters himself he has been honored with a good deal of uniformity, by the conductors of the agricultural and of the general press of the country; and he takes the occasion to renew to them, of all parties, the assurance that there can be no degree of inclination to the kind offices, on their part, that he does not fully and earnestly reciprocate—Finally, to gratify an inborn propensity, and to employ the few hours of leisure in some hope of being useful that might otherwise be whiled away in frivolous amusement, he seeks only to enter and take the hindmost row in the field, content though he should only glean what may be scattered in a profuse harvest, by more stalwart reapers, in a manly contest for the lead.

J. S. SKINNER.

The terms will be six dollars per annum; but a remittance of five dollars will ensure the receipt of the paper for ten months.

MOFFATT'S Life Pills & Phoenix Bitters

The Universal Estimation in which celebrated LIFE PILLS & PHOENIX BITTERS

are held, is satisfactorily demonstrated by increasing demand for them in every part of the Union, and by the voluntary testimonials to their remarkable efficacy, which everywhere offered. It is not less a deeply gratifying confidence that they are means of extensive and inestimable good among his afflicted fellow creatures, that interested considerations, that the propriety of these pre eminently successful medicines desirous of keeping them constantly before the public eye. The sale of every additional box and bottle is a guarantee that some person will be relieved from a greater or less degree of suffering, and be improved in health, for in no case of suffering from can they be taken in vain. The property has never known or been informed of a stance in which they have failed to do good. In the most obstinate cases of chronic diseases such as chronic dyspepsia, torpid liver, catarrhus, asthma nervous and bilious head costiveness, piles, general debility, scurvy swellings and ulcers, sarvy, salt rheum, and other chronic affections of the organic membranes, they effect cures with a rapidity and permanency which few persons have theoretically believed, but to which those have testified from happy experience. In colds and coughs, which, if neglected, supersede the most fatal diseases of the lungs and the viscera in general, these medicines, taken but three or four days, never fail. Take night, they so promote the insensible perspiration, and so relieve the system of febrile action and feculent obstructions, as to produce most delightful sense of convalescence in the morning—and though the usual symptoms of cold should partially return during the day, repetition of a suitable dose at the next bed time, will almost invariably effect permanent relief, without further aid. Its effect upon fevers of a more acute and violent kind is not less sure and speedy if taken in proportionable quantity—and persons troubled with inflammatory symptoms of the most alarming kind, will awake with the thrilling consciousness that the fierce enemy has been overthrown, and can easily be subdued in the same way, visceral turgescence, the long established, and visceral inflammation, however critical, will yield—the former small, and the latter to large doses of the PILLS—and so also hysterical affections, poecondriacism, restlessness, and very many other varieties of the Neurotical class of cases, yield to the efficacy of the PHOENIX BITTERS.

The above Medicines are for Sale at the Store of Mr JOSEPH SPRATT, in Chatham, who is appointed sole agent for the disposal in Miramichi.
