

HALIFAX MORNING POST.—Mr Crosskill, the Editor of this cleverly conducted journal, has informed his subscribers that he has disposed of the paper to Mr Thomas Mosher, who has for several years been at the head of the mechanical department of the paper. Mr George Roberts will take charge of the Reporting and News departments; and the principal Editorial department will devolve upon Mr Jeremiah Willoughby. They are all Nova Scotians.

COUNTY OF KENT.—A Court for the nomination of two Candidates to represent this county, was held in the Court House, Richibucto, on Thursday last. The two old members, Messrs. J. W. Weldon, and David Wark, were proposed, as well as the following new candidates—David McAlmon, Robert Cutler, and Dominique Robicheaux. Our friends in Kent, if they are not well suited, it will not be for the want of materials to choose from. The Poll opens on Tuesday next.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.—The Journals of this Province are filled with the Election Cards of Candidates, and Editorial comments thereon. For the city and county of St. John, there are fourteen candidates in the field—six are to be chosen. In all the counties, it appears, there are numerous aspirants.

The beautiful, and highly-poetic thoughts of Publius, on AUTUMN, which appeared under our original head a few weeks ago, have been copied into the Halifax Morning Post.

The Report of the Gloucester County Bible Society has been received, and will be published next week.

Deaths.

At Somerset Vale, Bathurst, on Friday, 25th ult., after a protracted illness, in the 82nd year of his age, HUGH MUNRO, Esquire.

Mr Munro was a native of Ross-shire, Scotland, whence he emigrated to one of the British North American Colonies, now the United States. At the Revolution of 1783, he accompanied his parents and many other Loyalists, who found a home in Canada and New Brunswick. He resided for upwards of forty years in this Province, and represented the County of Northumberland in the Provincial General Assembly, for many years. As a Magistrate and Judge of the Common Pleas, and in every other public capacity, his character was marked by the strictest integrity. During the last few years of his life, Mr Munro received much satisfaction and derived much benefit, in attending upon the ordinances of christianity, in connection with the Church of Scotland, to which he was, upon principle, much attached; and towards the maintenance of which, in his neighbourhood, he assisted with great cordiality and zeal.

At Chatham, on Wednesday last, ELIZABETH, youngest child of Mr A. Russell, aged 18 months.

[There have been a number of other deaths but we have not been furnished with particulars.]

COLIN CAMPBELL.

Chatham, September 26, 1846.

To the Freeholders of the County of Gloucester,

Gentlemen.—For Sixteen years I have been one of your Representatives, during which period I have always declared myself to be a warm advocate for Civil and Religious Liberty, a hater of all the frauds of Bigotry, Ascendancy, and Exclusion, and a firm resister of every assumption of irresponsible power, by whomsoever attempted.

In respect to those great principles, you are the best judges, whether my conduct in the House of Assembly has accorded with my declarations; and, as to your Local Interests, the Roads, Bridges, and Public works of the County will bear witness that they have not been neglected. While I shall feel honored by confidence from any quarter, still, in justice to you as to myself, I cannot seek for influence or popularity by undue means. To serve the People independently has ever been my ambition; to an independent People I now appeal.

Believe me to be, Gentlemen, your faithful servant,

WILLIAM END.
