

The soldiers under my command have done their duty, and covered the honour of the Mexican nation with glory. The enemy has seen that neither his advantageous position, the broken nature of the ground, nor the rigour of the season, could prevent the terrible charge with the bayonet which left him terrified.

Another letter from Agua Nueva says, two commissioners arrived there from Gen. Taylor, demanding the surrender of the Mexican army. Santa Anna exhibited to them the state of his army, showing the enthusiasm and decision that prevailed among the troops, who had fallen back to that point, only for obtaining food. Santa Anna finally gave as a definite reply, that unless they (the Americans) surrendered at discretion, he would again renew the battle on the following day, and continue until he completed their destruction.

The Tampico Sentinel refers to a letter from a Mexican officer, who states that in many instances, there had been contests over dead soldiers for pieces of meat in haversacks, and water in canteens.

The country between Saltillo and Monterey is filled with armed Mexicans, and also between Monterey and Camargo.

EIGHT DAYS LATER FROM SALTILLO.

By the Western Mail last evening, we received New York papers of Thursday, containing intelligence from the seat of War eight days later. No more fighting had taken place, but the news we publish above is entirely confirmed. The N. O. Picayune, in noticing the battle of the 23d, says:

"On the 23d, at 10 o'clock, the battle was again renewed and kept up without intermission until half past three in the afternoon. Both armies were closely engaged during the whole time Gen. Wool advanced with a strong detachment against the Mexican army, but was driven back with immense loss. The Mexican cavalry charged upon him with drawn swords and did great execution. The number killed and wounded on both sides was very great. I can only estimate the number by the cart loads of wounded that have entered this city (Saltillo) from both battle fields.

"After the 24th there was no more fighting—the Mexican troops famishing with hunger became convinced that they could not triumph or drive General Taylor from his position, and retired.

"As yet Santa Anna has only retired a short distance, but I do not entertain the belief that he will venture another engagement.

"It is reported that a train carrying provisions to the American army was attacked and captured at Marina, by Don Jose Urrea, and is yet in his possession, with a quantity of private merchandise, taken at the same time."

Halifax Morning Post, April 5.

UNOURED SURRENDER OF VERA CRUZ. By the arrival of the Royal Mail Steamship Hibernia, we have received dates from Boston of the 1st inst., and from New York of the 31st ult.

The New York Journal of Commerce of Tuesday evening, publishes the following important statement in a postscript of its Washington letter of the 29th inst.:

SURRENDER OF VERA CRUZ.

"The State Department has received a letter from the American Consulate at Havana, conveying the pleasing information that the City of Vera Cruz and the Castle of San Juan d'Ulloa have surrendered to the summons of General Scott, without waiting for his blows. They just 'came down,' as the coon did, to Captain Scott."

LATE FROM MONTEVIDEO.

The City of Pisandue taken by the Montevidean Troops.

We are indebted to the kindness of a gentleman of this city for the following very interesting letter from Montevideo. It is the latest received:—

Montevideo, Jan. 10, 1847.

The Montevidean troops, under General Rivera, have taken the City of Pisandue, on the river Uruguay, after a hard fought battle of five hours, in which upwards of 100 men were killed, and the butchery after the battle was very frightful.

The blockade as enforced by England and France on Buenos Ayres amounts to nothing, as all the small vessels go and come with whatever cargoes they please, without any molestation. The prices of goods are such in Buenos Ayres as to pay nothing from the business, and the freights are only ten dollars per ton. Business never was so bad as at present, in Montevideo, and those who have money are obtaining four per cent. a month for it on good security: Nothing offers any inducement to engage in business at the present time, and must so continue until the besieging army is withdrawn, and we have communication with the country. There are large stocks of hides on hand, but they cannot be put on board at less than 9 cents per lb.

The besieging army give us a few cannon balls every week, sufficient to keep us reminded that the war and siege are still in existence. Colonel Flores, of the Montevidean cavalry, in the camp, has been lately defeated and cut up by Gen. Servando Gomen.
