WORN OUT LAND.

Col. Taylor, in Virginia, having a large tract of land impoverished by long cultivation, succeeded in his attempt to restore its ancient fertility without bringing any manure from elsewhere. For this purpose he ploughed the poor grassland, throwing it in high and very narrow ridges with the intention of doubling the depth of the surface soil. Upon this be planted Indian Corn followed the next year with Wheat and Clover seed manured with a little Gypsum. The Clover was neither moved nor fed off, no cattle being admitted; the first years crop rotting on the ground and that of the second year after ripening seed and turning dry was ploughed in; the Corn was then planted, followed as before with Wheat and Clover-the soil in the meantime improving, and as the crops increased he increased his stock of cattle, thus procuring a quantity of stable manure to add to that formed by the Clover. Thus he had one year a crop of twenty five bushels of Corn to the acre on a field of eight acres, which had produced but two thirds that quantity the preceding rotation, and a crop of fifty bushels to the acre on another field of two hundred acres which had produced but had better do had a least two hundred acres which had produced bu twenty five bushels the preceding rotation, but this field had some dung spread over it, as well as a clover crop ploughed in. We have in the Province much exhausted and enabled to resume my usual duties. You twenty five bushels the preceding rotation, tand which might be improved in a similar are at liberty to publish this letter in any way manner, substituting potatoes for Indian Corn and ashes for Gypsum, for ashes are ent Servant. there as favourable to the growth of Clover. as Gypsum is in Virginia. Buckwheat has been much used as a manure by ploughing it in when in blossom. On most soils a grass field laid down in good order will give a crop of hay for a number of years, if only once mowed and never pastured. Close feeding of aftergrass always greatly diminishes the following crop. When land is naked it is always losing, but when thickly covered with herbage it is gaining. Poor slate gravel when pistured for fifty or sixty years becomes so barren that even the po. Verty grass (Arena spicita, or animated Oat,) and strawberry disappear and it is overrun with trailing Juniper, but under (Signed) EDWARD ROWLEY. the close shelter of the Juniper the soil improves, and after the lapse of a few years becomes capable of supporting groves of firs, which will finally make the land as good as it was when it first cleared, for the roots of trees strking deeper than those of grasses, bring up a portion of fertilising matter carried down by rain, while the dead twigs falling on the ground serve to form a layer of mould or turf on the surface which being a bad conductor of heat prewhich being a bad conductor of heat prevents the ground from treezing earlyand from being affected by the thaws in winter. We might take a useful hint from this provision of nature for the security of roots. There are many bleak hills on which clover and timothy are often winter killed; where the grass top dressed with composicontaining a large proportion of swamp soil, or rotten sods and after grass left unpastured, or rotten sods and after grass left unpastured.

your cook does not burn it, but roast it to the color of a golden brown, and never allow it to remain in its burnt or roasted state for more than three days, as after that time it will lose its strength. Secondly in lieu of the ancient method of boiling your coffee for an hour or more over a hot fire and then being obliged to settle it with such rarities as fish skins, egg-shells, and the like, procure a biggen as it is termed, and make a distillation or decoction by puting the coffee in the apartment in which the strainer is, and turning thereon boiling hot water. Take care that the nose of the coffee pot has a stopper to prevent the steam from escaping, and cover the top of your biggen immediately after having turned the water upon the coffee as it is a most important requisite to have the steam confined. Judgement is also to be used, as to the amount of coffee required, and also to Billous Comthe quantity of water used. The best coffee may be spoiled by too much water applied to Blatches on the The coffee should be made very strong; and, if strong enough, its color will be quite black.-Lastly, having made your coffee of great strength, do not use hot water to dilute it in lieu thereof take boiling hot milk and weaken the coffee to your tast. By following these directions you will have as fine a cup of coffee as can be made in any Tic Douloureux

The time required for making coffee in this manner, is but a few minutes, the coffee being made as fast as the liquid issues through the strainer.

CHARCOAL FOR SWINE.

It may not perhaps be generally known that one of the best article that can be given to swine while in preparation for the tub ties are so great that they have subsisted on it without other for weeks together-Geese confined so as to deprive them of motion and fattened on three grains of corn per day and as much coal as they can devour, have become fat in eight days. The hog eats voraciously after a little time and is never sick while he has a good supply It should always be kept in the sty and be fed to the inmates regularly like all other food.

Oriental Turkish Wine.

The great emedy for General Debility, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Billious Discesses, a certain preventive of Fevers, & 1, & This Wink is the most pleasant and effectual Remedy for any of the adove complaints, and for many others not mentioned, that has ever discovered. It is so agreeable to the taste that any one taking it soon prefers it to any Wine; while its action on the stomach and bowe's is prompt and efficient, cleansing them thoroughly, and thus, by keeping the organ in which the basis of the blood is formed, in a healthy and pure state, necessarily keeps the blood pure and healthful. It is a stimulant without reaction, unlike the alcoholic preparations, which leave the partaker in a state of prostration. THIS WINE sends a gentle and agreeable feeling through every nerve, and its tonic properties are such that it will restore the weak and debilitated to their natural STRENGTH and VIGOR. It is composed of the Pure Wine of many of the most tome and rare Plants in the Materia Medica, the recipe for which was obtained from a celebrated Turkish "Hakim," Physician,—and one bottle is equal to ten of any Saisaparilla or Blood Purifier ever before known. Then give this Oriental Wine a trial: it will speak for itself better than any recommendation or certificate; and he who tries it once will never be without it, nothing can equal it as a Diet Drink in hot climates, or on Shipboard, and no traveller should be without it. Cantion—Find the name of Comstock & Brother, and the Stanp of the Turkish Flag, on the label and co'k of each bottle, WITHOUT this it cannot be genuine.
