

relief of Lucknow, as far as Busheergunge, was in consequence of the amount of sickness, cholera having broken out severely, obliged to fall back four miles, to enable the sick to be sent to Cawnpore.

Havelock advancing on Lucknow.—We have received by express Calcutta letters and papers to the 8th of August. We have great gratification in announcing that the statement by telegraph of General Havelock's retreat to Cawnpore was incorrect. The fact is, that on the 30th and 31st he sent back his sick and wounded to Cawnpore, and having received reinforcements, he recommenced his march to Lucknow, on the 1st of August.

There is reason to hope that the efforts made to relieve Arrah have been finally successful, and that the course of the Ganges from Calcutta to Cawnpore is free from the enemy. Troops were arriving at Calcutta, and a steady stream of reinforcements had begun to flow towards the seat of war.
