

THE WANAGAN

A College Poet

Wanagan has been handed a poem on the '11 Co-eds by Mr. Wm. Hanford Hoyt. As Mr. Hoyt is acting Editor-in-Chief, modesty compels us to withhold comment. If sufficient subscriptions are received Mr. Hoyt will have the poem published and offered for sale at 25 cts. per copy. We give a few verses with comments by the Freshettes who have seen it.

First in order comes Miss Corbett
She's Dayton's darling Lill,
She sits in every lecture
As quiet as she's still.
(Pretty work, Hannah!—L. C.)

And then there's Miss Hatheway,
Who loves to go for Cole,
And says she needs a Harold
To announce the coming of her sole.
(Be you got bugs?—Ted)

The smartest girl of all the bunch
Is Mistress Isabel.

(Very clever.—I. T.)

Then there is Miss Gillen
Who is loved by John O'Neill.
* * * * *
(Just so.—M. G.)

I near forgot Miss Zulu,
Who loves a lad named Clark—
But better late than never
As he told her in the dark.
(Miss H— just giggled.)

Next to the last is Georgie,
The darling of all the crew,
I dare not say she isn't
Or Ralph would make me rue.
(I can't express myself in words.—G. R.)

Last but not least there's Bee-Bee

Here we ring off for the little girl's sake.

Chook says she has Billy Shake "subdued" now.

Mr. Alexander's reasons for leaving his boarding place:

- (1) For the benefit of my constituents.
- (2) For the benefit of myself.
- (3) For the benefit of us both.

P. S. Say boys do you know I can leave there a lot later on Sunday nights and get home the same time as usual.

P1S1—Elsie says she likes it much better.

Former Co-ed—"Mr. Shirley's favorite song is "When you and I were young, Maggie."

Miss McLean—"Oh, I'll never speak to you again, if you put that in Wanagan!"

* * *

Senior—"Little Sawed-off (Bell) went up with Hoyt's girl Monday, and Hannah remarked angrily, 'that's what I get for not living on Charlotte Street.'"

Miss Stothart says Hannah needn't mind little Bell, as he is going to Japan as rodman on a survey.

Miss Fish, '10, translating Latin—"His beautiful golden locks—"

Prof. Raymond, correcting—"No they weren't, they were auburn."

Wadlin, figuring Stresses—"Say! wouldn't a machine do this pretty well?"

Prof. S.—"Yes, if it had brains enough."
