

Miss Clark—"St. Peter's in Rome is built of marble slabs from the old Forum."

Football Player—"St. Peter's field in St. John is made of the same stuff with some sprinkled over the top."

Janet (going to board to work Algebra)—"Lenta, do I look all right?"
Lenta—"Yes, but we had better change sweaters."

Janet—"All right. Come on."

Dr. Foster (referring to question on board)—"Just a moment and I'll take it off for you."

Dr. Foster (at the end of a long lecture to Barb and Helen)—"They don't call them flappers any more. They call them Easter Eggs—painted on the outside and hard-boiled inside."

Exchange—"Johnny Page has Directum J. again."

Dr. Foster (at end of long Geometry period)—"Now I must ring or Mr. Page will be in a rage. But don't tell him I said so!"

Miss Clarke to Keenan—"How did William II. meet his death?"
Keenan—"Oh, he didn't meet his death. Death overtook him."

Miss Thompson to Shiner in "Ancient English Period"—"Tongue is feminine gender. I think I have given you sufficient proof of that."

Hispania!!

Pom-Pom (referring to Dot Nichol)—"She can sing alto, but I don't know her name this year."

Miss Thompson—"Well, she hasn't changed it yet!"
