

Blush Estabrooks and Carly Risteen
Are running this Station of F. H. S.,
Which was broadcasting at the request
Of those, who, after nineteen twenty-four
Returned to Fredericton High no more.
At last we heard the announcer say,
"Our teachers and classmates are scattered
O'er many lands, both near and far."

At 52 Shore Street
You'll still find Minnie Black.
She's teaching music and waiting
'Till her dear Dick comes back.
For he is down at Halifax,
Plugging hard at law,
To earn a living for Minnie,
Whom he married last time he saw.

Marion Edney's given Frank the G. B.
And still is happy as far as I can see.
For a Normalite now she's running hard
To play against Frank, her highest trump card.

A social leader is our dear Jan,
Sought for by nearly every man;
But there's only one she'll take, and that
Is our old friend, Professor Pat.

I love them short, I love them tall,
But I love Honey best of all.
This ditty you'll hear Ray Forbes sing
All winter, summer, fall and spring.

On a corner of a little town,
A quaint old tea-room I see,
The owner, Miss Gunter, there you'll find
Serving wee cakes and cups of tea.

Don McCormack's a philosopher wise,
Always giving his friends great surprise;
But the greatest of all was when we found
To a hen-pecking wife, he was happily (?) bound.

Polly is a nurse in Montreal,
Nursing Ced, her wounded lover,
Who came to grief in a terrible fall
From an aeroplane far above her.
