EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN CITY SO-CIETY CIRCLES

And the Drawing-Room Talk of New Brunswick Towns-Celestial Gossip-Woodstock

Whisperings and St. Stephen Sayings. Monday proved a lovely day for all the picnics and I hope all enjoyed themselves. I've heard of a number who did, especially they who joined Mr. G. Sidney Smith and family in their annual picnic at Kennebeccasis and the picnic given by the Rothesay ladies, which must have been an unusually enjoyable affair. The Steamer Clifton took them to Darling's point, where they had, as one of the young ladies expressed it, a right jolly time.

The Bay Shore, of course, had hundreds of visitors. I spent the day at Digby, where I met a number from St. John and other cities, among these Mrs. Domville, who is at Daley's; and Mrs. Vernon, at Short's. Lawyer Kay and family at Mrs. Holsworth's; Mrs. Southwich and daughter, of Boston, at Miss Bent's; Mr. and Mrs. Haines, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Smithsons, of Ottawa, at Bremen's; Dr. and Mrs. Vail, at Mrs. Debehard's, and a number of others. The place was looking beautiful, everything so clean and freshcherries almost ripe, lots of pretty flowers, etc. I didn't see the Tally-ho, though I in use. Digby will, doubtless, present a gayer appearance when other expected visitors arrive next week.

Miss Beatrice Hatheway gave a delightful pienic at Clifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Manchester entertained a large number of friends at their delightful pienic grounds at Bay Shore.

Mr. Hammond and a few of his pupils spent the day in sketching from Navy One young lady, well known in society Island.

Miss Hall, of Rothesay, had issued invitations for a tennis party, last Saturday, but the weather proving so unfavorable, it was changed into a most enjoyable evening once that the wee cup had upset, she made

A few weeks ago I made mention of a pretty wedding that would take place in Fairville church, July 3d. I hope all who witnessed it obtained a good view of the interesting story that directed the attention pear. bride. All brides are said to be prettythis one really was, dressed in a most becoming brown travelling dress and corresponding Rubens hat, ornamented with a bunch of pretty drooping tips. A large number of guests were present. The gifts were numerous and beautiful. After the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Butt. Mr. and Mrs. Bustin took the evening train for Moncton, where they are to reside.

The girls of the High school very much regret having to recommence their studies without Miss Robertson's kindly presence to assist and encourage them. This greatly esteemed lady will, by that time, be presiding over her Halifax home.

While talking of weddings and hinting of weddings to be, I may as well whisper that Mr. Travis, late of the custom house, has at last succumbed to cupid's charms.

Miss Whitley, who has been for more than a year in New York, where she and her friend, Miss Sharp, have been pursuing their art studies, is again among us. Miss Sharp is spending her vacation with friends in Virginia.

Among the summer hats is the model known as the picture hat. This is net, softly draped with lace pleatings or puffed tulle. Such hats for dress occasions are far more dainty and becoming than the stiff and towering styles worn a year ago. Many of the bonnets lately seen have been entirely floral, and the blooms are being perfumed with the natural perfume of the flower. Very often a bouquet is fastened on the dress, matching the blossoms in the hat or bonnet, and a trail of similar flowers is skilfully fastened along a section of the sunshade. The present season promises to be quite unique in the matter of rich and varied floral trimmings.

Mr. Fred Daniel of the London House counting room is enjoying the cool breezes and shady nooks of Prince Edward Island. He will be absent another week.

I wish some of the ladies whose parlors are filled with fancy work, ornaments, milk-stools, pine pillows, photographs and innumerable nick-nacks, would gratify my curiosity as to what they do with these things when sweeping day arrives.

Mr. A. W. Carr, of the New York firm of Mills & Gibb, late of St. John, has returned to New York from a two weeks' vacation, which he spent in this province. Mrs. George and Miss Carrie Barnhill accompanied the Hon. David and Mrs. Me

The great prevalence of the color green in the costumes this season is remarkable. It is introduced on white dresses, either in velvet or moire, as collar and cuffs, and oceasionally a sash is added. Mrs. John Burpee and family have gone to Bathurst for the summer. Mr. E. T. C. Knowles and Miss Thorne were married, Tuesday evening, at the bride's home, Miss Hattie Thorne acting as bridesmaid and Mr. J. Marney, groomsman. Only the relatives of the family were present. Many very beautiful presents were received. The bride was attired in a very pretty fawn silk dress with plush trimwas told they have one, but it is constantly | ing and wore a travelling dress of deep red. Shortly after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Knowles took the train for Halitax. Many friends were assembled at the station to offer their congratulations.

There has been much laughing over a drawing-room incident that occurred last Wednesday. A number of ladies were making an afternoon call. Tea was brought in and passed around in dainty little cups. circles, and noted for her humorous proclivities, left hers setting on her lap, while relating a bit of gossip. Suddenly feeling her lap unusually warm and conjecturing at no sign or comment, but produced her handkerchief. Then evidently thinking it too pretty for such a use, she put it back in her pocket and began relating some very of the hostess to one of the other ladies, then coolly reached over and, taking the handkerchief from her hand, began soaking of Mrs. C. H. B. Fisher, Friday afternoon, up the tea from her dress, which fortunately | from 4 to 6 o'clock. happened to be black. Now she is in a quandary how to have the handkerchief returned to its owner. I ask the lady's pardon for relating this story, but she should have had more consideration for us and chosen a more gleeful subject, so that we who saw the by-play might have had an opportunity of relieving our suppressed feel-

A novel feature of the examination in Mr. Rogers' room, at the model school, was a fine display of cooking done by the girls and boys of that room, consisting of different kinds of cake, bread, rolls, pies and candy. These things certainly looked very tempting. The children met there in the afternoon and caused many of the good things to quickly disap-
