SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

AND HALIFAX

And the Happenings in Social Circles of Fredericton, Moncton, Woodstock, Dorchester, St. Stephen, Tracadie, Bathurst and Shediac.

The penitential season this year has indeed been ushered in with what might be termed seasonable gloominess, as is shown by so many deaths occurring lately. The death of the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey is only another added to the many sorrowing parents who have been called upon to part with their children through scarlet fever.

Since Mr. McKeown is now ill with this disease, and Mr. Warlock died this week from it, people are beginning to realize that it is not only confined to children but that grown-up people are as liable to catch it, and are, therefore, taking more stringent measures to stamp out this scourge.

The death of Mr. Stephen Rand, barrister, of this city, was very sad, dying as he did away from his relatives who were prevented from arriving here in time to administer to his last comforts. His remains were taken to Kentville, N. S., for interment. Mrs. George V. Nowlin, a very old resident of St. John, also passed away this week.

Mrs. James F. Robertson is at present very seriously ill at her residence, Germain street. Mr. Robertson is expected to return from England very

Mrs. Charles Patton met with a serious fall at her home, in Princess street, which will confine her to the house for some time.

As I hear the readers of Progress, especially ladies, read with much interest the social and personal column, I am afraid this week they will be much disappointed in the matter it contains, as there is of course little or nothing going on in the gay world since Lent began. Two things alone seem to be absorbing one's attention, namely, attending the daily services at the different churches, and those who have the prospect of moving before them. Notwithstanding, however, I will endeavor as much as possible to make my column interesting with the little news I can gather. Speaking of house. hunting, I hear those who are going through the miseries of it are finding great trouble in selecting one, there being very few really good residences to rent this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mackay have removed to the residence recently purchased by Mr. Mackay, on the corner of Princess and Wentworth streets. I am sorry to hear that Miss Massey, who has become quite a musical favorite in St. John, intends leaving very shortly to make her home in Brooklyn. Mrs. Simeon Jones, Miss Katie Jones and Mr. George Jones are at present visiting New York. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Corey will hear with regret of their intended departure from St. John. They will reside in Halifax. Dr. Murray McLaren, who spent a few days in New York last week, returned home on Wednes-

I hear that Miss May Fellows, daughter of Mr. James I. Fellows, is to be married, in London, very built a very magnificent residence in London, where the wedding festivities will be held. Mr. and Mrs. Cotton, of Halifax, are spending a few days with their friends in St. John.

Mrs. William Beverley Robinson is visiting her old home in Fredericton. Miss Clinch has returned from her visit to New

Mr. W. H. Thorne is at present in Ottawa. Mr. Keltie Jones has seturned home, after five weeks visit to New York.

Mrs. S. T. King has returned from Boston. Miss Fanny King will remain in that city for some time

On Thursday evening, March 7, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fairweather gave a very pleasant whist party. As I have promised to try and make my column interesting for the lack of social news, I am going to give my readers one or two hints on fashion. This is the time of year when the question asked is, What is most fashionable? I think the greatest mistake is to be perpetually attempting to keep pace with the "fashion." The best dressed women are never in "the fashion," but wear what is most becoming to their style or figure. For economical dressing without dowdiness, the golden rule is to buy the best and soundest materials possible for your means and to keep to such quiet colors as will enable you to wear your dresses without getting tired of them or tiring your friends. Many ladies now make their own dresses, and make them well; but where this is not the case it is cheaper in the long run to have a good material well made than to have it spoiled in the cut and made by an inferior workwoman. Many consider it economical to have one good dress every year made by a first-class dressmaker. This lasts longer and makes up again in many new forms and serves as a model for others. In selecting a hat or bonnet be sure that the shape suits you. Do not indulge in feathers or flowers unless your means permit you to procure the best,

For a windy day nothing is more comfortable than a closely fitting toque, but it must be neatly and well made. The most economical dress for every day wear is a dark navy blue serge and for evening a good white silk. Collars and frills are not as much worn as they were, narrow ribbons in a great measure taking their place. For those who still like wearing frills, though they crush so quickly and are consequently expensive, will find it a good suggestion to purchase good washing lace about 11/2 inch deep, which can be quilted or plaited and tacked round the necks of dresses and looks remarkably well, having the advantage of being easily removed and renovated when soiled.

as nothing is so vulgar as cheap finery.

Those who are fortunate in having old black lace veils belonging to their grandmothers will now find they may be brought to light and utilized in the present day, as the now fashionable empire veil with deep lace borders shows. One advantage in this old fashion being revived is that they hang loosely and therefore do not act as eye bandages. Persistent mischief is done by the practice of binding a veil tightly round the face in such a way! that the sight is obscured and the eyelids irritated by it.

invitation to the At Home given at the Ladies college last Friday evening. I took care to be present, and EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN ST. JOHN spent a delightful two hours. A new sort of calisthenic exercise called "fan drill" was gracefully and pleasingly executed by a number of young ladies of the college. The fan drill savors of the minuet in its action, and if only patch and powder could have been revived for the occasion, the age of the Georges would have been directly suggested to the guests present. I am glad to hear there is quite a relief Burchill, M. The spring season will open with a grand matrimonial chorus. Just think of it, about 20 weddings A. F. Randolph. have already been announced. Not a bad list for a comparatively quiet winter, and it shows that a Haligonian does not require a ball at which to make her home yesterday. leve. Our girls can do this eminently well without such artificial means, and I am glad to find that the winter has not been so badly spent, after all. I mentioned one prominent engagement last week. The rumor has been stamped with authenticity. I also mentioned the engagement of a Fort Massey church lady. Rumor has been confirmed in this case also. I have now to mention that two more Fort Massey church ladies will shortly enter the holy bonds of matrimony. The younger Miss Meynell left for England in the Sardinian, Saturday, and will be married there about the end of Lent to a Mr. Hayward. She was accompanied by her eldest sister. Miss Sinclair also took passage by the same steamer for England, and I have heard will be married there to Mr. Cyril Francklyn. George E. Francklyn, Mrs. and Miss and Master Francklyn accompanied her on her interesting voyage. Miss Henry was likewise a passenger by the Sardinian. She will be married in England to Capt. Primrose, who was recently on this station. The Rey. Mr. Boucher, of H. M. S. Comus, is here and will in a few days take unto himself a wife in the person of Miss Thomson, daughter of Mr. Cathcart Thomson. I hear that Staff-Sergt. Come with the gypsy bride, And repair to the fair, Where the mazy dance, etc. I may just as well say that the gypsy's bride of the Bohemian Girl, if rumor is correct, will not escape long, and the union of this young lady with a prominent musical gentleman of this city, it has been hinted to me, is extremely probable. I hope I may be the first to offer congratulations. I was delighted with this lady's impersonation of Arline. If I were a gentleman Khink I would envy the captor of a lady of such splendid accomplishments, not unaccompanied as they are by a dark type of beauty exceedingly pleasing to many. I must wind up my matrimonial notes with a reference to a wedding that took place in Halifax, a day or two ago, the parties concerned in which had been engaged for 30 years. The party given by Mr. and Mrs Albert Edgecomb, last Thursday evening, was one of the most enjoyable of the kind given here this winter. Drive whist was the principal amusement of the evening. There were fourteen tables and five handsome prizes given. The guests numbered about 60, all in evening costume. There were many handsome dresses worn, but as every person must be tired of reading the description of evening dresses, I will refrain from describing any this time. Mr. Edgecomb's house is well adapted for a large party, the rooms being very large and plenty of them.
