SPORTS OF THE SEASON.

The organization of the Carleton Amateur Athletic club-which ought to succeed and will, I think-was the only sign of activity that met my eyes this week. There isn't much news afloat just at present, though a good deal of interest attaches to the National league games, which began Wednesday. Our base ball brethren are exactly a month ahead of us, but we shall get there just the same. Anyway, April 1s too cold a month for outdoor sport, anywhere this side of Baltimore. Take my word for it, the leaguers would be mighty glad to keep off the diamond until the middle of May-but the cranks won't have

The Thistles expect to make the junior clubs hustle this season. They are very anxious to meet the Shamrocks, and if the latter do not have imported players, the Thistles will give them a good game.

The Thistles feel sore over the way they were treated by the Shamrocks, last year, and if what they say is true, have some reason to be. The Thistles had the Barracks for the 1st of July—one of the best paying days of the season—and the Shamrocks managed to play two games there that day. They promised, however, to give the Thistles a game later on in the season, but never did.

I would like to see a game between these wo clubs. They should make arrangements before the season's programme is made up, for I believe that was the excuse the Shamrocks gave last year.

I believe the boys mistook my meaning in saying, last week that the Clippers had

Mr. Shatford is already talking of a running meet, either just before or just after the great Halifax meeting in June. I remember how he triumphed over opposition last year and hope the same success will attend him again.

it appears on the Queen's birthday and perhaps will run the horsemen hard for Dominion day. But at all times when local events are likely to conflict let there be some amicable arrangement. Then all parties will have a square show.

Base Ball in Halifax and Elsewhere.

Halifax, April 24.—From present indications Halifax will have the greatest base ball season for years.

The amateur league has been formed with four strong clubs, which will play three games with each other, the season lasting from May 24 to Sept. 14. The Standards, Y. M. L. A., Socials and St. Patricks are the clubs. The first named, which won the league pennant last year, have lost Myers, Thompson and Cooper (who went to St. John with them last year) but their places have been filled by Walsh, Smith and Bowers, of the St. Mary's team, of last season, and the nine ought to be as strong as ever. The Social club in the amateur league does not contain any of the players in the first nine. The Socials are anxious to arrange a game for May 24, they having received a reply from the Moncton club who state they I heard of a good plan, the other day, by which the boys expect to make a little money out of ball on the Barrack square. The idea is to have contribution boxes at the gates. They think that everybody who paid last year will contribute, and that will pay expenses, if nothing else.

I don't think anybody of any principle will want to see a good game of ball for nothing, under these circumstances. All lovers of the game will not fail to drop a dime or a quarter, rather than see the junctions. lors fall to pieces; for the boys are not all millionaires, and although they play for their own amusement, as well as for that of the public, it is only fair that everybody should share the expense.

De about the time of our summer carnival, and they will probably play two games. Manager O'Brien of the Augustas, who was here with the Augustas last season, is to again see to the interest of the nine in that city. They expect to have their team in the following probably play two games. nine in that city. They expect to have their team in the field in June, and among those who are seeking published in this city at the time give 9 places on the nine are Keay, of Dartmouth to 5 as the correct result, and those who college; Freeman, of Bowdoin; Wilson, took part in the game say the same thing. of Yarmouth, Me.; Underwood and Pat- If I were to question slight errors I might

July 1 and the day following are being looked forward to with much interest by horsemen. The baseballists have a lien come together again.

Two New Novels

come together again.

James Doyle, who is to play second base for the Socials this year, writes from Gardiner, Me., that he is to play against Wagg and Larrabee May 24. The old St. John favorites are then to play with the Colbys. Doyle recommends Kelly of the Gardiners to the Socials as a pitcher, and Jordan, who played with the Colbys last year, as a

You would be amused to read some of the applications received here for a place in the Social nine. One applicant declares he is a splendid athelete, and though he has never played ball professionally, he is sure he would be a first-class man for the position. Such a number of them are "A1 base-runners, first-class fielders, and good batters" that it is a wonder why they have not been secured by many clubs requiring such men. But there is one applicant who from the record he claims for himself, would certainly want a large figure. For years, the record of 133 yards, 1 foot, 7½ inches, for throwing the ball, made by John Hatfield, has stood against all others, notwithstanding that Crane, of the New York league team, Williamson of the Chicagos, and other noted players have made an attempt to excel that feat without success, though it has been stated Crane has thrown the ball within the vicinity of 135 yards, but this has never been authenticated. This applicant, however, says he can throw the ball 136 yards, and that Crane is his only rival. He adds, "I can coach as well as pitch. I have all the curves, am as swift as Crane, of the New Yorks, whom I consider a good ball thrower." Barnum ought to secure him—for his nerve.

Your Fredericton friends, according to your last issue, were amused when they read "my accounts of the game when the Halifax club won the tournament at Fredericton." I did not give any account of the game, but merely mentioned that the of Yarmouth, Me.; Underwood and Patterson, of last year's Augustas; Pushor, Priest and King, of the Skowhegans. I have seen it stated that the management is negotiating for Belcher, captain of the Showed the paragraph to one of their indebtedness is small, and with parties who are well able to wait a little while.

The directors of the Agricultural society who are interested in horse racing are bound to make the season a success, this ear, and if possible beat last season's coord. The first meet will be May 24 and from what I can gather from those incrested it will be just a starter. It may e that there will be a Texan pony race to last vear's Augustas; Pushor, Priest and King, of the Skowhegans. I have seen it stated that the management is negotiating for Belcher, captain of the Amherst college team, but at present there is a difference of $50 a month in their terms. Manager O'Brien writes that the Augustas may visit the provinces in August. As the Presumpscots are to visit the provinces with them.

You will thus observe that there are a large number of clubs making arrangement at this early date to visit the provinces. But what would prove the most interesting game of the season is not included in the arm that he was immediately compelled to give up. Why, his arm was so sore that evening that he could not raise it

John Athletic club nine and the Socials. Two games in Halifax and two in St. John between these clubs would draw immense crowds, and the gate receipts would be large; and there is no reason why, if the games should take place, an earnest effort should not be made to have the same friendly feeling prevail as did a few years ago. It was a pleasure to witness the games between the Socials and the Nationals, in those days, and every base ball enthusiast here, who take pride in seeing a good game of ball, hopes to see the nines come together again.

That was a happy thought of the energetic Bell, which led him to introduce lacrosse. The Good Friday game proved that there is great fun in it, both for spectators and players, and with three or four clubs already organized, it has taken a pretty firm hold on our affections.

In spite of Kelly, Boston managed to win her first league game—and from New York, too! That is the most wonderful event that has happened during this age of wonders. Pretty soon the nine will settle into the old familiar Kelly gait and then Morrill will be missed. JACK AND JILL.
