KINGSTON, KENT CO.

MARCH 27 .- Mr. T. F. Curran, who went to Anagance last week on business, has returned. A short time ago he opened a store here in partnership with Mr. J. W. Walker, and they are doing a good busi-

Mrs. Capt. Andrews is visiting her friends and relatives here. For the last few years she has been to sea with her husband, but on the arrival of his ship at San Francisco she left it and came overland to New Brunswick, stopping for a time at Brandon and also at St. Stephen and Point De Bute. She will remain here till next week.

Miss Birdie Smith, who has been visiting friends in St. Stephen and Point De Bute, has returned. Mrs. Hickman and Miss Mary Peck of Dorchester, who have been here visiting the sick at the Misses McAlmon's, have gone home.

Mrs. Andrews and Miss Jean Smith spent Sunday up the country, as did also Miss Sarah Forster, Mr. Robert McLelland and Mr. John B. Forster.

Tea parties are the rage this week. Mrs. Coates gave one on Tuesday evening and Miss Brait on hear that she is dangerously ill. Miss Lizzie Girvan, who has been very ill for the last few weeks, is no better. Mrs. Hazen Russ is improving, but is yet far from being well.

Mr. Robert McAlmon is also improving. Mr. Wm. Brait came near losing one of his valuable borses in the ice on Monday.

TRACADIE.

MARCH 25 .- Mr. John Young, M. P. P., has been home on a short visit. He returned to Fredericton on Monday.

Mr. Charles D. Ruddock, of Chatham, is here on a visit to his many friends. Mr. Colin C. Turner has gone to Chatham to meet

Mrs. Turner, who has been visiting in St. John and Eastport.

Mr. B. D. Branscombe and Mr. Richard Young have returned from their fishing tour. They had Mr. and Miss Crowley of Pockshaw, are here on a visit to their sister, Mrs. Joseph Coughlan.

NEWCASTLE.

"Progress" is for sale in Newcastle at Johnson Bros'. bookstore and by Bertie Russell.

MARCH 27 .- The carnival, last Friday evening, was the most successful of the season. Manager energy in advertising and carrying out his various attractions, and I presume been amply remunerated for his pains. Among the noticeable persons present were Miss Murray and Mr. Stykeman, of Chatham; Miss Lou Harley and Dr. O. W. Sinclair, Miss Sargeant and Young Hudson, Miss Eva Fish, of Newcastle, and Bernie Wyse, of Oak Point.

Dr. Sinclair, who recently graduated in New York, is home for a short time, and is being heartily received in lieu of his intended departure for the

A Change in the Programme.

MARCH 30, 1889.

For the coming year we have just so much money to spend in advertising. We would like to know where to spend it to the best advantage. We are willing to pay $20.00 for information that will guide us.

As the value of space in a newspaper depends entirely on its circulation, we want to know what is the relative circulation of our advertisements.

We think we can get at it in this way: To the party sending us the largest collection of papers containing our advertisements or ads. alone, cut from following sources and sorted as below, from March 27th to June 30th, we will give above prize. All ads. must bear a date.

This is a change from the original scheme as advertised in last Saturday's Progress in that old papers will not count:

Number of Ads Progress..... Telegraph Sun..... Gazette..... The Style.....

HUNTER, HAMILTON & McKAY.

P. S .- As this is in a manner going back on what we said last Saturday in regard to old papers, and, in case some have gone to the expense of buying old papers, we feel bound to take such papers off their hands at the prices paid for them.

H. H. & McK.

Mrs. James McHugh, of Moncton-nee Miss White-is visiting her mother.

Our rising young barrister, Mr. A. A. Davidson, jr., paid a short visit to Bathurst last week.

Mr. John Brander, who has for years upheld the honors of Bachelordom, has at last succumbed to the charms of a winsome damsel of Chatham, and will pass into the ranks of the Benedicts e'er the roses bloom again.

It has been rumored that the popular teller of the Merchants' bank, Mr. D. R. Park, was about to take unto himself a partner, but the report is distinetly contradicted.

Mr. I. S. Call relieved Mr. H. Williston while he took a little trip to Moncton, on Saturday.

Mrs. Yeoman gave a very enjoyable drive-whist party, on Friday evening. Mr. Robert Ritchie and Mr. Yeoman secured the prize, but gave way to Mr. Allan Ritchie and Miss Maltby, who were next highest. Mr. McGillvery and Miss Harley were "boobies." Poor Mr. McGillvery!

Mrs. George Stables gave a drive whist party last evening. Fourteen couples were present. Mr. James Brown and Miss Whitlock took the booby prize-an elegant toy pistol and box of caps-with no difficulty whatever. Miss Harley and Mr. H. Williston took first prize. A most enjoyable evening was spent and the party dispersed about 12.30. Dr. Cates has gone North, but will, I trust, soon return to his favorite Hillock. Mr. Charles E. McLaggan, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, is, I hear, shortly to locate at Bridgetown. Mrs. Beek, who has been spending the winter with her mother, Mrs. Judge Williston, leaves for her home in the United States on Friday morning.

FREDERICTON'S BAD BOY.

Pa and Ma Visit the Legislatune and Snider Goes Nosing For Boodle.

Being's teacher sed we'd all got to rite a Smallwood has displayed commendable pluck and peice about the House of Assembly, which to settle down in the rural districks. But Kennebeccasis and its islands is magnifiis a big bildin' with a jale on one side and a conwent on the other, (so pa sed 'ludin' sarkastik like I spose to the impogin' structers adjinin' it.) and which is okepied with bony sinners and belty murfy and a picter of the guverner and a man with a black nitegown and a tall beaver on, and a feller with a big mustash and a long sord fer makin' sassiges outen all dogs wot comes inside the rail—fer he's in the hotel biznes so ma sez-now then, I'll tell you about the time pa and ma and me called on the Legislater and the episodes we had.

Ther must abin about forty fellers loafin' round down-stares. Ther was a man sittin' in a chare in the middle of the florecoz the man with the nitegown on got tired and left-and I tell you he was a big man coz wen he he stood up he was so hevy he bent his legs out sideways like a pare of callipers, and his pants they wasn't zacly long enuff to go round, and wen he set down he curled em up under him same as if he was goin' into the shoomakin' biznes. Every once in a wile he'd start to read a peice of printin', and then the specs he had on would fall off, and then anuther man wot looks like the picter of Bizmark wot pa has in the libery would show him where he lost the place, and off he'd start again till down comes the specs.

Ther was anuther hevy man sittin' handy

by wot used to jump up and sez he, "I move the sum of blank dollars be given to the Queen for buyin' jerseys." Then the big man wot set in the middle sez so too, and then the other big man jumps up agin and az he puts on his specs down goes the other big man's specs, and just then a brown dog runs inside the rail and starts a smellin' after boodle I gess, -anyway the man with the sord jumps up and lugs him off to the slotter-house, and that's the last I seen of that dog, but a man wot bords there sez they had sassiges next day. Then the big man what moved the blank dollars handed a check fur the amount to the man with the nitegown on to give to the other big man-I spose maybe he was a constabel same as called on pa the other day to levy for the Queen-and sez he, I move proud. the jerseys be filled with five hundred dollars. Then the specs of the big man wot sed this fell down on his weskit-it was most as big as Jim Crockit's weskit when he got home from Ottawa after minglin' with the Guverner-general-and the other big man puts his specs on agin, and the man wot has the nitegown on hands in the check, and he sez the same, -wot the jerseys be filled with five hundred dollars. Then up jumps the other big man agin and on goes his specs, and acorss the big man in the chare drops his'n as usule, and just then anuther dog, a yaller one, comes nosin' round-maybe he was lookin' for the boneyard upstares-and the man with the sord grabs him by the ears and I spose there'l be rabbit soop tomorrer.

Well, bimeby the other man with the nitegown on wot got tired got rested, and cum back, and the big man wot had the pants on wot was climin' up to vue the seen, took the paper he was readin' in one hand and the check for jerseys in the other and goes up to him, and both of 'em puts and patrons, Messrs. W. R. Rees and P. on their spees, and the man wot looks like J. McEvoy, will be associated in business Bizmark puts his on, too, and they all next week. Their store will be at No. 193 'zamines it to see if the check was genuine, Union street, Mr. McEvoy's old stand. It and just then anuther dog walks in, and is sure to be a popular place with every-lands, Hiram, that's our dog Snide; here Snider, Snider!" and with that the nitegown man hollers, "Order," and the man with the sord drops our dog, and Snider barks at the gallery, hearin' ma holler; and pa he sneaks down the back way to see fer me the man with the sord met me at the foot of the stares and lifted me outdores so hevy that I that I was goin' clear out amung the ruberbs of the town. Mayanyway, I was so glad he didn't make sassiges of me that I did not stop for poor Snide; but Snide cum home all rite, and pa sez he thinks the reason was they didn't want him at the hotel, coz Judge Marsh was goin' to put the man with the sord in the soop himself.

So I got a bad hedake now. Ma sez I got too much intellex for the good of my sistem, and I gess I'll stop. But wot ma sez is that them legislaters orter get bridels made for 'em to fit over their heds so their specs will stay on, same as the blinders on our old mare wot ma shaved the tale off when she was borrerin' flourpots fer the party.

P. S.—Up to the present time, ma ser there is no question but wot our end is elewated as it orter be.

"Messrs. Emerson & Fisher began business as partners the year after the great fire. They occupied premises in the Sands building, Prince William street, and by their enterprise and industry have built up a very large business in their line of kitchen and home furnishing articles which are essential to the comfort of domestic economy. Finding their sales increasing and business extending they have thrown their two shops into one by removing a brick partition, and now have one of the most pacious and best lighted stores in the city. Everything can be found here from a range to a nutmeg grater. The premises while affording space to display the goods and light for critical examination by fastidious buyers, cannot but add largely to the attractions of the street as well as the build-
