

CANADIAN AND LITERARY NOTES.

Turning over the numerous pages of "Local and National poets of America," we come upon some twenty-seven names of writers who are either Canadians, or Canadian born. Among them we note: Thomas O'Hagan, author of "The Gate of Flowers," Mary Morgan, Harris Colman Higgins, Adelaide D. Kingsley, Annie H. Maggeoe, Thomas F. Porter, Arthur J. Lockhart, Nicholas Lester, W. T. Vance, Burton W. Lockhart, William A. Beckwith, Charles G. D. Roberts, is shown to some advantage by his lyric "Lotos," and his exquisite poem, "Impulse," Hiram Ladd Spencer, by his "Reverie," and "Questions," Sophie M. A. Hensley, by her "Toujours L'Amour," "I Will Forget," and "Triumph," and Kimball Chase Tapley, by his "Gittin' Along," "Today and Tomorrow," and "Her Grave's Green Side." With such a mass of material, the editor might have made something, had he been a writer of good English, or a judge of good verse.

"Love thou thy land," is an admonition that, as a general thing, poets find no difficulty in heeding. The love of country is instinctive in all noble souls. And our youthful and beautiful Dominion is not destitute of patriots, whose hearts in every pulse beat true to her. Some give in the time of peace their songs and their honest labors, and in the time of peril are as ready with their blood. "Let them boast as they will," says Jules D'Harville, in DeGaspes' "Ancient Canadians," recently translated into limpid English by our poet, Roberts—(this work will soon be reviewed in our columns)—"the scenes of beauty which abound in our fair Canada, among them all there is but one for me, this spot where I was born, where I passed my childhood under such tender cherishing." Not less do many love her, who are away from her. Beyond her borders they win wealth, they honor the professions, they adorn the arts; but their hearts are perpetually returning, and often themselves return, to the bosom of the mother-land. They trust they are remembered, and not unkindly judged, of evilly spoken of. They feel the truth of words that Byron wrote in "Childe Harold,"—for he wrote truly, sometimes:

"The parted bosom clings to wanted home, If aught that's kinder cheer the welcome heart; He that is lonely, lither let him roam, And gaze complacent on congenial earth."

Yea, and even when the living beings are gone who endeared it, the spot has still its peculiar charm, and loveliness, for was it not there they first saw this passing panorama, this strangely vanishing and beautiful world! So, one who is now winning high honor, writes to me of his Acadian birthplace: "How a man can help loving his native land as he loves his own mother. I cannot see! Thank God! the beautiful land is there always! Serene, before we came, sure and undisturbed the river, and the hills, and the winter and summer,—spring, and sun, and flower, I grow hot to think of the miserable beings who can find it in them to sit down and let things slide." But our brothers will not do this, all, and forever. There is an awakening, and men can not always sleep.

Mr. Bliss Carman, as we suppose, comes to the rescue in "The Independent," where Mr. Hart's article on "Some Canadian Writers of Today" is reviewed, and where the author is commended and admonished as follows: This is in many respects a valuable and excellent paper. Mr. Hart shows several qualities that go to make good criticism. He is bold, honest, happy, and free from circumlocution. His appreciation of the Canadian writers are subtle, exact, well-considered, true; and they mark him as a sincere student of literature and a candid critic. In the eyes of the Canadian verse-writers, however, he has seriously marred the judicial character of his dicta by one omission. The foremost man of letters in Canada is Mr. Goldwin Smith, as Mr. Hart readily acknowledges. The foremost poet of Canada, in reputation as well as in achievements and power, is Mr. Charles G. D. Roberts. If there is one person in Canadian letters whose work could not possibly be skipped, it was he, Mr. Hart dismisses him with half a dozen lines. This goes counter to current opinion, and while saying much for the writer's courage and honesty, says less for his judgment. It should be distinctly borne in mind that all the younger Canadians, whom Mr. Hart praises with so much insight when he says that "they observe natural phenomena with the careful eyes of a botanist, the knowledge of a woodman, and the love and awe of a pagan," are only following in Roberts' larger footsteps; and that the spirit of patriotism and poetry within them owes its first stir of life to the stalwart manliness which achieved success in "Orion," while they were yet all boys together.

The versified enigma in a late issue of PROGRESS was probably not passed unnoticed by many of our readers. It is the product of our venerable poet, George Martin of Montreal, author of "Marguerite and other Poems," and is an excellent specimen of the lighter touches of which our ingenious author is capable. It was sent in a letter to "Pastor Felix," with the following comment: "The enclosed 'Enigma' is sent for the amusement and scrutiny of your daughters. I have no doubt of their ability to turn it inside out and expose the name, and names, hinted at. It will seem to you, perhaps, that a graybeard might be better employed than in writing a riddle. Bear in mind that if Lord Byron—as is alleged—could condescend to play with such small mice, your correspondent need not blush to be caught at like trifling: A little nonsense now and then Is relished by the wisest men. Certainly! If Byron and Samson do not abate their dignity, the rest of us need not. Of course it is not necessary to mention that the names to be spelled out are—Sara-toga.

We wave our friend, Dr. Thos. O'Hagan, a courteous adieu, as he leaves Canada to take his place as editor of the "North-Western Witness" of Duluth. He will honor that position, without question, for his talents are not small, and are of an attractive order. As poet and journalist, and a genial and cultivated gentleman, he has won upon his brothers of the dominion, who regret his departure, but believe that he cannot fail to remember affectionately the land he leaves for a little while behind him.

MONCTON.

[Progress is for sale in Moncton at the book-stores of W. W. Black and W. H. Murray, Main street.

Nov. 12.—There is not much of an exciting nature going on in the world of society at present, generally conceded fact, that the upper ten have got their hats stoves up, and their turnings going; their double session, and their front gates off, in preparation for winter.

Thanksgiving day was, as usual, like a very quiet Sunday, and a great many people spent the holiday out of town. The funeral of Frank Dupuis, late of the I. C. R. offices, who met his death under such circumstances, on the railway track, near Canaan station, on Thanksgiving day, took place on Saturday morning, from St. Bernard's church. The remains were taken to Fox Creek cemetery, for interment, on Thanksgiving day, took place on Saturday morning, from St. Bernard's church. The remains were taken to Fox Creek cemetery, for interment, on Thanksgiving day, took place on Saturday morning, from St. Bernard's church.

Dr. A. H. Chandler returned last week from a trip to Boston and New York, in connection with his extensive mining interests. The Dr. has succeeded in securing the co-operation of American capitalists in the development of his manganese mines, both in Westmorland and Albert counties. A shaft 20 ft. deep was recently sunk in a four foot lead of manganese on the property of a Mr. Steeves in Moncton, and some very valuable needle ore taken out. In the course of a few weeks the American company, nominated by Dr. Chandler, will begin operations by sinking shafts on the Steeves property.

Mr. E. M. Esley left town on Thursday for a trip to St. John and Fredericton, combining business with pleasure. He was accompanied by his little son, and will be absent about a fortnight.

Mr. J. C. Crosskill left town on Tuesday for P. E. Island, to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robb returned on Monday from Campbellton, looking all the better for their trip.

Mrs. S. McKean returned last week from New York, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. F. Williamson.

It is only too true that we are to lose Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, and lose them very soon. Mr. Talbot, having accepted an invitation to a parish in Upper Canada, somewhere in the vicinity of Toronto, but whether actually in the city or not, I have not yet heard. We shall be more sorry than I can tell to part with our rector and his wife, but if the change is for their benefit I suppose we should not complain.

Mr. and Mrs. James McAllister received, last week, the particulars of the death of their only son, Dr. McAllister, which, though very sudden, was not having taken place at Melbourne, Australia. Dr. McAllister's death was very sudden, being caused by heart disease.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, who broke her arm a short time since, is somewhat better.

By the way, there was a rather a lively scene witnessed on Main street, last Monday, when Marshall Foster descended on Mr. Stephen Ryan's establishment for the sale of the cup, which, but alas! does frequently meebate, and christened our new stone curbs by emptying a few casks of his wares into the gutter. The property was being walked up and down, like a chained lion, watching the cleaning out of those gutters with an interest far from patriotic, and a fury which was violent as it was impotent while the surrounding air was vocal with a sound which, to the uninitiated ear resembled kissing, but which in reality the smacking of the lips of the ancient toper, who gathered hungrily around and sniffed up hungrily the fumes of the rum, gin, and brandy, which perfumed the fresh autumn breeze. Baskets were being emptied heartily away to the police station, before the very eyes of those who would know so well what was to be their content, and their hearts were hours all that was left of so much intoxicating sweetness was but a chastened memory, and the prospect of a law suit.

I have positive information that we are to have a wedding amongst our young people before Christmas, the bride being one of Moncton's most charming and popular daughters, and the groom, a well known Moncton boy. So we shall not lose this bride from our circle, as we have lost so many others.

I have also heard that one of Moncton's best known bachelors is about to change his estate, and join the noble army of benefactors, in the near future.

The young men of St. Bernard's congregation, have formed a reading club, and intend giving entertainments during the winter, which will consist of music, readings, and recitations. I fancy the proceeds will be devoted to the building fund for the new church.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. intend opening their handsome new building, next month, with a grand bazaar.

Miss Allen, who has had such a siege with typhoid fever, is improving steadily, and hopes soon to be out again.

Hon. John Lefroy, of Summerside, spent Monday with his daughter, Mrs. Geo. McKeown.

The many Moncton friends of Mrs. Hubley, wife of the Rev. A. M. Hubley, of Sussex, will be glad to learn that she has quite recovered from her recent severe illness.

Miss Grace Thomson's many friends were delighted to see her in Moncton last week, and only sorry that her stay was such a short one.

Mrs. David Dickson has recovered from her recent indisposition, and paid a visit to Moncton last week. I fancy we shall soon have her with us again, and the sooner the better say we.

Last Saturday evening, a number of the members of St. George's church congregation invaded the peaceful home of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Peter, of Alma St., in a manner calculated to raise the widest apprehensions on the part of the defenceless inmates, who, moreover, had the good fortune of either their tin, wooden, copper or silver wedding, nor of any of the weddings between these mentioned matrimonial concubines, and the surprise party, and it did. But when it was observed that Mr. George Taylor, warden of St. George's, headed the party, peace folded the wings she had spread in flight, and sat down calmly in the high chair.

Mr. Taylor was observed to remain standing after the rest of the company were seated, and suddenly clearing his throat and fixing his eyes on the charming face of Miss Greta Peter, he announced in a polite speech the object of the visit, which was to present to that clever young musician, on behalf of St. George's congregation, a very handsome and valuable silver, which was presented to her, and she was naturally delighted with the gift, which is a very handsome one, silver with gold mountings and bell.

Mr. Arthur Boyd, of the Band in Montreal, spent Thursday at his home in St. John.

HAMPTON.

[Progress is for sale at Hampton station by T. G. Barnes, and Geo. E. Frost, and at Hampton village by Messrs. A. & W. Hicks.]

Mrs. E. A. Flewelling, accompanied by her sister, Miss Ione Fairweather, paid a visit to the city on Monday.

Miss Fownes, daughter of the late Captain B. S. Fownes, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Bradshaw, near the station.

Dr. Hopper, Mrs. Hopper, Miss Hopper, Miss Moran, and Prof. March, of St. Martins, passed through here on Thanksgiving day, en route to the city.

Rev. J. M. Davenport will lecture in St. Mary's chapel, at the village, on Thursday evening. Subject, "Catechisms."

Miss Alden left for home on Thursday.

Rev. S. Jones Hanford, of Upland, was in town on Saturday.

Mrs. Walter J. Flewelling went to Fredericton last week to be with her sister Miss Mabel Lemout in her last illness, and whose death was announced on Monday.

Miss Ruddock, Miss A. Ruddock, and Mr. W. R. Avery, of St. John, and Miss Thompson, of Robbsey visited Hampton on the holiday.

Mrs. J. B. Belyea and Miss Bessie Peters were in the city on Tuesday.

Among those registered at the Vendome during the past week I noticed the following names, Mr. C. B. Kinner, Mr. F. E. Belyea, Mr. E. Crawford and Mr. J. A. Clark, of John, Mr. J. Whitney, of New Jersey, Mr. A. S. White, of Sussex, Mr. B. B. White, of Shediac, and Mr. T. Furlong, of Fredericton.

Mrs. B. B. Blizard paid a short visit to her brother Mr. Geo. M. Wilson here last week.

Mr. J. Milton Barnes was in town on Saturday to visit his father who has been quite ill.

MARYSVILLE.

Nov. 12.—Miss Belle Lively entertained a number of her friends last Thursday evening.

Miss Miles was suddenly called away last week, by the illness of her grandmother, Mrs. McLean.

Messrs. Frank Hardy, and Samuel Lively, spent Thanksgiving here, the guests of Mr. Thomas Lively.

The Sandwich Club met at Mr. Thomas Lively's Monday evening.

Scrubber. Falling of the hair is the result of infection of the glands or roots of the hair, or a morbid state of the scalp, which may be cured by Hall's Hair Renewer.—Advt.

HALIFAX.

Nov. 11.—The ball at Maplewood given by the Bankers club, last Wednesday evening, proved a success in every way. The guests included his honor Lieut.-Governor, Mrs. and Miss Daly, and a large number of officers of the army and navy.

General Sir John Ross gave a small dance at "Belle Vue" last Tuesday evening.

His Royal Highness Prince George was entertained at the Halifax Club, by the leading citizens belonging to that institution. The dinner was one of the finest ever given within the walls of the Halifax Club. The menu cards contained a splendid photo of His Royal Highness. The Princess Louise fustlers' band occupied the vestibule of the club during the dinner.

A very pleasant little dance took place last Friday evening in Fernwood, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson.

The concert at Admiralty House, last Wednesday afternoon, was largely patronized by those anxious to say farewell to Mrs. Watson before the departure of the West Indies. It was also the occasion of congratulations to Miss Watson on her birthday.

Mrs. and the Misses Keith gave a very pleasant five o'clock tea, Thursday afternoon, at their residence, Keith hall.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fairbanks were at home Wednesday afternoon, and a large number availed themselves of their hospitable invitation.

Among the many small and early dances we may mention that of the West Indies, at Mrs. John Lyle's on Pleasant street, and Mrs. C. R. C. on Inglis street.

Rev. Dr. Charlottetown, is a guest at Mrs. M. R. Morrow's.

Mrs. Capt. Howe, nee Miss Lewis, has returned from the West Indies for a very short stay with her parents, Dr. W. J. and Mrs. Lewis, at Clairmont.

Rev. Mr. King, rector of St. Lukes, returned last Sunday from his long holiday in England. His many friends extended to him a hearty welcome on his arrival.

Many friends of W. F. D. Bremner were delighted to see his genial countenance in Halifax, last Saturday, after an absence of two years.

Mrs. and the Misses Fishwick have returned from their summer residence, Chester.

Dr. Forbes, who occupied the pulpit of St. Matthews church, last Sunday, caused some little trouble with the choir of that church. It transpired that the choir had decided on changing the tune of a hymn, and made some little commotion, which caused the reverend gentleman to rebuke them.

The last few weeks have passed in gaieties too numerous to mention, everyone endeavoring to outdo the other in the matter of social enjoyment. A quiet time will, no doubt, follow the next few weeks.

Home Without a Mother.

The room's in disorder, The cat's on the table, And the mischief to pay; And Johnny is screaming As loud as he's able.

For nothing goes right when mamma's away. What a scene of discomfort and confusion home would be if mamma did not return. If your wife is slowly breaking down, from a combination of domestic cares and female disorders, make it your business to restore her health. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a peer as a remedy for feeble and debilitated women, and is the only medicine for the class of maladies known as female diseases which is sold under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction, or the money will be refunded. It is a positive cure for the most complicated cases of womb troubles.

BRONCHITIS

Is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes—the air-passages leading into the lungs. Few other complaints are so prevalent, or call for more prompt and energetic action. As neglect or delay may result serious, effective remedies should always be at hand. Apply at once a mustard poultice to the upper part of the chest, and, for internal treatment, take frequent doses of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skillful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all that was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded confidence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disappoint them."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad cough and my partner of bronchitis. I know of numerous cases in which this preparation has proved very beneficial in families of so that the medicine is known among them as "the consolider of the afflicted."—Jaimo Rufus Vidal, San Cristobal, San Domingo. "A short time ago, I was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis. The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever."—Geo. B. Hunter, Altoona, Pa.
