SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

First in the order of attractions came the meeting of the Provincial Teachers Institute of New Brunswick, which was held in Moncton last week, beginwick, which was held in Moncton last week, beginning on Thursday, and the number of pretty school teachers that thronged our streets was perfectly be-wildering to the masculine mind. I heard my sisters say there were some very good looking school teachers of the sterner sex too, but naturally I did not take much stock in them.

Scarcely had the educational matters of New Brunswick been satisfactorily settled for the coming year, and the trachers and superintendents and reverend doctors departed for their respective homes, than the all important subject of education was once more brought forcibly before our notice by a concert in the opera house, on Saturday evening, given by the school children and their friends in aid of a public school library. The children were assisted by the cornet band and a few other "grown ups" as poor Miss Jennie Wren used to say, and they deserve all possible credit for the manner in which the programme was carried out. The audience, I regret to say, was only fair, but strove to make up in appreciation what it lacked in size.

Miss Thompson, kindly assisted with her band of tambourine cadets, who went through their drill in a most satisfactory manner, and the quartette by the Methodist choir added greatly to the success of the entertainment.

But all other attractions fade into insignificance beside the arrival of the dear soldier boys. The excitement began on Saturday when the Brighton Engineers, commanded by Major Vince arrived. Lt.-Colonel Maunsell also arrived in town on Saturday.

But Monday was really the field day. The morning was bright and warm—a typical June day—and long before train time, hundreds had assembled to witness the arrival of the militia. The streets were gay with pretty costumes, and everything looked like a holiday. But alas life is full of unexpected reverses, and suddenly the blue sky was veiled with clouds, thunder muttered, and by the time the majority of the redcoats arrived, the rain was coming down in torrents, and the march to camp was performed under a merciless downpour, which soaked all the accourrements of the soldiers and effectually scattered the admiring crowds who had assembled to welcome them.

I fancy their first night under canvass must have been depressing in the extreme, but yesterday was a glorious day, and the hundreds of people who visited the camp, saw no evidence of discomfort, but a neat village of white tents laid out with military precision, and a very trim looking set of soldier boys, who seemed to be enjoying themselves thoroughly. Of course there was not very much to thoroughly. Of course there was not very much to see yesterday, as the men were scarcely settled, but I fancy the camp will be a popular resort for the next few days, as everybody will want to see just what living under canvass looks like.

The firing of the royal salute, of twenty-one guns, was a pretty, and—for Monctonians—a novel one. After seven guns had been fired the band played a few bars of the National Anthem; repeated after the firing of the fourteenth, and concluding with the whole air at the end of the twenty-first round, when three cheers for the queen were given.

Corporal Cooke arrived home on Monday, and at once went into camp with the militia, taking the duty of Captain McDonald of No. 2 company, who was absent. This young officer certainly shows a very deep love of military life, in beginning his holi-

JULY 2.—The most briliant wedding that ever took place in Calais was that of Miss Emma King, eldest daughter of Mr. C. W. King, to Mr. George Olney Gibbs, of Cambridge, Mass. The marriage ceremony was at six o'clock. When at that hour Mr. Gibbs entered the drawing room attended by Mr. Gorham King, brother of the bride. There was a bash of expectation among the guests for directly hush of expectation among the guests, for directly entered two tiny maidens carrying baskets of flowers as they walked. These maids of honor were Miss Grace Eaton, of New York, and Miss Woodcock, of Chicago. In a few minutes the bride entered leaning on her father's arm, and was followed by her citizen. Miss Annie King, who was brides maid. The sister, Miss Annie King, who was bridesmaid. The band played Mendelssohn's wedding march until Mr. King resigned the bride to the care of the bridegroom. Mr. C. C. McCully then read in a most impressive manner the full Episcopal marriage service The bride looked exquisite in a magnificent dress o white royale silk covered with moussilaine de-soie hand embroidered caught with orange blossoms; tulle veil with wreath of orange blossoms and carried, a lovely bouquet of bridal roses tied with long white ribbons. The bridesmaid, Miss Annie King, was charming in a pretty gown of white silk organdie and held a beautiful bouquet of pale pink roses. The groom, who is a fine looking young man, looked radiant'y happy.

The floral decorations were magnificent, and was a labor of love from the young lady friends of the bride, who has so many friends that they are almost numberless. Palms, terns, hydrangas and other rare plants were profusely used in the decoration. The bridal party stood under a floral canopy, from which suspended a large ball of snowballs. The presents are said to be the most costly and unique ever given to any bride here. There were several checks among them for handsome sums, including a theck for a thousand dollars from the bride's father.
Mr. Gibbs presented his bride with an elegant liamond bracelet, and the bridesmaid with a lovely

NORTON.

JUNE 28.—The pleasant ceremony in the Catholic church at Norton, Wednesday morning, that united Mr. M. G. Nugent to Mistage. A. Ryan, was an interesting event for Norton where the bride was deservedly popular. After nuptial mass, Mr. and Mrs. Nugent and a number of guests partook of a sumptuous repast. The groom's gift was a splendid gold brooch, set with diamonds.

[Mr. Nugent is a resident of St. John, well known and popular. Both he and his bride have received a cordial welcome from their numerous friends in a cordial welcome from their numerous friends in

She Solved the Problem.

He--"They say it will be folly to buy a plate of ice cream this season. The dealers have combined to give a very small plate for ten cents."

She (sweetly)-"Then we'll have to pay twenty cents, won't we?"-Epoch. Cheap Enough for It.

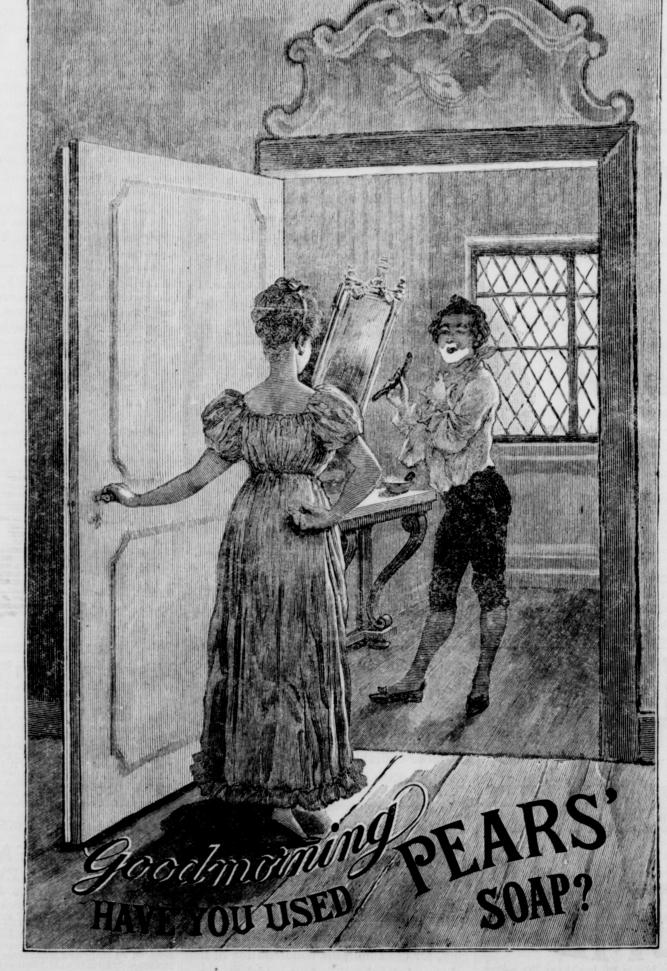

Customer-Did you say ten cents? Barber-Is that too much for a shave? Customer-Not at all. It would have cost me $50 to have a surgeon do that amount of cutting .- Boston Herald.
