July 30 .- As the ambitious little globe of mercury crawls up amongst the nineties and crossing its feet comfortably, stays there, like the sweet little cherub who sits up aloft to keep watch for the life of poor Jack; the weary and perspiring Monctonian packs up his little bathing suit and a crash towel, and hies himself over to Shediac, or perchance to Point

I really think half of our population spent last Sunday, either at one or the other of the above mentioned resorts, for the town resembled "The Deserted Village," and the churches were echoing wildernesses. Indeed, it seems to have become a regularly established custom for those who remain in town during the summer to spend Sunday by the sea, and thus brace up for the coming week.

Mrs. Baird, of Prince Edward Island, is spending a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. McQuarrie. Mrs. Baird is accompanied by her two children.

JULY 30 .- The picnic season is at its height here. There are no less than three today, and I believe there is one arranged for every day during this week.

It has become very fashionable here for ladies to give suppers or dinners to lady friends, and to take them to some hotel near the riverside, Red Beach or Hotel DeMonts, being the favorite places. On Thursday last Mrs. Deinstadt invited a party of lady friends to supper at Hotel DeMonts. They all went teachers in a large large drawn by four larges and friends to supper at Hotel DeMonts. They all went together in a large barge, drawn by four horses, and a very jolly time they had Among those who were invited were: Mrs. Ö. S. Newnham, Mrs. Weddall, Mrs. W. F. Todd, Mrs. T. J. I heard from a lady friend a description of a "yellow tea," a charming affair given by Mrs. E. E. Neill, Calais, on Friday last. Mrs. Neill is famous for her original ideas in giving parties and extertainments of all kinds, but this "yellow tea" is said to be the prettiest entertainment she has ever given her friends. Everything was yellow. The house was profusely decked with yellow flowers and yellow ribbons. Across the centre of the table was a yellow scarf. The dishes were all pale yellow, beautifully painted by the hostess, who is an artist of no mean ability. Everything upon the table was yellow. Jellies, salads and cakes all wore the gayest of colors. It was a very pleasant affair, and all the ladies present thoroughly enjoyed it, and regretted very much that their husbands were not bidden to the feast. Among those who were present at this dainty supper were: Mrs. Bradley Eaton (N. Y.), Mrs. Frederic Clayton, Mrs. Henry Pike, Mrs. Henry Burnard, Mrs. F. T. Waite, Mrs. Fogg (Boston), Mrs. Charles Boardman (Boston), Mrs. Blair, Mrs. James Mitchell.

WHERE IS THE NINETY DOLLARS?

A Pertinent Question Asked About Money Forwarded by Rev. Canon Brigstock. (From the Evangelical Churchman.)

SIR, -On the 21st Nov., 1889, Rev. Canon Brigstocke, of St. John, N. B., wrote me that the missionary working party of his church had raised some money at their annual sale, and were prepared to devote the sum of $90 towards my new Home at Medicine Hat. This $90 Canon Brigstocke then sent to us through the D. and F. M. Board, but up to this date, July 12, 1890, it has failed to reach us, and Mr. J. J. Mason wrote to me April 23 (just before I left for England), enclosing $11 from the Diocese of Montreal, which sum, he said, "is all that is at your credit on my books." I do not wish for a mement to east any aspersion either on the mestic and Foreign Mission Board or its management, but I do think it would tend to strengthen the faith of our church people in the organization of greater care were exercised that the funds committed to its charge were invariably sent without unnecessary delay to their intended destination. The Mission Board instead of being a help to my now extensive work among the Indians, as I think it should be and well might be, is, as at present conducted, a hindrance, and I cannot but feel that the continued crippled condition of my Indian Homes funds is in great measure due to large amounts given to and intended for my work being diverted in some way or other to other channels. I have spoken to my bishop about it, I have spoken to several members of the board about it, I have complained of it openly at a meeting of the Mission Board, but no remedy has as yet been offered, so that I feel that my only course now is to lay the matter before the readers of our church papers.
