QUEBEC TO THE TOURIST. SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

A GRAND CITY FROM EVERY POINT OF VIEW.

A Word on Woman Suffrage-The Indefatigable Chronicler of Quebec-The Lack (?) of Tourists to the St. John River-A Tribute to its Beauty.

The Scribbler spent a day not long ago in the historic city of Quebec (Kebec). What an inspiration to our national life and literature to have such a city! How fruitful are its annals in subjects for tale and ballad and drama! The history of Quebec is almost the history of Canada. Grand old city! the question of empire has been settled again and again before its rocky front. Almost every foot of it is holy ground. Who can but hush the jest and laugh and suppress the selfish and sordid impulses as he breathes the air that heroes breathed? That day I lived in the past. I was both French and English. I felt the glow of patriotism in Montcalm's breast. I longed for the triumph of the French arms. I saw almost through tears the dream of Roberval scattered to the winds. Who would not mourn over the wreck of that which soldier, citizen, priest and peasant, with noble motive and ambition, had wrought and bled to build? I was English too. I stood by Wolfe as he fell. I saw the smile upon his lips as his spirit passed in the pride of victory. I saw with exultation the standard of glorious England lifted above the battlements of the conquered city. Who can explain such clashing sympathies, such antagonistic sentiments? I shall not try to. But let every weak-kneed Canadian visit the granite gate of Canada, and, if he does not see the glory of our future in the perfect blending of two national spirits, each supplying to the strong and noble whole what the other could not give, he is an alien from both. He may be among us; he is not of us. He is and must remain outside of our national life.

Quebec has been more fortunate than other Canadian cities in one respect. It has the most indefatigable and fascinating of chroniclers. It is only lately that I have been made aware of the world of anecdote and incident that Mr. Lemoine has accumulated with reference to the city of his love. No novel that I ever read so held me to the end as his books have done. I wish they could be placed in every home in Canada. If any one who has never read them want new experience of unmixed pleasure, let him beg, borrow or buy The Explorations of Jonathan Oldbuck in Eastern Latitudes and The Tourist's Note-Book, which latter has reached the third edition. The list of his books is a long one. Ot those relating to Quebec, we have, in French, Memoire de Montcalm, Noted Historiques sur les Rues de Quebec; in English, Legendary Lore of the Lower St. Lawrence, Maple Leaves (three series), The Sword of Brigadier General Montgomery, Maple Leaves (new series), Quebec, Past and Present, Chronicles of the St. Lawrence, Picturesque Quebec, and Historical Notes on Quebec and its En-

Among those who wish to be in favor with the fair sex, there are many advocates of woman suffrage. Not a few of them, however, would withdraw their advocacy if they had any expectation that the franchise will ever be extended to women. Words are cheap, especially when we know that they will have little weight. God forefend the time when woman will be found foresaking her natural sphere to usurp the prerogatives of men, and lowering instead of lifting herself thereby! Every creature, high or low, is degraded as soon as he leaves his proper place. Extend the franchise to women, and the gain would be a drop, but the loss an ocean. All the sentiment with which women are regarded by men would be de- store.1 stroyed, and the only result would be a constant rivalry and battle for supremacy, a battle in which she must ultimately be defeated, and gain nothing, while she loses almost everything. Is it wise or kind to advocate that which we know will never be realized?

I have often wondered why the St. John River does not attract more tourists. I have not been much of a traveller myself, and am not in a position to make comparisons; but certainly, if other countries possess scenery surpassing in grandeur and beauty that of our noble River, the world must be wonderfully beautiful. I have heard travellers say that the scenery at many points is almost unequalled anywhere, and I believe it. The rugged majesty of Grand Falls-the hills, clad with alternate field and forest, sloping upward from the clear blue water, in which we see them reflected, the velvety intervals along the river's edge, the little tall at Pokiok and the many spots of exceptional beauty between Fredericton and Grand Falls. It seems to me that in all this we have the very cream of nature's handiwork. If we had a Lemoine in New Brunswick, the St. John would be better known outside of the province, its legends and scenery would afford material for many a volume of fascinating interest. How many matchless situations for summer resorts could be found along its banks, especially for those afflicted with throat aud lung troubles, for whom the sea breezes are too strong! KNOX.

A Hard Corner,

The age of 30 is a hard corner for a woman to turn, and 35 is still harder. She feels that she is fast leaving her youth behind her. But there is no reason why a woman should be faded and passe at 35, or even at 45. The chief cause of the early fading of American women is found in the fact that many of them suffer from some form of female weakness or disease which robs the face of its bloom, draws dark circles around the eyes, brings early wrinkles and sallowness, and stamps the face and figure with signs of ill-health. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure all these troubles, will bring back the lost bloom, and remove the pains and ailments which make women grow old before their time. Guaranteed to give satisfaction early wrinkles and sallowness, and stamps the face and figure with signs of ill-health. Wonders

Vigor in restoring gray hair to its original color, promoting a new growth, preventing the hair from falling, keeping it soft, silky, and abundant, and the scalp cool, healthy, and free from dandruff or humors. The universal testimony is that this preparation has no equal as a dressing, and is, therefore, indispensable to every well-furnished toilet. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair to use Ayer's Hair Vigor as a dressing." - Mrs. Lydia O. Moody, East Pittston, Me.

"Some time ago my wife's hair began to come out quite freely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

not only prevented my wife from becoming bald, but it also caused an entirely new growth of hair. I am ready to certify to this statement before a justice of the peace."-

H. Hulsebus, Lewisburgh, Iowa. "Some years ago, after a severe attack of brain fever, my hair all came out. I used such preparations for restoring it as my physicians ordered, but failed to produce a growth of hair. I then tried, successively, several articles recommended by druggists, and all alike fell short of accomplishing the desired result. The last remedy I applied was Ayer's Hair Vigor, which brought a growth of hair in a few weeks. I think I used eight bottles in two years; more than was necessary as a restorative, but I liked it as a dressing, and have continued to use it for that purpose. I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor possesses virtues far above those of any similar preparation now on the market." -Vincent Jones, Richmond, Ind.
