A "Society of Canadian Literature" has existed in Montreal, for more than a year, now; the objects of which are,-"The examination of our National Literature, English and French; the acquirement and diffusion of knowledge of our best poetry, romance, historic works and other writings; the provision of a centre for local literary life, and for the introduction of visiting litterateure; and the encouragement of all proper literary works and movements throughout the country." The present officers are: Mr. George Murray, F. R. S. C., President; Mr. George Martin, Vice-President; Mr. W. D. Lighthall, 2nd Vice-President; Mr. H. T. Martin, Treasurer; Mr. Geo. S. Wilson, Secretary. (Address, P.O. Box 1870.) Mr. John Reade, F. R. S. C., Mr. C. B. Brownlow, Miss B. L. Macdonnell, Mr. W. T. Leach Council. The first meeting for the present season was held in the rooms of the Natural History Society, Thursday, Nov. 13th, when Mr. Neil Warner read selections from "Legends and Lyrics," Mr. George Murray's book, now in press.

Among the best, and least costly of the American Magazines is The Cosmopolitan, which is now in its ninth volume, and excels in beauty of illustration and of letter press. It is published at New York, Fifth Avenue, Broadway and 25th street, at $2.40 per annum. The October number contains a fine portrait of John Boyle O'Reilly, with a sketch of his life by Jas. Jeffrey Roche.

The Land We Live In is an illustrated monthly Canadian Sporting Journal, published by D. Thomas & Co., Sherbrooke, P. Q. It is now in its third volume, and promises continuance. The number for October contains a portrait and sketch of John U. Gregory, Chief of the minister of marine, at Quebec. J. M. LeMoine contributes some racy "Lake St. Charles' Camp Fire Stories." Among other illustrations are New Palace Gate, and Hope Gate, Quebec, also Chateau St. Louis, Mountain Hill Iron Bridge, and Spencer Grange, Sillery, Coventry Seat of J. M. LeMoine, Esq. We bespeak success for our excellent contemporary.

We are gratified to learn from our friend, Mrs. Sarah A. Curzon, the gifted and patriotic author of "Laura Secord, and other Poems." that time and the soothing influence of a christian faith, have in some measure assuaged her grief for her gallant son, who died at her home in Toronto but a few weeks ago. She speaks of him, Moncton people were very sorry to bid adieu last true, so gifted, and so filled with a rich sense of duty. His tastes were my own, his mental characteristics similar, so that a sympathetic exchange of thought could always exist between us. . . I do not ask him back, but oh, I miss him?" As a writer Mrs. Curron has decided merit. Her verse is frequently noble and spirited. She is a correspondent of the Dominion Illustrated, and has contributed several excellent stories to that periodical. She is a very worthy woman. Her home is No. 5, Washington avenue, Toronto.

A correspondent informs us: "We are about to lose another literary acquaintance. I have today a letter from Mrs. (Sophie Almon) Hensley, saying (to my regret) she and her husband and child, Stella, are about taking up their residence in New York city. She says she will not neglect literature. I predict for her a social and literary success in the Republic." Our kindest wishes tollow our fair poetess and country woman.

The publishers of the Dominion I llustrated promise a Christmas number that shall take the golden crown, and be "a thing of beauty" and "a joy forever." We can well believe them, by the artistic excellence of ordinary numbers. Among authors who are frequently to contribute, John Hunter Duvar is named; and he will furnish one story, or more, with illus-

The favorite poet of the hour with our Canadian critics changes about as often as the fashion of a lady's bonnet. At one time-not long since - Sangster and Alexander McLachlan were the bright particular stars in our poetical firmament. Who hears of them now? So it is, and so it will be, while personal favoriti-m, prejudice, snobbery, and hypocracy, are tolerated in the shaping of public opinion bearing on the literature of our country.

Very true. Have I not the Canadian papers now, in which McLachlan was feted, lauded, rewarded? Was the debt His boat may drift, but he has no longer heart to lift an oar or spread a sail. This is a phase in our literary history we might wish swittly passed. Our liking and our criticism are shallow, and therefore capriis this compensating result, that in such minds, they are never truly outworn. faintly. The opera house was crowded to the doors, and even after chairs had been placed in the aisle, numbers had to be refused admittance. There were 65 singers on the stage, most of them dressed in the costume of the time of George the IV, and the dresses alone, formed a picture worth looking at. The dress worn by Mrs. C. A. Murray was once the property of the grandmother of General Williams, the hero of Kars. The concerted pieces were all well the hero of Kars. The concerted pieces were all well sung; the large chorus being kept under excellent control, by Father Helpwell Kemp Wetmore, who wielded the conductor's wand with power and discretion. Miss Hennigar, as "Aunt Polly," was simply inimitable, and kept the audience in fits of laughter, by her quaint savings. Mrs. J. S. Benedict's singing of "John Anderson my Jo," met with rapturous applause, and Miss Pick's rendition of the old time favorite "Cousin Jedediah," was charming. Miss Laforest sang two songs, to guitar accompaniment, one French, and the other English, which were listened to with much pleasure. The Fortune Telling quartett, by Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore, Mrs. Benedict, Mr. J. H. Wran, was one of the gems of the evening, and the "Washing Song" by Mrs. Dernier was charming. As for Mr. Wetmore's "Just a song at Twilight," it is only necessary to say that his magnificent voice was never heard to better advantage than in the beautiful song referred to. Taken altogether the concert was so successful that the altogether the concert was so successful that the hope was expressed that it would soon be repeated, and an invitation has already been received by the managers to take the concert to Amherst at an

There is a prospect of Judge Landry removing with his family from Dorchester, and taking up his residence in Moncton, at least for the winter, if not permanently. ### DORCHESTER.

PROGRESS is for sale in Dorchester at George M.

Nov. 26 .- The Seven Labors of Hercules were but child's play compared to the toil of trying to write "society items" in Dorchester in its present forlorn condition. Verily we have fallen upon grievous times and the small remnant of society still life has almost given up doing anything worthy of note. Naturally people grow disheartened as Nov. 26.—The excitement of last week was of course the "Olde Folks Concert," and to say that it was an unqualified success, is to express the truth, all too and, if not exactly stealing away, getting there just the same. The latest painful rumour is to the effect that Judge Landry intends removing his family to Moncton, and making it his winter home in future, but we shall not believe it until it is forced upon our unwilling notice.

There must be something very attractive about that muddy city, and I think it clearly proves the truth of the saying "the people make the place." Certainly its fondest admirer must admit that nature did not exert herself in its behalf. At any rate it is sad to see so many of our people going towards its embellishment.

Sackville must be looking up since I was there, which was, to be sure, some time ago. We gratefully acknowledge "Copperfield's" encouraging words, and hope he may prove a true prophet. It is, at least, comforting to reflect that, as "Jimmy Smith" says, Dorchester "has a great future behind it."

Ayer's Pills

"In the summer of 1864 I was sent to the Annapolis hospital, suffering with chronic diarrhea. While there, I became so reduced in strength that I could not speak and was compelled to write everything I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a medicine that I was satisfied would be of no benefit to me. I did not take it, but persuaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took six of these pills, and by midnight began to feel better. In the morning the doctors came again, and after deciding that my symptoms were more favorable, gave me a different medicine, which I did not use, but took four more of the pills instead. The next day the doctors came to see me, and thought I was doing nicely, (and so did I). I then took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the disease, and gained in strength as fast as could be expected."-F.
