WIDE AWAKE beginning with the Holiday Number, 1891 is permanently enlarged to 100 Pages. dard pages, radiant with new and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions. MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season, in The Century, has written for Wide Awake a story called "Diamonds and Toads." HON. JOHN D. LONG, (ex-Governor of Massachusetts, furnishes six articles, under the general title of "Our Government," for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of today. KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phrases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose." Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett. MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "Five Little Peppers Grown Up," will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Phronie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming illustrations by Charles Meade. MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrose. MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistible little folks' serial, by Elizabeth Cunnings. UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs. General John A. Logan; "Amy Roberts' Embroidery," by Francis A. Humphrey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Reppeler; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Mand Howe; "Seinte Maire College of Wynchestr," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness. SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, by E. H. Hawley of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School students—three sets of Cash Prizes. THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year. WideAwake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, PUBLISHERS, BOSTON. ADVERTISE IN PROGRESS

"ASTRA'S" TALKS WITH GIRLS.

[Correspondents seeking information in this department should address their queries to "Astra," Progress, St. John.] COMPLAINT, St. John.—I am afraid you have no redress in such a case as you mention. You know it is your manifest duty to count your change before you leave the shop. Many people have a habit of bundling their change carelessly into their purse as soon as they receive it, and postponing the counting till they get home. You must see yourself how impossible it would be for any merchant to undertake to rectify such mistakes, and how he would lay himself open to being cheated by unprincipled people. And the motto I would impress upon you is this: always count your change as soon as you receive it.

ADELAIDE, Carleton.—It is the very worst breeding imaginable to engage in conversation while a musician is either playing or singing. Nothing could possibly be in worse taste, and it is not only rude to the performer, but most disrespectful to your hostess who has provided the entertainment for you. Just fancy the feelings of a singer who concludes his, or her song, only to find the company for whose edification they have been exerting themselves, engaged in such absorbing conversation that they scarcely know when the song is concluded.

H. S. C., St. John.—I am sorry that I cannot place the quotation you ask about, just now, but I will look it up and let you know next week. We are very busy now, or I would do it at once.

HILDA, St. John.—I am afraid, my dear girl, that I do not know of a sure remedy for freckles. You know they lie beneath the first skin and are terribly hard to get at. The Recamier Moth and Freckle Lotion is said to be the very best known, and it is claimed to be infallible. I have never tried it myself, but I really think all the Recamier remedies are good. It will cost you $1.50 a bottle. The juice of a lemon rubbed on the face at night is good for freckles, I know, but whether it will remove them permanently or not I cannot say. For the other trouble—the little black spots—there is only one way to remove them permanently. Take an old fashioned watch key, which is hollow, you know, and press it over each spot, when it will come out at once; it will be a tedious process, I know, but well worth your while. Then bathe your face in warm water, in which a little baking soda has been dissolved, and put vaseline on it for a few nights. If you will always put soap on your face when you wash in the morning, you will not be troubled with the disagreeable spots. Use Pears' unscented soap and rinse your face well afterwards in clear water. I have never found it matter much whether I used hot or cold water. I will hunt up some recipes for freckles, as soon as I have time, and publish them.

KITTEN, Toronto.—What a delightful name, Kitten! It goes straight to my heart, for—quite between ourselves, I know—I love kittens beyond everything. Thin lips are supposed to indicate a cold calculating, and cruel nature, but yet I have known people whose lips were a mere thread, almost invisible when the mouth was closed, and yet who had hearts as big as all out of doors, and were as impulsive as children. Full lips, on the contrary indicate a dreamy, sensuous nature, with a love of luxury, and of all beautiful things. You under lip rolls over, does it, Kitten? and you want to know what that means? Well, I am awfully sorry, but it means just this—"suspect a woman with a rolling under lip of anything." Hard! it is not? Never mind my own rolls over like a bolster, and I have never done anything very wrong in my life. I never got caught at it, and I bear an unblemished reputation still; so we may both take comfort from the fact that a deep hollow beneath the under lip indicates a keen sense of humor, and the only earthly way to attain that hollow is by the above mentioned under lip. Yes, I firmly believe that there is more character in the mouth than in any other feature of the human face, even the eyes may be taught to dissemble but the lines about the mouth are carved there by the disposition, the temper and the life lived, by the owner of the mouth. Nothing could induce me to marry a man whose mouth I had not seen, for I should feel that I was taking a more than usually hazardous leap in the dark if I had not had an opportunity of inspecting that most unmistakable index to his character.

HARRY, St. John.—"Thou art more beloved than beloved" was said of Charman, one of Cleopatra's two favorite maidens. Iras was the other. Her name is often misspelled—Iras.

VALERIE, Richibucto.—The quotation is from a poem of Thomas Hood's. I am almost sure it is from "Miss Kilmansegg" I will give you the entire verse if I can do so without making myself dizzy: Gold! gold! gold! gold! Molten, beaten, hammered, and rolled, Hoarded, bartered, bought and sold! Stolen, borrowed, squandered, doled; Spurred by the young, but haggard by the old, To the very verge of the churchyard mould, Gold! gold! gold! gold! Good, or bad, a thousand fold, How widely its agencies vary, As even its mitted coins express Was stamped with the image of good Queen Bess, And now of a "Bloody Mary."

Pretty! it is not, Valerie? and so sweet. Try to learn it off by heart as an exercise for your memory. It was no trouble at all, nothing is more aggravating than to have a quotation escape your memory and be unable to find it. I am not always able to find them myself. BLUEBELL, Fredericton.—Keep your gloves on, it is not considered good form to remove them. As you are so young, there will naturally be many little points of etiquette that you will not understand at first, and of course you would not like to ask strangers about them. You will find it an excellent plan, to remain a little in the background at first, and watch others who are more at home in society. So long as you avoid taking the initiative, and wait for others to act first, you will very seldom make a mistake, and you can do as you see others do, without attracting the least attention. Say good-night to your hostess in an unobtrusive manner as possible, seek her out quietly, express the pleasure you have had, and retire at once. It is not necessary to bid farewell to anyone but the host and hostess.

E. M. C., Bathurst.—The engagement ring is worn on the fourth finger of the left hand. A diamond is supposed to be the correct thing, but many other stones are quite as pretty and equally appropriate. What would you think of the wide gold bands which are so much worn now, with the wearers initials in high relief letters—counter-sunk, the jewellers call it—I have always admired them exceedingly myself, and they seem to me more original than the everlasting diamond. ASTRA.

CHILDREN ON WOMEN'S WORK.

He Thinks They Ought to Get as Good Salaries as Men for the Same Work. George W. Childs, the noted Philadelphia editor and philanthropist, has this to say about women and their work. "I think a sentiment is beginning to crystallize in favor of giving woman the same rights as man. I am at all times an earnest advocate for woman, and think she should have the same salary as man, when doing the same kind of work. It is unjust not to pay them as much as men, if they are worth it; and they are worth it if they do precisely the same kind of work.

"The reason they are not paid as much, is that there are so many women that are willing to work for a smaller salary. Take typewriting, for instance. There are so many women who do typewriting, the supply is greater than the demand, and the result is that they work for smaller salaries. In telegraph offices, the same condition prevails. Of course it is not just. Women should be paid as much as men, no matter how many there are following one pursuit. Now in bookkeeping why is it that a woman gets only from $10 to $15 a week, and a man receives for the same work from $15 to $30? I presume it is because she is a woman and consents to work for that small amount rather than not work at all. But if she is a woman, her work is worth just as much as that of a man, and she should be paid as much.

"Women are advancing rapidly, and I am glad to see it. They should have an equal chance with men. The other day I employed a chemist—a woman—and pay her $1,500 a year, the same price I would pay a man. I make no difference in the salaries paid on my paper. I employ many women writers, and they do just as good work and receive just as good pay as the men. My writers have instructions never to write alleged humor about the mother-in-law, or any joke at the expense of woman. If you will notice the columns of the Ledger you will not find the facetious flings at the opposite sex which characterize the alleged humorous paragraphs in many papers.

"It is not right to poke fun at women; they deserve and should have our deepest admiration and respect. I always tell the women writers on my paper to stick up for their sex. It is almost impossible to predict the future chances of success for women. Many of them now are earning salaries equal to their male brethren. The professions are open to women, and they are advancing all along the line. They should be encouraged as much as possible."

Punch Makes An Assertion. Punch says, "The milk of human kindness is not to be found in the PAUL of society." If so, we think it is time for all hands to "KICK THE BUCKET." Here in Canada we have seen considerable of "the milk of human kindness in the PAUL of society." When Canadian ladies find themselves benefitted in any way in their homes, their are always bighearted enough to let their friends know it. In this way Diamond Dyes have been introduced and used, in almost every household of the Dominion, and in every case, one trial demonstrated their great value. Ladies, who have been deceived so often by common imitation dyes, were urged by their more fortunate sisters to try the Diamond Dyes, and today these ladies are the strongest defenders of Diamond Dyes. It matters not what material you wish to re-color; Diamond Dyes are the most powerful surest and safest dyes in the world.—Advt.
