EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN NEW RUNSWICK AND NOVA SCOTIA.

And the Happenings in Social Circles of Fredericton, Moncton, Woodstock, Dorchester, St. Stephen, Sussex, Amherst,

On Tuesday evening last Miss King entertained a number of her young friends at the residence of her father, Judge King, Orange street. Upwards of 100 people received invitations, but many were obliged to forego the pleasure of joining the party on account of illness. However, there were enough present to keep up dancing with much spirit to excellent music keep up dancing with much spirit to excellent music until a late hour. The house is one well adapted for such a gathering, and there was ample room for promenading between dances. With an excellent floor, handsome supper, and such affable hostesses as Mrs. and Miss King, there was nothing wanting to make the young people thoroughly enjoy themselves. Space fails me to mention all who were supperstant but the following were among those fortunpresent, but the following were among those fortun-te enough to receive invitations: Miss Nellie Troop, The Misses Seely, The Misses Snider, Miss Katie The Misses Seeiy, The Misses Snider, Miss Katie Murray, Miss Bayard, The Misses DeVeber, Miss Katie Burpee, Miss Cowan, Miss and Mr. J. Mc-Millan, Dr. Esson, Dr. White, Miss Katies Smith, The Misses Burpee, Mr. and Miss McKeown, Mr. Gillies Keator, Mr. F. H. J. Ruel, Mr. C. Added to the many deaths which have taken place recently, that of Miss Bessie Bostwick is one of the most sad. Accompanied by her father, Mr. C. M. Bostwick, she left for Toronto about two weeks ago, to attend the ladies' seminary there, and on her way contracted a severe cold, which ended in pneumonia, from which she died, at the Rossin use, Toronto, on Wednesday last. Miss Bost wick was, both in personal appearance and manner, one of St. John's most charming young ladies, and her death, at the early age of 17, is a severe shock not only to her immediate family but her many friends. Her father, mother and two brothers were with her when she passed away, and her remains were brought by them to St. John yesterday, and the funeral will take place from St. John's the funeral will take place from St. John's arch this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick have sincere sympathy of hosts of friends in the severe of parting with their only daughter.

The whist party met at the residenc of Mrs. Sorell last week, and is to be held Thursday at the residence of Mrs. P. Humphrey. The members who have attended this party have found it so successful and productive of so much sociability and pleasure, that they are desirous of having a grand finale when the series is finished, although in what way is not very definitely decided. However, the majority seem to favor a sleighing party, and the chances are that this, together with all the happy appendages that can be added is the form of pleasure likely to meet the approval of all.

JAN. 29 .- Society has at last thrown off her garment of repose, and for the next few weeks, between now and Ash Wednesday, will be tound arrayed in festive robes. Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Forrester will be the first to break the dull monotony that has been hanging over our eity for the past weeks. They have issued cards of invitation for at "At home," to be held tomorrow afternoon, at Mr. Temple's handsome residence on Queen street, between the hours of 4.30 and 6.30. Lady Tilley's cards were out last week for an "At home" at Government House, on the evening of Feb. 6, when music will be the leading feature of the evening instead of dancing. This is the first of a series of these musical evenings to be given at Government House during the winter.

Judge and Mrs. Fraser have also issued cards for a large ball, to be given by them at the Queen hotel, on the evening of Feb. 13. The leading amusement of this evening will of course be dancing. I also understand there is to be a large driving party some evening next week, but of this I am not at liberty to give any particulars at present.

Miss Sadie and Master Best Wiley, chi

Mr. J. M. Wiley, had a large party last Friday evening, at their residence on Brunswick street. The young people, numbering between 50 and 60, enjoyed themselves thoroughly with various games and dancing, and about half-past ten a delicious supper was served them, this being not the least enjoyable part of the evening's entertainment. It was nearly twelve before these tired but very happy little folks returned to their respective homes. Mrs. Miller had a small party last evening at her residence, Queen street, consisting entirely of ladies—the amusements being cards and conversation.

I suppose the gentlemen would hardly believe that these ladies enjoyed themselves; nevertheless they did thoroughly.

These ladies' parties are quite a common thing in Boston. There they have ladies' euchre clubs and whist clubs. Some of these clubs meet in the afternoon and have their games and 5 o'clock tea, and enjoy themselves exceedingly, and then get home in Fisher's rendition of "My ain countrie" was much admired for its swee'ness and expression and she had to appear a second time. Miss Emma Shenton's rendering of "Within a mile of Edinboro' Town," also delighted the audience. Mr. H. V. Bridges exhibited the rare power of his voice in the singing of "Scots Wha' Hae." Miss Lugrin's piano solo was well received. Mrs. Black sang "Jessie's Dream" in her usual fine style, and was loudly applaused, but only bowed in response. In her rendition of 'Jessie, the Flower of Dunblane,' Miss Stanger was in excellent voice, and sang with much expression. In answer to a hearty enchore she sang "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon" in equally fine manner.

Jan. 29.—In many ways the past week has been an eventful one in Moncton, a great deal seems to have happened in a short space of time.

The ocial event of the week was Mrs. R. A. Postmaster Reed's illness of the past week has developed into congestion of the lungs.

Petits Mots. Borden's dance on Friday evening, which was in every respect a most charming affair. It was a sort of amplified bread and butter party, Mrs. Borden having invited the Club to meet at her house, and having invited the Club to meet at her house, and supplemented their number with some thirty more guests. There were between fifty and sixty in all, just enough for a delightful carpet dance.

Two or three of the bread and butter rules were recklessly broken through, namely, evening dress was the order of the evening, and bread and butter was eliminated from the bill of fare at supper time; but the party was informal in other respects. but the party was informal in other respects.

There were a great many more pretty dresses o which I failed to get a correct description, and I will not spoil them by a clumsy attempt to depict their beauties, but will leave their charms to be imagined. I was glad to see that Mr. Borden had sufficiently recovered from his late accident, in which it will be remembered that he dislocated his wrist, to be able to enter into all the festivities with his usual zest.

Moncton people were shocked to hear of the very sudden death of Mr. E. B. Chandler, of Dorchester, which took place at the Mansard House, Petitcodiac.
Mr. Chandler had gone to Petitcodiac on business, and early in the week was seized with congestion of the lungs. The symptoms were alarming almost from the very first, and on Saturday morning he breathed his last. Mrs. Chandler and his son Mr. W. B.
