By the way, I have been very much struck by the utter absence of whist in town this winter.

Last year it was a perfect rage: two whist clubs were in full blast all winter, and they held weekly By the way, I have been very much struck by were in full blast all winter, and they held weekly meetings and seemed to think more, and speak, as if whist were the one great object in life. Indeed there were more good whist players to the square inch in our town than there are colonels in a Kentucky village. The very children played whist; and up with two or three sets of lancers and a waltz. I am not joking, this is literally true. Our future citizens are certainly in a very advanced state of civilization. I fully expect a number of them will want to vote at the coming election.

Now all is changed as regards whist, scientists

Now all is changed as regards whist, scientists say that everything in nature proceeds in waves, and I fancy it must. I wonder when another whist billow will strike Moncton? I fancy the clubs are defunct by this time, but Mrs. R. A. Borden revived the enthusiasm for the fascinating game last week, by giving a most delightful whist party, on Friday evening. There were about 40 guests, and after whist had received due attention, and several rubbers been lost and won, the tables were moved back and a carpet dance finished the evening, with a generous intermission for supper.

Mrs. Borden has cards out for another party next Friday evening, this time a dance.

Mrs. R. M. Stevens has cards out for a large dance on Monday evening; the bread and butter club meet on Tuesday evening, and on the same night the amateur minstrels give their entertainment, so the flying hours bid fair to be chased with glowing feet up to the very threshold of lent. I am only afraid the bread and butter club, and, the minstrels, are going to clash.

Miss Hewson baptized, that young lady having remained in an unregenerate state so far, owing to the absence of a rector in Moncton.

The funeral of the late Alexander McBean took place on Friday afternoon, from Mrs. McBean's residence on Botsford street, and was largely attended. The pall-bearers were Messrs. D. Pottinger, George Taylor and Samuel McKean, of the I. C. R., R. A. Borden, W. Croasdale and James McAllister. Mr. McBean was an old railway man, and greatly esteemed by the older residents of Moncton. He left a widow and four children.

One by one, the visitors who have helped to make our city so pleasant this winter, are leaving us. Mrs. F. H. Risteen, of Fredericton, who has been spending some weeks with her friend, Miss Barnes, returned home on Tuesday. This charming young matron made so many warm friends during her stay in Moncton, that her departure leaves a blank in our circle. But we shall look forward hopefully to seeing her again in the near future.

Mrs. D. B. horns. I cannot vouch for the exact truth of this statement. My informant was no musician, and as the musical element in the club is addicted to the Mikado, it may have been, "There's beauty in the bellow of the blast," that palpitated on the evening air. After driving below town, where they serenaded the members of the Retaliation club, they went to Mrs. Carr's for sandwiches, cake and coffee. After supper, there were some conundrums and puzzles indulged in, and some more singing. Mr. Harry Smith, who possesses a good voice and musical taste, sang a song. His singing would be more enjoyed if he did not wait to be coaxed when asked to sing. The club then separated, each one feeling that never had there been so much pure enoyment packed into one evening.

Last evening the club met at Mrs. Chipman Hazen's, at Upper Woodstock, where they had a delightful dance. Miss Werner presided at the piano. She plays beautifully for dancing, and marks the time so well that it enhances the pleasure of the waltz amazingly. The tables being considerably lightened, the young people adjourned to a large room, pendant from the ceiling of which hung a burge spider whose schweb of cord crossing and a huge spider, whose cobweb of cord, crossing and recrossing, interlacing and running from door to mantle, from picture frame to chandelier, from chair to table, completely filled the spacious room with a complete network of string. Each young lady being furnished with an end, proceeded to follow her thread through all its intricate windings and low her thread through all its intricate windings and twistings, until the other extremity was reached, knowing that at the farther end would be found a prize which would repay her for her many wander. ings. Each prize was wrapped in paper, on which was written an appropriate quotation, many of which were very amusing. The party, after having spent a very pleasant afternoon and evening, re-turned home about half past 10, hoping that other cobweb parties would soon follow.

elections on Tuesday. Mr. Jones was re-elected Don't Try Experiments.

Experimenting with a severe cold, now rying this remedy and then that, is dangerous business; for like lightning one can never tell where a cold may strike or finally settle. It may locate in the head and cause severe nasal catarrh; it may locate in the throat or large bronchial tubes, eausing sore throat, laryngitis, bronchitis, and consumption; it may locate in gitis, bronchitis, and consumption; it may locate in the pleura, producing dangerous pleuro-pneumonia; it may locate in the muscles, causing pains and aches, only equaled by rheumatism, or it may locate in the small bronchial tubes or air cells of the lungs, causing lobace-pneumonia, the most to be dreaded of all results from a cold. There is a right way to do everything, so there is a rational treatment for a cold, which must be cured promptly. The first result from a cold is the retardation of every secretive function in the body. Skin, lungs, kidneys and bowels, severally or all are affected. Therefore, the first thing to be done is to restore the functions of first thing to be done is to restore the functions of these organs. Because of its effect upon the skin, the old-fashioned "rum-sweat" was an excellent method to restore the action of the pores of the skin. But it is a dangerous method to use, because so few people are willing to confine themselves to the house long enough to recover, and to expose one's self immediately after a sweat or warm bath, is risking your life. In treating a cold among active people, some method must be used that will admit of a person attending to their daily labor as usual. Among such people, probably more colds, more cases of catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, cough and hoarsness, have been cured by the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment than any other remedy known. The large circular wrapper round each bottle contains simple and plain directions for treating and curing these complaints. The proprietors, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send to any address, free, a valuable pamphlet on the subject.
