THE CURLERS' BALL.

One of the brilliant society events of the week was, of course, the Curlers' ball at St. Andrew's rink. The idea was a happy one, and grew out of the Centuries exhibition which the promoters intended should end with a dance. The curlers, however, anxious to return past courtesies, and at the same time entertain their friends, made arrangements to give the complimentary ball entirely at their own expense. They spared no pains and no expense in making the affair one of the pleasantest of the season. Every curler who wanted a friend invited had only to say so and it was done. Mr. H. V. Cooper had this department in his charge, and only those who saw the clerical work in connection with it, have any idea of the labor. But he did it well.

The ball was a success and was attended by about 500 people, a list of whom appear in the following account. The rink all decorated and beautiful as it was with cosy nooks here and there was the very place for such an affair. The music was furnished by the Artillery band and penetrated every corner of

The beautiful appearance of the rink was enhanced at every turn by the elegant and handsome dresses of the ladies. So many of the costumes worn were described in last week's Progress in connection with the Centuries exhibition, and more still are to be found this week on page 12 that many of the la-dies who figured in the dances do not appear among the list of those whose costumes are given below. I have succeeded in securing more than 100 descriptions by the kind assistance of the ladies. Among those who accepted invitations to the ball

CHARLOTTETOWN.

[Progress is for sale in Charlottetown at T. L. Chappelle's bookstore and by S. Gray.] APRIL 21 .- Charlottetown has been exceedingly quiet lately, and during the past few days we have had little in the line of dissipation, excepting one concert and a dance. The ladies' thoughts all seem to flow in one direction now, along the crooked, wretched uncomfortable path of house eleaning. It may be a necessary evil, and it certainly is a very trying one, and the individual who first started that "topsy-turvy" idea should have been annihilated! It certainly was not one of the masculine gender, for no fellow is fond of hunting in the pantry for his hat, in the drawing room for his collar, nor in the waste paper basket for his slip pers! I never tried to count the big, big "D's." have thought lately, particularly when I hunted high and low for my walking stick, and found it with one end all wound up with cotton rags, and used in that fashion to rub the dust from the outside of a window pane! That is what I call stroking a good natured cat the wrong way, and 've been in a scratching mood ever since. Mr. Vinnicomb's concert came off on Monday evening last, and was, to my mind, the musical event of the season. Mrs. E. H. Norton, as usual, sang beautifully, her voice giving evidence of rich cultivation. Mr. Rodd's baritone solo was well sung, as was Miss Kate Hyndman's song "Drifting." Vinnicomb, who is a very talented performer, played "The blue bells of Scotland, as violin solo, in which he displayed mastery execution. The trio, by Miss Lewis and Messrs. Vinnicomb and Hyndman, was beautifully given and considered a perfect gem. The audience, hough, not a large one, was composed of many of the leading citizens, who thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated the affair. I noticed among others, the Lieut. Governor, Mrs. Carvell and party, Mr. Mrs. Harrison Carvell, Miss Hanford, Tremaine and Col. Irving. Mrs. Carvell looked charming in an elegant green silk costume, with opera cloak, and carried a hand-some bouquet of flowers, which was presented to Mr. Vinnicomb during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Chandler gave a delightful dance at their residence, King square, on Friday evening. The many guests were glad to see that both host and hostess had recovered from their late trying though not serious indisposition.

Our dry goods merchants have been busy for the last week opening up "spring novelties," and, all things being in readiness, invitations have been extended to the general public to visit the different irms on "show days."

In some inconceivable manner the ladies managed to slip away from the toils of house cleaning and, beautifully attired in spring costumes, wended their several ways to the different stores. I heard several ladies sighing over some English millinery, calling it "sweet" and "cute" and "lovely," and lastly, "a dear little duck of a bon-

"lovely," and lastly, "a dear intie duck of net!" For once in my life I wished to be a woman, net!" For once in my life I wished to be a woman, but only for your sake, Progress, not for my own. And that reminds me that "a wee bird" told me some of the ladies who attended government house ball were rather disgusted at my attempt to describe their costumes. I apologize very humbly for mistakes, though I did flatter myself the dresses were pretty correctly given. It was a fair one who told me the colors, but my own eyes beheld the charming figures and sweet, bright faces of the different guests. I remember of telling you how difficult it was for me to discern colors, and asked your kind indulgence, but now, because I made a mis-take and said "sky-blue scarlet" was "pink," and some bands of velvet "a wreath of flowers, you pass me by on the other side, and I am left to "paddle my own canoe." Just a word about the non-arrival of my letter last week. It was sent from my office

I hear complaints everywhere, but with whom the error lies, no one seems to know. It appears that each official in the post office "goes his own little go," and is responsible to no one but his own sweet self. for his omissions and commissions, and because the general favorite with the community at large, no one feels like hinting to him that his department is not properly conducted, and that, as a consequence, the public are suffering daily. There is no wish or my part to stir up strife among the officials, but it seems to me that a little investigation now, a putting of each clerk in his proper place, and obliging him not only to recognize his duty, but to perform it > with universal approval. I was thinking the other day how very like New York we had become!!! That city is proud of three things; its pretty women, its theatres, and its news-We are, hkewise proud of three things, our sidewalks, our mud, and the fence around Queen square garden!!! The sidewalks are truly beautifully and wonderfully made. They are after the "hill and dale" plan, often read about but very seldom seen! One minute you are on top of a hill, as it were, and the next finds you in a valley with w ater at your feet, while you come to a sudden standstill and gaze with astonishment at the unexpected scene!!! Then you have a choice as to length and breath! If you are a married man with a family, you may find the four plank width, if you are a young lady with a friend, fellow with a chum, there is the three plank size, and if you are journeying alone through life you may have the two or one plank width. made in the same intricate and beautiful design, and "you pays your money and takes your choice!" I have no power to picture the mud, for it, like the Queen Square Garden fence, beggars description! Suffice it to say that our streets, as well as the fence, are highly creditable to the city of Charlottetown, and they serve as living monuments of the enterprise, progress and public spirit of the citizens!
