Oct. 7 .- After nearly ten days of perfect weather (except the dust), we are having a refreshing and copious rain. Too much sunshine, like continual prosperity, teaches us "that some days must be dark and dreary," that we may more fully appreciate and enjoy the sunshine that follows after. These are the lessons of life! No cloud is so dark "but that its silver lining can be seen by those who

I have only one party to record this week, and that was "a small and early," a high tea and card party combined, given by Mrs. Rannie to a few of her friends, in honor of Mrs. E. A. Harrison. After a delicious tea, prepared in the hostess's well known style, auction euchre was enjoyed, interspersed with music. Among the guests were Miss Estabrooks, Mrs. Tupper (Halifax), Mrs. Harrison (Boston), and Messrs. Calkin and Paterson. I thought the latter looked forlorn, but then it might

Mr H. A. Powell, M. P. P., has returned from Ottawa. I understand that not even the attractions of our great Northwest is sufficient to draw Mr. Powell further from his home. This, while reflecting great credit on him as a family man, and paying a weil-merited compliment to Mrs. Powell as a wife and home-maker, is against the success of our popular and talented "member" as a traveller, especially at election times.

Mr. Josiah Wood, M. P., is also home once more, doubtless to the delight of his family. He must appreciate the pleasures of the home circle after his long siege of hotel and hearding home.

his long siege of hotel and boarding-house life.

Never were our townspeople reminded more forcibly "that we know not what a day may bring forth" than last Tuesday morning when hearing with sur-prise and regret of the sudden and dangerous illness of Mr. W. B. Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon the preof Mr. W. B. Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon the previous day drove to Dorchester to call on Mrs. Lane (our bride) and while there everyone who met him remarked on his seemingly perfect health and jovial manner. He was out on the evening of his return, but in the night he was taken suddenly and alarmingly illustrated for several hours his life was despaired of. After great suffering Mr. Dixon is much improved and we hear that his ultimate recovery may be hoped for. This will be welcome news to his host of friends everywhere, who deeply sympathize host of friends everywhere, who deeply sympathize with him and his estimable wife.

gram because of Mr. Dixon's illness. Though regretting the occasion of his recall, his friends feel that even threatened sorrows have their blessings. Mr. Joseph A. McQueen, M. P. P., was in town on Monday of this week. His friends took a good look at him especially, the ladies, as it would be his last appearance in Sackville as a single man.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Foster, who are at present at their medding to present their medding to present a present at their medding to present a present at their medding to present a present a present at their medding to present a pr ent on their wedding tour, are expected here next week. Rumor tells us that Mrs. Foster is very charming. If this is true, our already celebrated coterie of attractive young matrons will be given an additional lustre.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Ford deeply sympathize with them in their affliction, their only child having died last week. I hear that our sportsmen have met with much success during the last week. "Snowdrop" would remind them "that it is more blessed to give than to receive," and would like some ot those ducks, half a dozen of the plover, half of the partridges and a lions share of the other game.

Mr. Geo. P. Trites was in town on Saturday.
Miss Black arrived home from St. John on Monday, having had a very pleasant visit among her friends.

A wedding that was attended by a large number of the people of Sackville took place on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the Methodist church, when Mr. James Wood and Miss Emma Harris were united in marriage. The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. Fred C. Harris, her uncle, followed by the bridesmaid, Miss Annie Cund, and were met at the communion rail by the groom, who was attended by his best man, Mr. Fred Bell. The was attended by his best man, Mr. Fred Bell. The bride, who looked well, was dressed in a neat cost-ume of stripped woollen cloth, with hat to match. lighter color, and hat was trimmed with ostrich feathers. The decorations about the pulpit were of potted plants, autumn leaves and flowers in vases. The effect was very pretty indeed. They left by the C. P. R. for Halifax on their wedding tour.

Mr. George H. Palmer was in town on Monday.

Mr. Harry Woodworth, of Parrsboro, late of Sackville, paid a short visit to his former home Mr. Frank Black has arrived home from his duties at Sussex. Mr. Black, as well as the members of our band, will be warmly welcomed by the girls they left "behind them." Mr. and Mrs. W. Hazen Chapman, of Dorchester, were in town last week paying visits. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. The friends of Mrs. H. B. and Miss Allison will be glad to hear of their safe arrival at Cambridgeport, Mass., after a very pleasant journey, stopping off at St. John one day because of the train they left in failing to connect with the Flying Yankee, as it was advertized to do. Mrs. Allison stood the fatigue of the journey very well, and both are feeling better of the change.

In this connection I will say that several of our young people failed to be present at the Main party at Amherst last week, for the same cause, lateness of the train, much to their disappointment. They felt that like the immortal Gloriona McQuirk "there were plenty of good times in the world only they were not in 'em," and "heaps" of blame was showered on the luckless C. P. R. by a lot of our belles who had prepared "fetching toilettes" with which to dazzle the eyes and capture the hearts of the eligibles of Amhert. While several of our beaux (who forgetting the dire consequences that happens to those who are between two stools, etc.) were hoping for more worlds to conquer. They have the sympathy of their friends.

The lovely weather that we have been enjoying made driving parties a perfect delight. Mr. and Mrs. H. Berton Allison, on Thursday, drove a merry party to visit the New York freestone quarries at Wood Point; and again, on Friday, others of their friends to Fort Cumberland, at Westmorland Point. Among the party was the charming young daughter ("little Gretchen") of Mrs. J. Fred Allison, who contributed a great deal to the enjoyment of the

Mr. and Mrs. Lane and Mrs. A. J. Hickman, of Dorchester, drove over on Sunday afternoon, and were the guests of Miss Estabrooks at tea, afterwards attending service at St. Paul's church. This was Mrs. Lane's first appearance there since her marriage, and she was very warmly welcomed by

The familiar faces of the professors, teachers, and students of Mount Allison are again seen on our streets, and although we can but regret the loss of thosewho had become old friends during several years residence among us, we gladly welcome those who have taken their places, and whom we understand are giving much satisfaction as teachers, besides winning many friends socially. Miss King who was such a favorite, will be very much missed. During her stay here she made a great many friends by her kindness of heart; and helpful and obliging ways, who will always be glad to hear of her continued health, happiness, and prosperity.

Oct. 7 .- The summer seems to have been indefinitely prolonged this year, and even now is reluc tant to leave us finally, but yet to the educated eye there are signs of the approach of winter at hand. I have see three fur shoulder capes and one felt hat, and ashough they looked rather out of place last week when the thermometer was very near 80 in the shade, still they served as straws to show the wind would blow from the north soon, and it was well to be prepared for it. I have myself seen various articulated joints-of stovepipe, I meanlying around in the neighbors' back yards, and have several times been deceived into thinking the Salvation army was out for a morning parade, only to find that the music proceeded from a yard near by, where some thrifty housewife was beating the pipe of her hall stove to remove the last fragment of soot, ere putting it in place. There has been one soot, ere putting it in place. There has been one or two whist parties in town also, and the appearance of cards is always an infallible sign of autumn. I think we are all secretly relieved at the prospect of frost, because cold nights may serve to discourage the ubiquitous burglar who still seems to hang around undeterred by the very warm reception which met him at one residence on Church street last week. I cannot truthfully say that he was accorded a royal salute, but he at least received the honor of "one round of ammunition," and he must indeed be a man of straw if he escapes being seriously wounded much longer, for even a man of straw must soon yield to severe, determined onslaughts as are being made upon this luckless representative of a despised profession, since straw will burn when the torch is properly applied, and a rifle bullet will doubtless touch him off ere long, so that he will disappear in sulphurous blaze of wickedness. Speaking of smoke, reminds me that another distraction which is keeping the burglar's company is the presence of an unknown incendiary, who is helping to keep Moncton people in a state of healthy excitement. He is never at rest and seems omnipresent, he can set two fires in one night and thinks nothing of it, and he has made us so suspicious even of our own familiar triends that night and thinks nothing of it, and he has made us so suspicious even of our own familiar friends that it is no longer considered prudent to light a pipe in a friend's house even though requested to do so lest you give away the fact that you carry matches and thereby lay yourself open to the suspicion of being the "fire bug." It would be as much as one's reputation was worth to take a short cut through a neighbor's yard after night fall, for even if you should escape being suspected of burglarious intensions you would run the risk of being arrested as an incendiary. We are really living under a reign of terror that reminds one forcibly of Paris under the commune, and I am only afraid the trubulent state of affairs may deter visitors from attending the exhibition which we propose holding next week.

[PROGRESS is for sale in Dorchester at George M. Oct. 7 .- I was going across the "Corner" with a friend on Monday, when he remarked, "What is the matter? there must be a fire!" For behold many people were gathered together, even at least twenty-five or thirty. It reminded us of the halcyon days of old, when one often met five or six people in a journey to town! But it was not a fire, though distantly related to one, as they were tearing down the old band stand, and its ultimate destiny was the transformation into kindling wood, I imagine. How are the mighty fallen! and what fine times we had in the days that are no more, listening to the strains of the cornet band, that also is no more. To be sure it was a little hard upon anyone who was afflicted with an ear for music, but one need not listen, and it was was very pleasant to meet the youth and beauty of a town that then lacked neither. Certainly a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things. But let us not despair. Perhaps in the future our younger generation may again elevate the standard
