JULY 22 .- A perfect epidemic of picnics seems to have set in during the past week, and it is an bonest fact that a day without a picnic now, seems lost, and strange to say that once popular resort, the Gorge, has utterly lost favor with those about to picnic, whose thoughts turn persistently to "The 'instead. Perhaps it may be a case of giving a dog a bad name, and then hanging him, because there have been a great many witticisms levelled at the unoffending heads of those starting out for a at the unoffending heads of those statum out lovely day's pleasure and refreshment at that most lovely spot; and the connection between an al fresco collation, and the name of the place selected to consume it, has been frequently and feelingly alluded to. Suppose we enact a bye-law—Moncton is strong to "The on bye-laws—have the name changed to "The Vale," and see what the result will be.

A very gay party, chaperoned by Mrs. C. W. Bradley, went down the river last Wednesday to spend the day at "The Rocks." There were between fifteen and twenty young people in which the angelic sex were largely predominent, and they had an exceedingly jolly time; but to those, who, like the writer, consider pleasure inseparable from comfort, the unhallowed hour of starting would have been the death blow of the whole expedition. Of course if one goes on a river excursion it is the correct thing to pay some attention to the tide, else unpleasant results may follow, in the way of getting stuck fast on a mud bank, but the man, or woman who would arise from a downy couch at five o'clock, insult their interior correct by forcing o'clock, insult their interior economy by forcing it to begin work on an early breakfast at half past, and finally embark on a cold, damp river in the chilly dawn of six o'clock, must, indeed, be fond of taking their pleasure hard. And yet they one and all declare that they spent a delightful day! I Suppose I must be lazy.

Yesterday another private picnic went down to The Rocks. It was given by the Mayor and Mrs. Sumner, and the guests numbered nearly 60. They embarked at ten in the morning and returned by embarked at ten in the morning and returned by moonlight, spending a most enjoyable day. There were, I believe, two other private picnics to Point du Chene, not to speak of public ones, ad histum; but to my mind the most delightful outing of all will be that of a party which left town last Saturday morning, composed entirely of the sex which enjoys itself—and swears. It was composed of Messrs. H.
A. Whitney, I. W. Binney, R. A. Borden, J. L.
Harris, G. B. Willett, E. W. Jarvis, of Moncton;
Mr. R. Dustan, of Halifax, and others. These ardent sportsmen, who are all members of the recently formed fishing club, went by rail to Point du Chene, where their yacht awaited them; and proceeded by water to Bathurst, where they will spend a week fishing on the Tweedie Brook. A ghastly report was in circulation the day after their departure, that through some misunderstanding the medicine chest which they had provided in case of colds or drowning accidents, suspended animation, etc., had been left behind, but I believe it to be utterly without foundation, as most of the party are veteran sports-

Miss Bruce left town on Wednesday evening for Montreal, to spend a fortnight with friends. Mr. Hugh Hooper, who has been spending a month at Weldford, returned to Moncton last week.

Miss Cougle of Washington, who has been visiting Miss Harris, left Moncton on Monday, to the great regret of the numerous friends she has made during her stay in our town.

Capt. Dernier's many friends will be glad to hear that he has finally parted from his fickle mistress the sea, and decided to remain on dry land—if Moncton mud can be called dry-for the remainder of his life. Capt. Dernier reached town on Saturday, and will reside in Moncton for the future. The Misses Nellie and Russie Croasdale are spending a few weeks in Alma, Albert county. Miss Harley of Newcastle, spent a few days with the Misses McKean, last week.

Forbes, merchant, of Main street, who died on Saturday evening of paralysis, took place yesterday afternoon from his son's residence on Steadman street, and was very largely attended. The pall bearers were Messrs. Ezekiel Taylor, J. W. Oulton, A. E. Chapman, Thos. Fleetwood, Edward Tweedie and E. Price. Revs. Mr. Read and Prince of the convicted the convicted the power and the bear and Prince conducted the services at the house and grave. Mr. Forbes was one of the oldest residents of Moncton, and very greatly esteemed.

A number of friends gave Captain and Mrs. Dernier, a very pleasant surprise, on Monday evening, the tenth anniversary of their wedding. Between 50 and 60, youths, maidens, matrons and benedicts, arrived shortly after eight o'clock, and after informing the bride and groom of ten years ago, that they were the guests of the evening, with a large number of hosts, they took entire charge of the house. Among the many beautiful and valuable presents of which Captain and Mrs. Dernier were made the recipients, was a very handsome rattan chair, from the choir of the methodist church, of which Mrs. Dernier has been a member for some years. The evening was spent in music, dancing and games, a most appetizing supper being served shortly after ten

Rev. Mr. Read, the new pastor of the methodist church, entered formally upon his charge on Sunday last, preaching to large congregations both morning and evening, addressing a few words of friendly greeting to his new congregation after the sermon in the evening.

Moncton is certainly looking its very best just now, and strangers visiting our little city for the first time, and accustomed to hearing about "The Smoky Town," and the bog hole, which grows nothing but mud, are astonished when they see the streets which in some places are overseed by trees, the handsome houses, velvet arched by trees, the handsome houses, velvet lawns, and above all the flower gardens. All the streets have carefully cultivated trees on each side, the grass is kept carefully cut, and altogether, Moncton in June and July is rather a trim looking little city, for though nature has done little for us in the way of beauty we have called art to our aid in every way in our power, and the result is really not too bad, though of course we don't pretend to vie with Domeharton as vert with Dorchester as yet.

HOULTON, ME.

JULY 21.—With the arrival of our summer visitors, we are anticipating the usual outdoor festivities, which are rather late in beginning this season. On Friday evening, Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Nevers entertained a few friends very pleasantly. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Briggs, Miss McIntyre, Miss Perks, Miss Wetmore, Miss Newhous, Miss Laura Wetmore, Miss Madigan, Miss Josephine Madigan, Mr. Harris, Mr. A. W. Madigan, Mr. John Putnam, Mr. J. K. Queer world! Queer people! Here are men and women by thousands suffering from all sorts of diseases, bearing all manners of pain, spending their all on physicians and "getting no better, but rather worse," when right at hand there's a remedy which says it can help them because it's helped thousands like them. "A pother patent medicine adver-

The way is this: You pay your druggist $1.00 for a bottle. You read the directions, and you follow them. You get better, or you don't. If you do, you buy another bottle, and perhaps another. If you don't get better, you get your money back. And the queer thing is that so many people are willing to be sick when the remedy's so near at hand. ing to be sick when the remedy's so near at hand.

Shineff, Norton, Habberley, Snowball, Fisher, Bruce, Collinson, Jones, Neales and several others.

Availing themselves of Mrs. Hutchison's kind invitation, a number of her young friends attended a most enjoyable sail in the Sarcelle on Saturday afternoon of last week. The party proceeded up the Norih-West, and then up the S. W. branch of the river, stopping at Millerton for a short time and enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. J. C. Miller. The return trip was made by moonlight. The young ladies present were Miss Shineff (Boston), Miss Bond, Miss Pierce, Miss Murray, Miss Jennie Shineff and Miss Hazen, together with a number of Mrs. Hutchison's married friends.

On Monday evening, by invitation of Miss Habberley and Miss Shineff, a number of their friends enjoyed a sail to Newcastle. Returning at 8.30, they repaired to the residence of Miss Shineff and enjoyed the rest of the evening dancing.

NEWCASTLE.

July 22 .- Two more parties to tell about; really we are getting quite gay in this little shiretown. The first at Mrs. Ed. Sinclair's, on Thursday last. Their charming country residence is seen to advantage on a summer evening, and last Thursday was no exception. Dancing was kept up with interest, and a most enjoyable evening spent. Mrs. J. W. Davidson gave a large dance Friday night. With such a kind and amiable hostess it is hardly necessary to add that everyone enjoyed themselves. Among so many fair women it was hard to decide the belleship. But I think that honor must fall to the lot of Miss Flossie Sinclair.

It has all the strong points of the "Remington;" all the good points of the "Caligraph," and many advantages not found in any other machine that I am acquainted with. I cannot enumerate all the things I like about the machine, but every one who uses it will appreciate the easy but every one who uses it will appreciate the easy touch, the mechanical perfection, and the ease with which the writing may be inspected and errors on any part of the page corrected. On the whole I am convinced that the "Premier" well merits the name that has been given it.

[Progress is for sale at Amherst, by George Douglas, at the Western Union Telegraph office.] JULY 22.-There were so many pleasant social events crowded into last week, it is almost impossible to say which was the most enjoyable. I think, however, the delightful party given by Mr. and Mrs. Townshend, on Thursday evening, at their hospitable residence will stand at the head of the list. It was a brilliant gathering of about 80 guests, who were charmingly entertained by an admirable host and hostess. I cannot do justice to the exquisite toilettes, so will not attempt it. Mrs. Townshend wore black lace. The belleship rests between Miss Winnie Fighe, who wore pink satin, and Miss Nellie Moore, also in a pretty pink toilette. They press each other so closely that it is almost a tie. Rev. Mr. Morrison, of Dartmouth, officiated in St. Stephen's church on Sunday last in the absence of the pastor.

with on the way to Norfolk to be able to walk, but I hope we will soon see him about again. Miss Locke accompanied them; she has been visiting a sister at Brooklyn, N. Y. On Monday quite a number of people went to Blue beach in the steamer Avon, where they indulged in the rural festivity known as a picnic. As far as I can hear it was not attended with more than the ordinary amount of discomfort. Last Friday evening was celebrated by a moonlight excursion upon the Avon river, which then happened to have some water in it. It is not often happened to have some water in it. It is not often that the moon and the tide combine together to make an evening on the water possible, so every opportunity should be seized eagerly. The band played and the moon shone, and those who were so minded took their best girl and festivity reigned. We have quite another kind of rain today, as a little tribute to the court, the elements seldom fail in that respect whenever the law of the land is being meted out in Windsor. Perhaps it is to prevent the lawyers from feeling too hilarious.

passed through this evening on the way to the Church of England infirmary at Halifax.

Mrs. S. E. Gourley is expected in Windsor tomorrow.

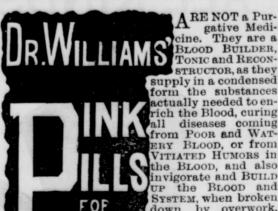

Mrs. B. S. Knowles, who has been visiting her at Truro, will return at the same time.

I see that the Truro correspondent got a little mixed over Mrs. Knowles. I saw that "Miss Mc-Lellan" was visiting her sister, Mrs. Gourley. Probably when Mrs. Knowles went down town the next day, wheeling a carriage with a very fine specimen of babyhood in it, the mistake was discov-

There will be a luncheon tomorrow in the Sunday school house to celebrate Dr. Mavnard's jubilee. It will be fifty years on that day since he was ordained a clergyman of the church of England. There will be many clergymen present, and the luncheon will be served by the ladies of the congregation, who will act as waitresses. The very rev. dean Gilpin was to have preached in Christ church in the evening, but he is unfortunately not well enough to be present. It is expected that Dr. Partridge will
