JULY 15 .- The midsummer lull, which has brooded over us for so long, was broken last week, in a very pleasant manner by two parties. The first, which took place on Wednesday evening, was given by Mrs. Samuel McKean, in honor of her American guests, the Misses Milliken, of Eastport, Me. It was modestly termed a little dance, but as there were about 50 guests, it could scarcely be called small. Dancing was of course the amusement of the evening, and the unexpected coolness of the evening prevented the exercise from degenerating into a toil, which is so apt to be the case in summer-"Ravenwood," with its extensive grounds, is a very delightful house for a summer party, and though the rain which fell during the day made rambling on the lawn or in the shrubbery an impossibility for feet shod in satin or kid slippers, the balcony and veranda went a long way towards filling the aching void. it is scarcely necessary to say what a kind host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. McKean are, for all who have ever enjoyed their hospitality must retain a grateful remembrance of their kindness; therefore it is sufficient to say that their guests enjoyed themselves thoroughly. A number of the dresses were fresh and bright enough to merit description, and I am only sorry that I have not a complete list of

The hostess herself wore a very handsome dress f black silk.

Miss Annie Wright wore a lovely costume of cream colored satin, with natural flowers.

Miss Cooke looked charming in a dress of white India silk, with bodice and trimming of figured Miss Crosskill wore cream colored brocade, and looked like a tall, fair lily.

Miss Stronach wore white embroidered muslin with natural flowers, and looked, as she always does, very charming.

Miss Sarah Stronach wore embroidered white muslin, with maize colored sash. Miss Harris wore heliotrope cashmere, trimmed with wine colored velvet, with court train. Miss Milliken wore pearl colored cashmere, trimmed with scarlet silk.

Miss Maude Duffy wore cream colored muslin, with natural flowers.

Miss Edith Holstead wore poppy red cashmere.

Miss Foster, who is a small, bright brunette, looked very fascinating in white embroidered muslin with scarlet sash. Miss Robertson wore a very effective costume, a combination of pale blue, and red cashmere. Miss Milliken, of Eastport, wore a beautiful costume of cream colored satin. Miss Louise Milliken wore grey silk. Miss McKean, wore geranium red cashmere, Miss Addie McKean, wore black lace with yellow Miss Maggie McKean, wore brown silk with cream colored trimmings.

All the young ladies looked so well that conferring the degree of belleship would be a difficult task, though I did hear Miss Cooke spoken of as having On Thursday evening, Mrs. E. M. Estey gave a card party, chiefly for married people, which though small, was thoroughly enjoyable. Moncton people were glad to see Mr. J. J. Taylor back in town last week. Mr. Taylor spent a week with his father, Mr. George Taylor, of the I. C. R. Mrs. John A. Mr. R. W. Hewson is spending a few days vacation in Dorchester.

Miss Campbell paid a short visit to Sackville last week, spending Sunday and Monday in that breezy village, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Parson. Rev. Geo. M. Campbell preached his farewell sermon in the methodist church on Sunday evening to an immense congregation, all the aisles of the church being filled with chairs. I am sorry to say that Mr. and Mrs. Campbell leave us tomorrow for St. John. Mr. Campbell has been appointed to the pastorate of the Exmouth street church. At the close of the meeting of the Epsworth league last week, Mr. Harvey Atkinson presented Mr. and Mrs. Campbell with a very handsome oak rocking chair and table as a slight token of the esteem in which they are held by the members of the league.

The question naturally arises in one's mind, as to what those Moncton people who are spending the summer on the other side of the river are going to do during the proposed repairs on the Petitcodiac bridges. Their position will be decidedly un-

Railway depot Canada News Co., - - -"All things comes to him who will but wait." I think we people of Halifax must, in remembering this old truism, have been sustained through all that weary time of fog and rain and chill east wind, waiting patiently for better things, until, at length and at last, "after many days," came the reward. Out shone the sun, which has beamed so brightly on us ever since that we are tempted to hope the fine weather may continue, at least, until the next change of the moon. I know you are longing to ask when I am going to cease haranguing about the weather? The only subject of interest to my readers in this letter is, I am well aware, society. its sayings and its doings. I am coming to that presently, and this week I have quite a budget, for we have been very gay. But permit me to say just one word more on the subject of my pet hobby—the weather. You understand as well as I do, how much more successful are those "at homes" upon which the sun shines, than those, several of which were given during the past weeks, when everybody went in old gowns, obliged to crush through stuffy, crowded rooms, not daring to venture out into the spacious gardens, having been forewarned by a few daring spirits who ventured on the tennis court, returning with bedraggled skirts as a reward for the venture. Then, what is a picnic without the genial sunshine. Tennis parties are out of the question, and boating is not to be thought of. Having given my argument due consideration, I feel assured your judgment will be that in order to render any entertainment thoroughly successful it is Just when everybody began to take it for granted that Halifax, or more correctly society, would be very dull throughout the entire season, lo and behold, it like a capricious woman, suddenly decided to be very gay. During the last ten days or there-abouts, invitation after invitation has followed so rapidly that several fair dovotees are already becoming quite blaze, longing for rest and quiet, or a change of scene. One girl told me only yesterday that she was perfectly worn out, and would give anything for a breath of country air, or some rural spot where she might snatch one whole day's rest. I wonder, if she is so very weary, that she doesn't go. But in society it is considered such bad form to wonder or be surprised at anything, that in my letter I am bound to follow Chesterfield.

On Tuesday, a week ago, Mrs. James Thompson gave a delightful dance at "Fernwood." A large assemblage of the very best people were present. The rooms were perhaps a little too crowded, but at an affair of this kind especially while the ships are an affair of this kind especially while the ships are here, it is scarcely to be avoided without giving umbrage to I couldn't begin to tell how many of your acquaintance.

There was a small reception at Bellevue on Wednesday, at which Sir John Ross introduced his niece, Miss Copeland. The reception though small was very select, only fifteen ladies and as many gentlemen being honored with an invitation. But a very charming evening was spent in dancing, or wandering between the dances through the beauti-

Mrs. Robie Uniacke's dance came off on Thursday. A very large number of invitations had been issued, nearly all of which were accepted. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn, Dr. and Mrs. Grier, Miss Noyes, Col. and Mrs. Ryan, Miss West, Miss Abbott, Capt. and Mrs. Mullins, Mrs. Barry, Mrs. and Miss Blackadder, Miss Slayter, Major and Mrs. Waldron, Dr. and Mrs. Tobin, Miss Copeland, Miss Stairs, Dr. and Mrs. Lones

There was a large dinner given Prince George by the Admiral on Friday. Being a farewell to the prince it was of course official, therefore very grand, also exceedingly stiff and formal.

That same afternoon Lady Watson gave a large at home. The day being fine and sunny, it was largely attended. Admiralty house is so roomy and spacious that, no matter how numerous the guests, t never seems crowded. Besides, there is tennis for those who care to play, in fact there is more novelty about an at home at Admiralty house than is usually the case with other similar entertainments; hence, everybody who receives an invitation generally accepts.

There has lately been so much discussion in the various newspapers about the band playing in the gardens—one week a contemporary stating that it would play the following Saturday; a few days later we would read an article in which some opposite party would state that such was not the case, the Leicestershire having refused to so honor the citizens of Halifax-what was our surprise on Sat urday to hear the joyful music of that delightful band in the public gardens. The Saturday after-noon's band adds so much to making the summer pleasant, and is quite an attraction to visitors, especially Americans, who have no regular military

On Tuesday last a very pleasant little dance, or, as it is usually called, a hop, was given on the Bellerophon. A select number of the elite and beauty of the city were present. Despite the warmth of the afternoon the breeze on the harbor was fresh and pleasant, and every guest departed at the close of the dance happy in the consciousness of having spent a very charming afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Buckly have returned from their wedding tour, and have gone to housekeeping at 53 Spring Garden road. While away they have visited Long Branch, White Mountains and other fashionable resorts.

One of the events of the week was the at home given by Mrs. John Doull Tuesday at "Westenwald." The guests numbered over 400 and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Mr. Doull and Mrs. Wm. Doull received their guests in the drawing room. Walks through the beautiful grounds, refreshments, and music by the Leicestershire band all added to the pleasure of the occasion. The great event of this week bids fair to be the adies regatta, which comes off on Friday at the North West Arm. I regret that my letter must go to press before it takes place, otherwise I should send a full description of this interesting affair. I have heard the names of those who "have entered for the race," but amid such a number it is difficult to remember all. In ennumerating I apologize be forehand if any are omitted. The regatta is to start from Thornvale, the residence of Mr. T. E. Kenney, M. P. The course lies all along the arm down to M. P. The course lies all along the arm down to the residence of Dr. Grier. In each boat are two ladies: Miss K. Kenny, Miss A. Abbott, Mrs. W. Tobin, Miss Farrell, Miss L. Almon, Miss N. Almon, Mrs. Mullins, Miss Storey, Miss Duffus, Mrs. Grier, Mrs. Waldron, Miss Robinson, Miss Stairs, Miss Flood, Miss Uniacke, Miss Thompson, Miss Stokes, Miss Slayter.

WINDSOR, N. S.

JULY 14,-

The wild hawk to the wind-swept sky,
The deer to the wholesome wold,
And the heart of a man to the heart of a maid,
As it was in the days of old.

The latter couplet of this breezy verse is very applicable to the town of windsor this summer. I have still another wedding to announce. On Wednesday of last week Miss Hattie Howe Miller, eldest daughter of the Rev. Arnoldus Miller, of the Collegiate school, was married to Mr. A. A. Webb, of Toronto. The bride wore a dress of white silk with long train, veil and orange blossoms. Her two little sisters were bridesmaids in white dresses with scarlet sashes and broad-brimmed hats, trimwith scarlet sashes and broad-brimmed hats, trimmed with scarlet flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Ven. Archdeacon S. Weston-Jones, assisted by Canon Maynard. Afterward a few friends partook of luncheon at the residence of the bride's father before the departure of the happy couple on the six o'clock train for Halifax. I think all the brides of this spring and summer have gone to reside elsewhere. Mr. and Mrs. Webb will live in Toronto. I wonder what all the young men of Windsor can be thinking of, to allow so many of the fair daughters of the town to desert it. I hear, however, of one who has made up his mind that he, at least, will endeavor to persuade one to remain.

Miss Russell, of Toronto, has been visiting Mrs.

Arnoldus Miller at the Collegiate school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Campbell have been spending the beginning of their honeymoon in Windsor. They could not have selected a much more delightful spot than Kings college to spend a week or Miss Carmichael, of New Glasgow, is visiting Mrs. Arthur Drysdale.

Prof. Roberts and his two little sons have gone to Fredericton via Middleton, N.S.
The offices of the Halifax Banking company have not on a shiring summer countenance. They have put on a snining s been completely refitted in light wood, walls and ceiling being panelled in this material, the desks and counter correspond, and the whole effect is very cheerful: a decided contrast and improvement upon the offices before the renovation.

Miss Dillio's dramatic recital in Reform Club hall, on Thursday evening of last week, was well attended, though I was unfortunately unable to be present. I am told that this young lady displayed considerable talent.

The guide book to Eastern Canada, by Prof.
Roberts, which has just been published by Appleton & Co., New York, is universally voted by the press of New York and elsewhere a gem in the way of guide books. "A guide book that will guide" is the heading to a notice of this work in a New York paper. It has not yet been my good fortune to see a copy of it, as there is not one in the place at presen, but I imagine our friend, Mr. Knowles, will soon supply this deficiency; the book is just out, and I daresay the provincial book stores have scarcely "caught on to" it yet. It is likely to be a very popular guide book from what I can gather from the press. And the recommendation of being from the pen of Prof. Roberts is a sufficient one.

It has all the strong points of the "Remington;" all the good points of the "Caligraph," and many advantages not found in any other machine that I am acquainted with. I cannot enumerate all the things I like about the machine, but every one who uses it will appreciate the easy touch, the mechanical perfection, and the ease with which the writing may be inspected and errors on any part of the page corrected.
