The Rothesay Musical Club met on Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. Morris Robinson. Several visitors from the city as well as all the young people of Rothesay were present, many of whom gave musical selections and readings. A digression was made in the musical programme by the introduction of a game of cards, which innovation only made the evening pass more pleasantly. Refreshments were provided by the hostess before the party dispersed.

Major Tucker has removed from his residence on the Sandy Point road and will spend the winter with his sister and brother Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Weldon at their residence, Chipman's hill, which since their removal there last spring has undergone thorough repair and improvements and is now one of the handsomest and most complete private residences in the city.

Miss Kate Disbrow, who it will be remembered met with a most painful accident by being burnt while sitting in front of an open grate some eight or nine months ago, is still confined to her home on Mecklenburg street from the effects of it. Though much improved it is feared it may be some months yet before she is able to walk.

Much interest is manifested in the trial going on in the equity court at present of Nicholson vs. Grant.

Mr. G. Herbert Lee still continues ill at his residence, Coburg street.

The Owens Art institution opened their exchange on Wednesday afternoon, when it was visited by a large number of persons. There is a fine collection of work, including paintings in oils and water colors, china painting and fancy work of all description. The room, which has been most tastefully arranged by members of the club, will be open every afternoon from one to five, when the ladies will take turns about to present and wait on customers. This exchange promises to be a great acquisition to St. John, as it is in all large cities both in the States and Canada, and gives all lovers of art an opportunity to display and dispose of their work, as well as being a great pleasure and satisfaction to the public.

Among the visitors in town last week were Mr. and Mrs. Haslam from Nanamoo, N.C., who are revisiting the province after many years absence.
