ROOKWOOD POTTERY OF CINCINNATI. Gold Medal, Paris Exposition, 1889.

THE ROOKWOOD POTTERY was established at Cincinnati in 1880 by Mrs Maria Longworth Storer, whose father, Joseph Longworth, was the founder of the Art School and a chief patron of the Art Museum in the same city. The artistic impulse which came from the ceramic display of Japan at the Centennial Exhibition of 1876, and the production still bears the impress of that influence. For a time a school for pottery painting formed part of the scheme, and from the beginning the commercial side of the enterprise has been subordinate to the artistic. We have just received a choice assortment,

We have made special preparations for a large trade during Exhibition days. With the experience of last year fresh in our memory, we hope to make this year's business even more satisfactory. Our importations the past three weeks give us THE BEST ASSORTED STOCK we have ever shown.

Such has been the development of our business that we can now readily sell goods that we considered too risky for us to handle last season; this is the direct result of buying nice goods, and selling them at prices easily reached.

LOOK FOR OUR ANNOUNCEMENT in this paper next Saturday, it will in all probability interest you.
