LATER HALIFAX NOTES.

Oct. 27.—The dance given last evening by Mr. and Miss Lawson, at 18 Morris street, (the "old Lawson house") as it is familiarly known to a great many people was one of the best and brightest dances ever given here.

Mrs. Lawson, the mother of Mr. W. Lawson, to whom the house belongs, had a reputation as a coquette during her long residence here and the countless number of people who were indebted to her socially and who are now pretty well scattered over the face of the earth, cannot fail to remember the kindly frequency of her invitations.

Concerning the company now singing here, at least twenty divers' opinions and verdicts have been reached, and the great amount of what has been said before in this paper, both from St. John and Halifax sources. Judging from the applause and the recalls every evening at the academy, the company seem to please their audience and that after all is the great thing.

The costumes are very fresh, and in some cases wonderfully pretty. Miss Murphy, in particular, was one of the prettiest Boccaccio ever seen, and her serenade also very daintily dressed.

So far the best performance the company has given was the "Chimes of Normandy." M. G.

Oct. 23.—The Amateur Dramatic club, consisting of a number of our prominent society men and women, made its first appearance before the public on Monday and Tuesday evenings, with marked success. The entertainment consisted of three plays; the characters in the first, "The Cape Mail," being taken by Mr. T. V. B. Bingham, Mr. St. Clair Hamilton, Mr. Wm. McKinnon, Miss Lizzie Moody, Miss Alice Clements, Mrs. P. St. Clair Hamilton, and Miss Libbie Bingham.

Following this was the comedy, "A Game of Cards," the characters being taken by Miss Clements, Mr. Bingham, Mr. Hamilton, Miss Clements as Rosa looked and acted particularly well, wearing a handsome costume of Nile green silk trimmed with very delicate lace. Mr. James in Cavalier Le Rochefort, and Mr. Hamilton as M. Mercier, were excellent, the latter in his humorous character creating much amusement.

The third and concluding play was a very amusing comedy, "The Happy Pair," and was, perhaps, the best of the three. The two performers, Miss Moody and Mr. James, sustained their parts in such a manner as to draw hearty cheers from the audience. Miss Moody, as "Mrs. Honeyton," wore a very pretty gown of old pink, in train, trimmed with a large pink and light green tulle, and both in appearance and acting was generally pronounced the "star" of the evening among the ladies; Mr. James being first among the gentlemen. The orchestra music was fairly good.
