The people of this town have certainly had their full allowance of wet and windy weather; the latter part of last week and the beginning of this were so very gloomy as to have an appalling effect on the spirits of most people, and the few enlivening things that were doing were seized on with avidity.

The opera came in for a pretty good attendance in spite of the pouring rain and the fact that no one cared very much for Nanon. The afternoons were filled up for many people by rehearsals for the Dickens evening, while the remainder of society went to and fro and sought what they might devour in the way of tea at different houses.

* * * On Friday evening Mrs. Cotton had a large theatre party of about seventy people, quite the largest ever given in Halifax except that of the officers R. A. and R. E. some weeks ago.

Among the guests were Sir. John and Miss Ross, Colonel and Mrs. Rolph, Major and Mrs. Reader, Miss Daly, the Misses Kenny, Miss Stairs Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Stairs, Dr. and Mrs. Tobin, Surgeon-Captain and Mrs. Fowler, Mr and Mrs. F. Jones. Mr. and Mrs. James Morrow, Miss Roberts, Miss Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Morrow, Miss Slayter, Miss Stock well, and so on through the list of society. It was a very well dressed and pretty party and made several rows in the Academy of Music very smart.

Mrs. Cotton had very sensibly turned both her drawing room and dining room into one big supper room, and by this arrangement was enabled to seat all her guests very comfortably. In each room was a large table surrounded by many small ones, and people seated themselves at the latter, pretty well as fancy led them. There was, of course, every thing to be desired in the way of supper, from oyster pie onwards, and the theatre being a hunger producing amusement people brought with them excellent appetites:

The guests as a rule left early, directly supper was over, much as people do after a luncheon party. This was very nearly Mrs. Cotton's first entertainment in Halifax, and was so pleasant and so capitally managed that it is to be hoped it will not be by any means her last.

Henderson.] Nov. 23 .- A pleasant time was enjoyed by a number of young folks on Friday evening at "Brookside House," the residence of Mr. Henry Townsend. Tuesday night's concert was one of the most pleasant aflairs of the season. It was for the benefit of Mr. A. I. Rice and the crowded hall showed the regret felt in town at losing Mr. Rice from New Glasgow. The concert was of local talent assisted by Miss Annie McDonald, and Mr. Wm. Dickson, of Pictou, and was composed of music and readings. The costumes worn by the ladies were very tasteful and becoming. Mrs. Charles Robson looked well in a gown of black tulle edged with bright gold ribbons; Miss McDonald wore a pretty cream china silk; Miss Younge, ruby velvet, yellow chrysanthemums; Miss McDougall, black iace, pink flowers; Miss Annie Rice, pea green bengaline, chiffon lace; Mrs. Kennedy, silk and velvet, pink carnations; Mrs. Underwood, black silk and lace, natural flowers; Miss Olding, black Henrietta, chiffon lace. The gentlemen who took part were Messrs. A. I. Rice, J. F. Grant, DeSoane, W. Dickson, C. A. Robson, Dr. Irigs, Charles Rice. BEL.

Nov. 23 .- Miss Isobel Moore was pleasantly surprised at her pretty home on Victoria Street by a large party composed principally of Miss Gliska's dancing pupils, Miss Moore being pianist for the class. Miss Hanford and Miss McKinnon arranged the event in a very clever way, and the new and intricate dances were enjoyed. Black gowns as usual seemed greatly in favor. Miss Maggie Christie in a dress of white muslin looked very pretty; Miss

On Monday evening there were a couple of whist and poker parties, sure signs of winter. Card playing is so much the fashion lately for ladies, whereas some five or six years ago an occasional euchre party was pretty well all they ever did in that way. It was the euchre club of '87 or thereabouts which was the first form of the fashion, but now that game has been almost relinguished in favor of poker. I hear of a club which is to be formed during the winter for the latter game, which will meet at various houses and probably continue to the end of the season.

On Tuesday evening in addition to the Orpheus club concert, there was a small theatre party given I hear, by a member of the medical staff, but this only concerned a very few people and the concert was the great event of the evening. The hall of course was packed and the reserved seats made a difference very delightful when compared with the baste and scramble of past seasons. The programme was a very good one and very well carried out by the Orpheus club orchestra's numbers the best one was the waltz by Lanner, though the overture to Stradella came very near it. The club and auxilliary had four numbers on the programme and sang them all very well. The first, a choral ballad, was very nice but not anything like the second, which was simply delightful, and the audience evidently appreciated it for they gave it an encore.

Jack Horner the next thing done by the club was very good and capitally sung, as indeed were all the choruses. To the minds of most people the club has seldom been singing better than at this first concert of the season,

Mr. Klingenfeld was a member of the club who was heard on Tuesday to much advantage, and he was very good to his audience giving them two long selections in response to encores.

Mrs. Kennedy Campbell's name was down on the programme only once which every one regretted, but after giving very beautifully a song by Grieg, she sang one by I think Lassen, as an encore. Mr. Dodewell's contribution to the programme was : charming one, and will make people look forward to hearing him again during the winter.

Miss Homer I have left to the last, not wanting to pick out all my plums at once, which even Jack Horner did not do. (By the way, why have his " plumbs" a " b" at the end ?" Miss Homer sang most artistically, and her rendering of the Habanera from Carmen, was beautiful in every way. She was recalled of course. Later on in the evening, she sang a Serenade by Moszkowski very exquisitely, and on being encored, responded giving something the name of which I do not know, but which suited her voice to a marvel. Certainly the subscribers should, and did, go home pleased with the music provided tor them by the Orpheus Club. It is a good omen for the winter's work to have the series begin so pleasantly. One never hears much by the way, about the finances of this club, but it must have very serious expenses in the way of music buying. * * *

A capital thing to send abroad just now is "Beauties of Halifax," a little series of photogravures. But think how such another would sell, if it contained pictures of "Halifax beauties". * * *

The first of the winter series of entertainments begins this current week, at the Church of England Institute, and a very light and varied programme has been announced for it. In regard to coming entertainments, I hear that the Dramatic Club have marked out a most ambitious as well as a very excellent winter programme, having the intention of producing at least three pieces.

were both in black, Mrs. Tait, a lace skirt and white is only to be regretted that Mr. Troubridge has not blouse with natural flowers; Miss Christie, lace also returned. I hear that the latter has gone on a six month's cruize with the training squadron. * * * Mrs. Moren and Miss Norton-Taylor leave on the 29th of this month for Kingston. Mrs. Moren will make a short visit to Colonel and Mrs. Norton-Taylor, while Miss Norton-Taylor will probably remain for the winter with her parents. This makes the number of Halifax girls," already so deplorably small, less by one, and one at that who will be much missed.

* * * I hear that Miss Stockwell who has been making a visit to Mrs. Slay and to Miss Ross at Bellevue house, will return very shortly to England, where she will be married early in the spring to a clergy. man of the English church.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Morrow, have given up their quarters at Maplewood, and are established for the winter at Mrs. Mooney's; whose is the pleasant house at the corner of Morris and Queen streets.

* * * I hear that the battery of the Royal Artillery, now stationed here will proceed to South Africa in the Spring. The Cape is known as a very cheery station, but the departing gunners have made many friends in Halifax and will doubtless be sorry to go. If the Leicestershire regiment also leaves in March as has been reported, we shall have a set of new faces all around, for which most people will feel year regarded as a " sport for kings", began again sorry. The Leicestershire regiment has done a on Tuesday of this week. I have not yet heard what good deal of very excellent entertaining during its sport was had, or what a bag was made; but I stay here, and its officers have as a rule been

Grace Fullerton, a neat and pretty gown of white and black China silk was very becoming. Among the gentlemen present, I think MJ. Mabou was the most honored, although they were generally pronounced particularly nice and danced remarkably well.

Several very nice afternoon teas have been given during the week and many more are talked of for the next few days. Among those who have brightened the list were Mrs. W. D. Douglas, who entertained on Wednesday, and Mrs. Fred Robb, who gave a large tea later in the week in honor of her sister, Mrs. Townshend, Halifax.

Mrs. Tremain gave a very nice little party last week at her home on Havelock street. I understand that it was largely for visitors, of whom we have had a goodly number lately. Dancing and cards were the amusements. Among the guests Miss Maggie Smith was the honored one, having remained with Mrs. Tremain since Miss Danlap's wedding.

Holm cottage, the pretty residence of the Mains, was the centre of gaiety last Wednesday evening. As usual everything was conducive to a delightful dance, for it goes without saying, that there are seldom better parties given than are enjoyed at their spacious and well planned house.

Mrs. Main wore a handsome gown of black silk, and was assisted in entertaining her guests by her daughters, Miss Main, who wore a very becoming dress of pink silk, Miss Ethel, in a toilette of black velvet, and Miss Gwen, in a very pretty gown of white silk. Among those present were Miss St. George (Montreal), who looked very pretty in a gown of heliotrope silk trimmed with chiffon; Miss Binnet (Antigonish), wore black silk of a very becomming style.

Miss Lowerison, green velvet; Miss Morse, pink fish net over satin, Miss Sleep in white cashmere; Miss Moore, pink crepe du chenc; Miss McLeod, white bengaline; Mrs. Fuller red velvet and white lace trimmings; the gentlemen comprised a large number of bank clerks but the medical profession gained greatest honors. Dr. McQueen being quite the most popular gentleman and fully the best looking Mr. H. Pipes was also of the number, Messrs. McIntosh, McCaul, Mahon, Lockwood, Dunlap, McLeod, Dr. Hall, Dr. McCully and Mr. Lusby. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith have gone on a trip to the United States.

Mr. Glasgow of Antigonish spent a few days in town this week. Mrs. Condon of Halifax is the guest of Mrs.

Darry Taylor. The Rev. Mr. Steele has returned from a very well enjoyed trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Inglis Moffat have returned from a short visit to Boston.

A wedding is among the pleasant things to be next week and an engagement in high life is currently reported.

A holder tree and supper is going on this evening in the St. Stephen's Sunday school room that is too late for special mention more than it is sure to be a success in the hands of the committee. MARSH MALLOW.
