J. W. Allen - - - - Dartmouth, N. S. The Youla, the Wym, and the Lenore were all starters in the "ladies' race" from the yacht club on Saturday last. The above was not the order in which they returned, however, as the Youla made the rather incomprehensible blunder of going round a buoy the wrong way and so losing time as she was obliged to sail round it again in the proper direction, a misfortune which undoubtedly gave the race to the Wym. Mr. Wylde who, of course, sailed his own boat had with him his sister, Miss Wylde and his cousin; Mr. G. Francklyn and Mr. M. Abbott who were in charge of the Wym were accompanied by Miss Francklyn and Miss Twining; and Mrs. Murray sailed with Mr. Murray on the Lenore. It was not a particularly fine afternoon, nor was there much of a gathering at the yacht club, as most people were saving themselves for the evening. The sky was very cloudy, indeed, and the air ful of sea fog until about nine o'clock, when the wind went round to the westward and a most perfect summer moon shone cloudless in the sky. From the water was perhaps the best place to see the whole effect presented by the squadron wharf and club house, all lit up as they were for the prettiest evening entertainment we have had for a long time.

in the light of the flaring torches stuck into the ground round the impromptu band stand, the glitter of their instruments and the whiteness of their music lending high lights to the dusky picture. Farther up, nearer the gate, was the flagged in ball room, whose only roof was the clear evening sky. All round it pink and red Chinese lanterns swung precariously high in the air, as the breeze died quite away grew motionless. All about the wharf and club house balconies were chairs and benches, sparely filled during the dances, mostly by couples to whom "sitting out" in the fine summer night offered more temptations than dancing in ever so unusual a ball room; but between dances it was difficult almost to find a a seat. Too much praise can hardly be expended on the arrangements which were for so unambitious an entertainment, very good indeed. To all out of door functions there always hangs a certain difficulty as to finding one's partner, at least in some cases; in others the difficulty is to find one's chaperone; on Saturday evening the two were at times combined. Men were quite unable to find their next partner in the half darkness which prevailed; ladies quite hopelessly losing at the same time their chaperons. Facts which may or may not have had to do with the complete success of the band evening at the Yacht club, the original promoter of which was, I hear, Mr. Hugh Healy. If so he must be congratulated on the successful arranging out of his idea.

Everybody, in the broadest sense of the word, was, of course, present, the Philadelphia cricketers of course en masse, as it was for them the party existed. Sir John and Miss Ross, Mr. Daly, Col. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wylde, Capt. and Mrs. Clarkson, Dr. and Mrs. Slayter and Miss Slayter, Major and Mrs. Reader, Capt. and Mrs. Torry, Major and Mrs. Bor, Major and Mrs. Waldron, Mr. J. F. and Miss Stairs, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stairs, Mrs. and Miss Thom-Mr. and Miss Worsley, Mrs. James Morrow, Mrs. Geoffrey Morrow, Mrs. Patterson and Miss Patterson of Philadelphia, Mrs. W. A. Henry, Miss Lawson, the Misses Troop, Mrs. F. Jones, the Misses Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Kenny were among a few of the people whom I noticed.

Men, of course, there were in plenty, soldiers and civilians, and a prettier, pleasanter evening can scarcely be imagined. But—I suppose there is always a "but"—the dancing! Well, it was not the always a "but"—the dancing! Well, it was not the happiest part of the entertainment to an onlooker, though there is no doubt that it was the most amusing. Halifax people were in ancient days renowned for good dancing, and there is no question but that a certain set still dance wonderfully well. But a little leaven did not by any means leaven the whole lump, and the polkas and militaires as danced by some people who really know better, were, to speak mildly, who really know better, were, to speak initity, remarkable. Next winter a dancing master would make a harvest if only he were pat onized by all the people who required his services.

The death of Mr. Dickie on Saturday evening did much to dampen people's spirits. Mr. Dickie was well known in Halifax, where he had relations, who were most shocked and grieved at his tragical death. death. It was a sad ending to a week which had not been wanting in unpleasant occurrences.

On Monday evening Mrs. Daly had a small dinner at which iew people were present but personal and intimate friends and some of the militia officers at present in Halifax. Among the St. John men who arrived on Monday are St. Colonel Armstrong, Capt. Harrsion, Capt. George Jones and Lieut.

Temple.
Capt. Harrison is accompanied by Mrs. Harrison, who is a guest of Mrs. Fishwick.
Other St. John arrivals, who are attending and competing in the tennis tournament at the Wanderers' grounds, are Messrs. Macleod, Barker, Hanford and Clarke and (I apologize the ladies, who should have come first) Mrs. Grant and Miss Winslow. In the mixed doubles St. John has shown up wonderfully well, but it is early yet to winslow. In the mixed doubles St. John has shown up wonderfully well, but it is early yet to write up the subject.

Once more the ladies of Halifax contemplated a joint stock ball, and once more the Fates have gently disposed of such an entertainment. In this instance it seems a pity, as it was to be for the tennis players now visiting Halifax, and was to be called a tennis ball.

But it has very unluckily fallen through, as its promoters were the first to realize that there was no time to do it properly without going to the infinite expense which is inevitable to hastily gotten up entertainments, if they be really well done. Among the hostesses, Mrs. Daly, Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. Rolph and Mrs. Uniacke, were to have been chief, but even these very capable and charming ladies found so great an undertaking impossible at such short no-

The officers of the various batteries of garrison artillery have been well entertained during their stay in Halifax. Dinners have been given for Col. Montzambert by Sir John Ross, the officers of the R. A. and R. S. and the Leicestershire regiment, respectively, and on Thursday the garden party at Government house was principally for the benefit of the militia officers and the strangers, of whom Hallax is full.

H. M. S. Pylades having returned from Charlottetown, where victory attended her officers at lawn tennis, has brought her luck with her. Capt. Young has been doing very well in the Halifax tournament and plays a remarkably good game.

Mr. S. I. Plunkett, for so long here in the Bank of Montreal, is making a flying visit to Halifax, where he has been sincerely welcomed by his old friends.

Miss Macdonald, of Toronto, is staying with her sister, Mrs. James Morrow, at her home on Morris

Miss Clara Nagle returned from England by the last boat; and I hear that Mr. Geoffrey Morrow is now on his homeward way.

The small dance at Bellevue on Friday of last week, developed by degrees into quite an imposing festivity. All the Philadelphia cricketers made not a small addition, and a great many American ladies added both to the number and the beauty of the

By the way, I think most Halifax people were immensely impressed both with the size and the physique of our Philadelphian visitors. As a rule the Americans who visit Halifax, chiefly Baltimoreans and Bostonians are small of stature, a description which certainly does not apply to the example we have just had of both Philadelphian men and ladies. If the bodies of citizens of the great republic begin to develop at the rate already done by their minds, it will be time for Englishmen to look to their laurels.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant and Miss Burpee have arriv-Dr. C. Wylde is making a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wylde.

Miss Stockwell, sister of Lieut. Stockwell, Leicestershire regiment, arrived last week from England, and is staying with Dr. and Mrs. Slayter. Later on she will be the guest of Sir John and Miss Ross at Bellovue House.

LUNENBURG, N. S.

Aug. 8 .- It is not every small town even of the size and general importance of Lunenburg that can number among its amusement organizations as many as three tennis clubs. Yet such is the situation in this favored locality. First in importance we have the Lunenburg club in good and regular standing, which plays on the picturesque grounds in the government property on King street. This will in all probability be the last season for which the present grounds can be occupied, as Lunenburg always being well in the forefront in the march of improvements, the proposed new post office will soon be erected on that site, Another club is the junior association, commonly known as the "Pickwickian club," organized and so named by the genial and popular secretary of the elder club, Mr. A. E. Cogswell, who is giving the young idea most valuable instruction in the mysteries of tennis. At present the junior club is using part of the grounds used by the cricket club, nearly opposite our small, but very beautiful park, which is the boast of residents and the delight of visitors. The club is known in its own circles as the Hoodlum Tennis club. It disports itself on the courts of the Lunenburg club during the absence of the latter, very slightly to the improvement of the said grounds.

The third of the interesting struggles between the native and foreign elements of the cricket club took place on Friday on their beautifully situated grounds at Newtown. The result was, as anticipated by all, a splendid victory for the natives. In the matter of cricket, the foreigners evidently have by all, a splendid victory for the natives. In the matter of cricket, the foreigners evidently have a few little things to learn yet, especially as regards bowling, in which the popular agent of the People's bank seems to be the only proficient.

At this time we are having the usual influx of summer visitors, the number of which since the improvement of our railway and steamboat service, is becoming larger every year.
