Before severing connections with the hotel, he placed occupied at present this king host gave a most enjoyable afternoon tea on Tuesday as a farewell gathering to his guests, present were: Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. N. Barnaby, H. Purdy, Mr. McQueen and Mr. Nicholson.

Dr. E. Lowerison is among our recent arrivals from England, having returned home on Saturday, after a year's sojourn abroad. D.'s is so very small that we quite hoped to add him to the choice number.

Miss Ethel Chapman entertained a few of her friends at her pretty home last Friday evening, more particularly those who attend Miss Glyska's dancing class.

Appropos of dancing, I learn that Miss Glyska has been successful enough in her undertaking here in that line to induce her to give another half term at the end of which she thinks it will be advisable to postpone teaching until the autumn, when she hopes to resume her pleasant vocation again.

Tuesday was an exceptional day with us in general. We seem to have such days occasionally when events appear to crowd for space. In the forenoon there was quite an excitement caused by the burning of Mr. A. Palmer's house on Eddy street, a large five o'clock tea was next to receive attention, with a couple of smaller events, and the evening was fully taken up by a large number with practice for the sacred chorus, closely followed by a large and unusually pleasant party given by Mrs. Burrows and her daughter, Miss Harrie Burrows, who have just returned from Ireland, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Miss Baker is visiting in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, who were married at Yarmouth on Tuesday afternoon, arrived in Yarmouth the same evening, and were serenaded by the Yarmouth band. The bride couple appeared on Sunday morning, in the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Medcalf will occupy the former residence of Mrs. T. V. B. Bingley.

Rev. Mr. Vincent, of Canning, preached in the Baptist church on Sunday.

The sale and tea held by the "church workers" on Thursday was more successful than they had expected it would be at this busy time of year.

The empty house where it was held was very prettily decorated and proved to be particularly convenient for such an entertainment. The large hall, which is more like a room than an entrance, containing a bow window as well as another large window, was occupied by the tables on which all sorts of pretty fancy articles as well as many useful ones were arranged to attract the purchasers. Garlands of evergreen were twined around the banisters, over the doors, mantel and windows, from which hung pretty curtains. Potted plants, generously distributed, added much to the general appearance. The large double parlors were filled with little tea tables, which were waited upon by the young ladies of the society. A piano was also there, which dispensed many an enjoyable "tune," as well as some good music after the tea was over. The large tea tables were laid in the dining room, and the kitchen answered the usual purpose with its honored cooking stove. Sixty-eight dollars were realized, which were all gain, as the expenses were nil. So the much-needed and long-desired organ does not belong to such a very distant future if the already large amount has many additions such as this, so easily obtained.

The reception at Miss Leslie's on Tuesday evening previous to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett was very largely attended, and some good music enjoyed. Several bouquets of roses and other flowers were presented to Mrs. Barnett during the evening.
