Dr. Smith's friends are legion wherever he goes his smiling countenance and pleasing manner gain for him numerous friends. In the fall he visited Fredericton and for weeks after his return he was the happy recipient of barrels of choice pickles, crates of fighting cocks and speckled back hams together with flocks of superior butter from admiring country exhibitors. Ever since Mr. Hohen was presented with the iron-clad watch it has been the desire of his heart to make a suitable return. At first the thought of golden beaded forces with mother-of-pearl handles swam through his brain, but as there was no blacksmith who could make them look angry enough to suit Mr. Hohen's feelings he had almost forgotten his resolution when, he, Dr. March and Dr. Geo. Hetherington decided on an agreeable surprise for the doctor. So on Monday morning it came to the doctor's notice that invitations were issued for a large party to be held at his house the following Monday. With the above mentioned, as a committee, numerous friends have been invited to extend to Dr. Smith and his wife, Mrs. Smith on the 20th anniversary of their wedding. The party promises to eclipse anything held here for a long while. Dr. Smith is in the hands of his friends.
