The farewell dinners this week have been strictly masculine in character. On Monday night the Leicestershire regiment, or such of them as belong to the Halifax Club, were entertained at that institution by some of the members addicted to whist and other kindred diversions. This was a most cheerful and successful entertainment, and decidedly invaded the small hours before it broke up.

On Wednesday the officers of the Leicestershire regiment were entertained by the officers of the R. A. and R. E. at dinner, and all the usual farewell speeches were in order. Colonel Rolph has been extremely popular during his stay here, and his departure is sincerely regretted. The "Jelunga" sails on Sunday in all probability, and there will be the usual crowd of people on the wharf anxious to have the last possible glimpse of their departing friends.

I regret very much to hear that it is proposed to close the Church Hospital in College street, princip ally, it appears, from lack of funds to keep it in working order. It seems a great pity that this institution should be abandoned, especially just now, when it is in such good working order, under such capable hands as those of the Sisters in charge.

The committee of the Church Hospital probably know what they are doing, but to the outsider it seems as though the hospital should be kept up it possible. Having gone so far with it, and being possessed of nearly all the fittings needed in such a place, it seems that the committee would not be wrong in making one more gallant struggle before giving up. The Victoria General Hospital will not, to many individuals, at all fill the place of the Church Hospital, even though there were not always patients enough in the latter to make it pay.

I see that Miss N. Almon, who was, during her residence here, rather by way of being a belie in society, has turned her attention with some success o literature. In "Harper's Young People," Miss Almon has a short sketch founded on memories of her child-life at Maplewood, N. W. Arm. It is very simply and nicely written, and its author is to be congratulated on having made her way with so exclusive and exacting editors as Harper's.

Capt. Farmer, R. A. who was one the passengers on last Saturday's mail steamer for England, goes home I understand, on a very pleasant errand. Captain Farmer's marriage with Miss Finch, an English lady, takes place at a very early date. The former has received a very good appointment, and will probably not return to Halifax.

Mr. Innes, R. A., who was unlucky enough to break his ankie last week, is making a very fair progress toward recovery.

Mr. Norwood Duffus, who has had an attack of diphtheria, is quite recovered. I hear that Colonel Hill, who, on leaving this garrison, was to have gone on half pay for a time, has received a very good appointment in England. Colonel and Mrs. Hill, will not leave here, however, any earlier than was previously arranged.

On Sunday morning there was an enormous congregation present at the Garrison chapel, on the occasion of the farewell service for the Leicestershire regiment. Not one more person could, I believe, have found a seat in the church and, as it was, in the gallery people were standing. The Rev. F. B. N. Norman Lee, garrison chaplain, gave the farewell sermon, which was very much liked, as much from its earnest delivery as anything else. The band of the regiment assisted the choir in one instance with somewhat startling effect. For the congregation was not prepared for the sudden sound of drums in the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers." They were a very effective accompaniment nevertheless and added a great deal to the marching effect of Sullivan's music.

A large eachre party, which was to have taken place last week is now postponed till Easter week, on account of the illness of the hostess. Indeed, a great many Halifax people are suffering from a modified form of "la grippe." Miss La wson, one of the latest sufferers, has, I am goad to say, quite re- No smart evening gowns were worn by the guests

I hear that later in the spring there will be a wedding from this hospitable house. Mr. Thompson, of the Bank of British North America, is expecting the arrival from England of his prospective bride, who will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Brookfield until her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. James Morrow have taken Cobourg Cottage, N. W. Arm, for the summer.

The rink, far from dragging to a close as it did last season, has this week taken a new lease of life, and ice. On Tuesday the skating was excellent, the band good, and the attendance as full as in the first days of winter. Tea was as usual provided by a kindly subscriber who earned the thanks of the others.

Society (for the first time this Lent) has rested this week from its labors in the way of card and dinner parties.

On Tuesday evening the Orpheus Club and Ladies' Auxillary gave their long talked of Lenten concert, with the usual huge audience in attendance. Out of regard to the season the ladies of the chorus had put on black dresses, a change which was rather wanting in point, since they had seen fit to retain their quite incongruous red and blue sashes. The effect of these was anything but good from an artistic point of view. Plain black would have been far better. From an ecclesiastical point of view violet sashes would have been permissible, and red and blue were as incorrect in this way, as they were un-

The programme provided by the club was a long and heavy one, which must have been a great strain on the powers of the orchestra, which all things considered acquitted itself marvellously. Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise was the opening number, Miss Homer, Miss Wilson and Mr. Gilns taking the solos. The first named was not the success in her first number which attended her in the duet "I waited fo: the Lord." Either the music did not suit her or she was not in her usual voice. Mr. Gilus pleased the audience very much by his rendering of "He counteth all your sorrows;" he sang sweetly and well, and had encores been permitted, would have been justly recalled. His second solo was also good, but not so suited to his voice and style. The seprano and tenor duet "My song shall be alway Thy mercy" was well sung. As regards the chorus, heavy and hard work in the beautiful Hymn of Praise talls to their lot. The chorale "Let all men praise the Lord" was wanting in breadth; "The night is departing" was one of their best numbers. Mr. Por er showed his great excellence as a conducter in the way in which he positively lifted along both chorus and orchestra through some of the hard

The Stabat Mater was the success of the evening. It went better, and was better sung than anything else. Dr. Slayter sung the Crejus Animam very well indeed. Mr Currie was good in all he did, being thoroughly at home and happy in his rendering of Rossinn's music, as was Mr. Hagarty. Quis est homo and the Inflammatus were alike good, indeed the weakest points in the Stabat Mater were owing to the chorus. The orchestra did wonderfully well throughout the evening, and the Orpheus club has added alto, ether another successful to its long list.

AMHERST.

March 22 -A delightful party was given at the home of Mrs. Phelan on Thursday evening, in honor of Miss Phelan's friend, Miss Marr of Moncton, who is still their guest. Cards constituted the chief amusement of the evening, but the compony was of that happy medium that requires no set number to make the pleasure complete, consequently the guests had a most enjoyable time.

Among those who accepted the hostess' invitation were: Mrs. F. Donkin, Miss Heustis, the Misses Christie, Miss Ethel Chapman, Miss Wilson, Miss McKinnon, Miss McLeod, Mr. C. Casey, Mr. W. Moore, Mr., Mr C. Martin. Mr. A. S. Ford, Mr. R. McLeod, Mr. E. Hewson and Mr. Black.

Several very nice little "teas" have been given during the week for the pleasure of Miss Rice of New Glasgow, who has been paying a visit to her friend Miss Harding. The guests on the happy occasions were more or less those who attended school with her at Wolfville and were immensely pleased to review " old times." Miss Rice left for her home on the first of the week, her very agreeable visit having won for her a host of triends outside the "charmed circle" who will gladly join

A very pleasant dance was given by Mr J. M. Curry on Friday evening at his handsome parlors on Havelock street, Mrs. W. D. Main and Mrs N. Curry were the affable chaperons who assisted Mr. Curry in entertaining. The affair was a delightful exception to the general rule, for it is seldom our young bachelors wish to act the host but Mr. Curry was such a capital success in that way that we may look for a turn in the tide of gaiety that will be altogether pleasing and no doubt fully appreciated. as it was generally understood to be a "small" and 'early" dance given I hear for Mr. McColl who Mrs. S. Brookfield gave a very pleasant and largely expects to leave town shortly much to the regret of his many friends made during his year's sojourn

The band with quite a number of friends wended their way to Sackville on Friday evening to enjoy a few hours at the rink, but through some mismanagement the trip failed to afford the pleasure anticipated, the rink being closed on their arrival. Had it not been for the recent display of the Shamrock one might have thought it the "first day of April."

Miss Main has returned home after a lengthy visit pleasantly spent with her sister Mrs. D. A.

Bishop, Truro. Rev. V. E. Harris went on a short trip to the capital.

The friends of Mrs. D. T. Chapman will regret to learn that she is not in very good health at present, although recovering from an attack of inflammation of the lungs. Miss Mabel Grouse, who has been staying with her aunt, Miss Wallace, at the Terrace, for several weeks has gone to visit friends in St. John. On Monday Mrs. Dickey gave a charming party at Grove cottage for her little granddaughter, Miss Grace Dickey. The little guests are always made happy by this kind and generous hostess, whose pretty home affords many unusual features for the entertainment of little folk. Miss Grace is a very winsome hostess and assisted in giving pleasure to the little company in a very cheery way.

The friends of Rev. Mr. Steele gave a large donation party at his residence on Wednesday evening, which was fully as pleasant as could be expected for such a large gathering. A part of the fund donated was for the Rev. Mr. McDonald, assistant pastor, and was a goodly amount all round, considering the congregation has recently subscribed very largely for a fund to build a new church, which is to be above and beyond any other in town.

Mr. G. W. Cook, of the firm of Dunlap & Company, returned on Saturday from a business trip to

Miss Wilson returned from Boston the last of the week, where she went to attend her mother, who has not sufficiently recovered to stand the journey, but will be looked for by her friends when the weather

Miss Lowerison has gone to St. John for a long visit to her sister, Mrs. Thorne. Very little seems doing in the way of Easter music. The choristers for Christ church have done considerable practice, but it is doubtful if they will come up to the general expectations, as they are mostly new beginners.

The new R. C. church is very nearly completed, but it is doubtful at present whether it will be opened on Easter or not. It is a very fine building, and the ladies who have so zealously worked for it should feel well rewarded for their time and labor, for I am told it is quite paid for, or will be when opened. A very pleasant surprise party was given by the friends of Miss Mamie Chapman at her home on Victoria street, on Wednesday evening, which was a very enjoyable affair.

Mar. 20 .- on Thursday evening of last week a number of talented men and women in town came before the Yarmouth public in a very creditable manner, in the Cantata "Under the Palms," performed in Providence church. The majority of the numbers were well rendered, although the absence of one or two of our best singers who usually assisted in such entertainments, was greatly felt. The choruses were particularly pleasing, and the orchestra music good. the attendance was as good as could be expected considering the number of amusements on the week's programme. Mr. J. D. on Thursday evening last.

On the same evening Mrs. D. B. Cummings entertained thirteen tables at whist, at the Prince of Wales Hotel. The two parlors on the first floor and the spacious hall, were thrown into one afford. ing Mrs. Cummings' guests a very commodious and elegant saloon. Among those invited and present were:-Doctor and Mrs. Geo Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Geurley, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Tremaine, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dickie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crowe, Mrs. Hudson, (Amherst,) Miss Dimock, Miss Starratt, Miss Mckay, Miss Tremaine, Miss Archibald, Miss Crowe, Miss Mc-Mullen, Miss Nellie Laurence, Miss Emma Black, Miss Yorston, Doctor Yorston, Messrs. D. A. Bishop, W. D. Bowns, L. Tabor, W. Hounsby, Fraser. F. Murray, Dr. Hall, W. Crowe.

Mrs. Cummings received in a lovely toilette of white silk, with trimmings of jewelled lace. Miss Starratt was very lovely in yellow pongee silk, with very full velvet sleeves. Mrs. Gourley, white surah bodice, brocaded in gold and white.

Miss Dimock looked very pretty in a new gown of black and white India silk.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell was especially levely in white silk, with profuse trimmings of white chiffon. Mrs. F. A. Lawrence and Mrs. Hudson played off for the first prize, a very pretty pin, with pendants, and the date and occasion engraved on it, was well won by Mrs. Hudson. Mr. Bishop won the gentlemen's first. The supper which Mrs. Cummings had provided for her guests, was good, offering every thing most delicate and substantial in edibles.

Miss Hyde is visiting friends in Halifax. Mrs. H. T. Laurence's "At Home" last night was an unusually brilliant affair. The rooms which are very spacious, and prettily appointed offered every facility for a large dance such as this was. The ladies were looking more than well, there being quite a sprinkling of pretty new gowns.

Our newest bride whose debut it was-Mrs. Frank McMullen-looked very sweet in a beautiful gown of heavy white silk, a very becoming dress for her fair prettiness and petite person. Miss Maud Archibald was lovely in white silk, flowered in red, and with a profusion of natural crimson rosebuds, a very becoming dress for Miss Archibald's brunette style. Mrs. Harry Crowe was looking very well in blue silk, natural flowers. Miss Jean Crowe wore a very lovely new gown of white silk, with bodice of white and gold. The supper provided by Mrs. Laurence was unusually varied and dainty. On Thursday night of last week, the intelligence of the death of Mrs. W. A. Spencer, was received here. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. J. J. Snook, and went from here but a few months ago a bride, to take up her residence in Weymouth, Digby Co., where her husband was teller in the Merchants' Bank. The remains were brought home on Friday night accompanied by her mother and sister Miss Lilla Snook, who was at "Edgehill" Windsor, pursuing her studies. The funeral took place on Sunday from St. John's church, and was one of the largest processions ever seen here. The pall-bearers were Mr. Spencer's former associates in the bank here. Messrs. W. D. Bowers, L. Tabor, W. Hornsby, and Fraser.

Mr. and Mis. R. F. Black, were "at home" last night to a small number of married friends.

Mar. 20 .- Wednesday morning Miss Ada Plant was married at the residence of her step-father, Mr. G. F. M. Forbes, to Mr. Joseph McLean, crown land surveyor, of Baddeck. The bridesmaid, Miss Annie Moore wore a gown of peacock blue, Mr. L. Robertson acted as groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. McLean took the train for Baddeck, which will in future be their home. There were many friends at the station to bid the bride adieu and the young couple were followed by scores of good wishes and (I should imagine) most uncomfortable showers of rice, while the usual supply of antiquated foot wear sought to catch the flying train. The groom's gift was $100. Below is an incomplete list of the presents which were numerous and very handsome. Piano and music rack, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. M.
