MASSACHUSETTS CITIES WANT TO ABOLISH WARD ELECTIONS.

Many of Them Are Seeking to Have Their Charters Revised-The Grounds the Same as Taken by "Progress"-Easter and Its Observance in New England.

Boston, April 4.—A bright sun, a cold raw wind, a grand church parade, with thousands of stunning bonnets; dresses that took the breath away, shoulder capes, horrid but necessary; an old, old story told anew, in churches banked with costly flowers, and music almost heavenly.

Such was Boston's Easter.

It was great pneumonia weather, but few thought of that. If Easter came at Christmas time it would make no difference. Milliners rushed to death, dress makers worked to death, florists harrassed to death, lay back and rested,—the hill was crossed.

They passed their customers over to the ministers-and the weather. The doctors will probably get there next.

This is frivolous talk for Easter, but it's The love of display in the feminine breast, and in that of a certain species of man, overshadows everything else, and Easter brings it out in all its glory.

fittingly and well. If the people were decked out, so were the churches; flowers here, flowers there, flowers everywhere, thousands of dollars' worth, more so than last year, more so than ever before, and all appropriate and suggestive of the season.

With such surroundings, with such music, with such inspiring words as the preacher spoke as he told the simple story, all must have realized the great truth it only for a moment, a moment that was, mayhap, the or seven years. turning point in the lives of many.

The observance of Easter is becoming more general here. Greater preparations are made, more people go to church, nearly all denominations recognize it, and even in the most staid and matter of fact congregations the Easter flowers are brought out | their position, socially or financially; and and placed around the pulpits.

It is generally acknowledged that the present system of electing aldermen by wards is very defective and not in the interest of good government. In nearly every instance the reasons advanced are about the same as those set forth by Prog-RESS. The aldermen elected from a certain district cannot give fair and intelligent consideration to matters concerning the whole city. They must pull in all they can for their own particular burrough, always considering the chances of re-election.

The Australian ballot, which is not unlike that used in Dominion elections, has been a great boon to the people here, and makes many new reforms possible, if it does take a long time to count the votes. The old days when an employer or ward boss escorted the voter, and the candidates often had different colored ballots, are no more, and the people are freer and more independent. Every day new ideas are being put forth with this same object in view, and it most of them were practical, and carried out, the politicians would have much harder work in calculating before hand the result of an election than they have at pre-

Couldn't See The Joke.

What constitutes the point of a joke is largely a matter of opinion. A German one day expressed himself as being somewhat offended because an American gentleman had asserted that his Teutonic countrymen could not, as a rule, appreciate Ameridefiantly, and the American accordingly told him the story of the tree "out West" which was so high that it took two men to see to the top. One of them saw as far as he could, and then the second began to look at the spot where the first stopped seeing. The recital did not raise the ghost of a smile upon the German's face, and the other said to him, "Well, you see the joke is lost on you. You can't appreciafe American humor." Oh, but." said the German, with the trankness characteristic of his countrymen, "that is not humor-that is

New Brunswicker Abroad. TO THE EDITOR OF PROGRESS: - Whilst talking to a party of immigrants who were detained here en route for the Red Deer district, I was surprised at the expectations they had of the country, and which had been the result of the too zealous land agent, who, the paid aid of a big corporation, represented this country in too flattering colors, enticing people away from comfortable homes in the East to the risks of the new settler in the West.

Now I would say nothing to the determent of this country. This North West will at some future day be the home of a prosperous and contented people. TOLD OF EUGENE McDOWELL.

Points About the Deceased Actor as Narrated by H. Price Webber.

The news of the recent death of Eugene A. Macdowell was received with sadness by thousands of people to whom he was well known in the United States and British | The company only got fairly settled down Provinces, he being one of the best-known theatrical managers and actors, especially on the Eastern circuit. Mr. Macdowell always carried a first-class company, and his plays were put on the boards excelled by none. He always aimed to elevate the drama, and paid heavy sums in royalties to be able to furnish the public with the latest metropolitan successes, no pains or expense been spared to that end. For over fitteen years he came regularly to St. John, and was a great favorite. My first recollection of him was when he was a member of Lanergan's company in the old Lyceum, being, I think, the last year that the theatre was run. He was playing Many of the schemes set forth however, | walking gentleman then, and afterwards became a manager, playing in Halifax, Montreal, St. John, Fredericton, Woodstock, Houlton, (Maine), Toronto and Hamilton. ter was phenomenally successful, his business being especially in Kingston, Jamaica,

In Mr. Macdowell's companies were such standard performers as T. D. Frawley, George Fawcett, John Bunny, Ferd. Hight, M. A. Kennedy, E. E. Grandin, Mary Hampton, Julia Arthur, Percy Haswell, Carrie Jamieson, and Fanny Reeves, (Mrs. Macdowell). The last mentioned lady was a deserved favorite for years on the company's route.

At the Jamaica Exhibition, two years ago, Mr. Macdowell had his last experience as a manager; it was an unfortunate one, and undoubtedly brought on the malady which hastened his death. The melancholy fate of his stage-manager, Ernest Sterner, who was drowned at Barbados, while rescuing Miss Jarvis from a watery grave weighed heavily on Mr. Macdowell's mind, and increased his business cares a great

In the prime of manhood he passed away to the life beyond, but his memory will be cherished and his character respected by all who had the privilege of knowing him. From the Evening Globe.

The enterprise of the Hawker Medicine Co. of this city bids fair to become one of the most brilliantly successful in its line ever established in this part of the world. A representative of the Globe was invited by Mr Russell, the manager, to examine the company's books, covering the sales of the last three months, and so far as the knowledge of this journal goes the record has not been surpassed under like conditions, if it has ever been equalled, in this country. to work three months ago, and have in that period been badly handicapped by the failure of their bottle manufacturers to keep them supplied; but their sales have been enormous, although their travellers have only been out three weeks, and though less than one-tenth of the lower province territory has thus been covered. In this city there has been a tremendous run on their remedies, which may in part be accounted for by the fact that Mr. Hawker is well known as a reliable man, and that his remedies have been in use for years and endorsed by so many well-known citizens; but the outside towns and villages and country places have also been heard from, and the rush is steadily growing, now that the demand for spring medicines has fairly set The fact proves that the standard remedies of the Hawker Medicine Co. merit the praise they had received before the company began to push the sales outside, and it is also an indication that this enterprising company is on the road to a brilliant success. That such is the case is a subject for general congratulation, for since there is always a large demand for remedies of various kinds, it is gratitying to know that a home company can supply the demand for medicines of acknowledged value, and thus enable the people to assist in building up a local industry at the same time that they are restoring their own health. As may be seen by all who read the advertising columns of the Globe from ber of different remedies, and therefore reach a large circle of patrons. At the present time, Mr. Russell states, there is a very large demand for the tonic and pills as a spring medicine, and the tolu as a cure for colds so easily contracted at this season.

The Globe also has pleasure in correcting an impression that may perhaps have gone abroad. The mediciues of the Hawker Co. can jokes. "Try one on me?" said he, "Pierre," in The Two Orphans; "Myles- accepted sense, but standard remedies, the Ill. William J. Florence was initiated into the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and imparted the knowledge of the ceremonies to Dr. Walter M. Fortify Against Cholera

Now that we are threatened with cholera in Canada, every person should for the sake of their city or country, as well as themselves, take every precaution against this terrible disease. It is a well-known fact that when the blood is in a healthy state, and the impurities filtered therefrom by the kidneys, the organs nature has provided for the purpose, that there is little fear of this or any other scourge that may come. The spring is the time when all should attend to this important duty, and all are reminded talk over the possibilities of this town for that there is nothing known to medical science that will do the work so effectually as Dodd's Kidney Pills. Every person, sick or well, should take some of these pills in the spring, and thus fortify themselves against disease.
