

ladies. On Wednesday evening General and the Hon. Mrs. Montgomery Moore gave a dinner at Bellevue of a farewell character, which was as cheery as possible. I hear that the whole Bellevue hou e party will probably go to Quebec for the carnival in January, and that a good many other people are planning to go. Winter sports are fast becoming a rare treat to a Haligonian.

On Tuesday evening a very pleasant party was given by the students of the Halifax medical college. Music and recitations were the amusements. There was a very nice little supper and the whole affair passed off delightfully. There were a good many guests, both ladies and gentleman, and several members of the faculty were among them. I hear that this at home is to become an annual institution, as it was so successful and so heartily enjoyed.

The sale for the benefit of the school for the blind on Saturday, went off very well, but was only slimly patronized, on account of the weather. It was therefore repeated on Wednesday afternoon. The basket work at this sale was especially good. and very cheap. The whole affair was very satisfactory, and patronized by all the leading people in spite of the weather.

A hundred dinners are to be given away by St. Luke's congregation, to the poor of the parish, on Christmas day. St. Paul's church has been in the habit of distributing dinners, ever since the Rev. Dyson Hague became rector; so that a good many of the poor will be well looked after, even without considering the work done by other churches. * *

The concert given by the Orpheus club on Tuesday, was a very good one indeed, and a most promising inauguration of the season. The house was not as full as usual, owing to the weather and the other things doing, nor was the audience as smart as usual. Hats and jackets were the order of the day, and the house presented a sombre appear. ance on that account.

The programme was a very good one, and gave the orchestra an admirable opportunity of proving their steady gain in every way since last year. Herr Mac Weil plays the first violin, and Mr. Porter himself conducts the orchestra, a vast improvement in every way. The first number on the and auxiliary, not so pleasing to the audience as their other numbers, The "Parting Kiss,', and "The Stars in Heaven," which last was the gem of the evening, surpassing even that well-known and favorite song, "The Lost Chord. Mr. Norbert Metzles sang, "If 1 Were King," very effectively. Mrs. Kennedy Campbell as usual delighted her audience; she was enthusiastically recalled after singing an "Ave Maria," very beautifully, and gave "Caller Herrin'," as a second song. Mrs. Lear, whose voice had been heard in the Orpheus club for some time, also sang two songs; the first being the charming aria, "Oh Luce Quest, Anima," the encore she received for which bringing her back she gave Florian's song with much point. The orchestra deserve the greatest of praise for their playing of Schubert's unfinished symphony. It was exceedingly good, especially the first part; and indeed their playing throughout the evening was very thorough and artistic. Herr Mac Weil played very thorough and artistic. Herr Mac Weil played charmingly, and was much applauded by his audi-ence, being twice recalled. "Mss Romanza," by Mr. Porter, was followed by a "Gipsy Dance of Notches," which was not as effective as Herr Weil's other selections, though it was played in a very finished way. The concert on the whole, was a most successful one, and the second of the course will be very pleasantly anticipated. The ventilation of the hall, by the way, is as bad as ever. * * *

The open air skating, which was tolerably good on Monday last, came to an end with Tuesday's rain, and the sad accident which occurred on that day at Chocolate Lake by which four lives were lost. It seems incredible that people should have trusted the ice of any deep lake after the mild weather we have had since Saturday last.

There does not appear to be the usual large list of Christmas dinner parties this year; there will not be one at the government house on account of family mourning, nor as 'ar as I have heard will there be the usual ladies' dinners given by either the officers of the R. A. and R. E. or those of the King's regiment, though I hear that the latter are really this week. Mrs. Sjostedt, of Bridgeville, was the guest of Dr. thinking of giving some sort of entertainment in the MORRIS GRANVILLE.

Mr. Walter Courtney of Kings College, went home on Saturday for his Xmas holidays. Some of the shop windows are quite artistically decorated. The most elaborate are the dry goods stores of Geo. D. Geldert, and C. & G. Wilson & co. In the windows of the former there is on one side a very good representation of a mill with wheel driven by water running from a dam above. A rustic bridge crosses the stream below the mill. In one of the windows of Wilson's store is a fair sized church shingled with handkerchiefs; and the steeple, which is quite high and tapers prettily, is covered with strips of embroidery, the windows are of stained glass and the whole is quite effective when lighted. In another window is a terris wheel which here, thereby giving us a very rare treat. On Wednesday the 27th, they will again favour us, when I trust they will meet a crowded house. Perhaps it would not be out of place to suggest, that a policeman be appointed for the evening to keep boys, or rather young men, in order, the conduct of some of them on Monday evening, being disgraceful for a civilized community. One of the members of the company while conversing with some of our citizens—said, "during the three
