The great event of this week has been the Masonic Fair, which is really colossal in every way. The Exhibition Rink has very seldom looked prettier, though the great prevalence of different shades of blue must have been very hard to arrange successfully. The Royal Arch booth is very pretty with its pale blue border and banne: ettes, and the dresses of the ladies in it, are most successful. Next to this comes the museum of Masonic antiquities, which is built of rough stone to all appearance, and contains many very valuable things. It loses a little in effect by being so close to the imposing castle of the Knights' Templars, which is most mediæval in every detail, and quite the prettiest stall in the fair is the opinion of most people, the lights and arrangement of the interior being most effective. Fancy goods are sold here, and fortune telling done by Miss Ida Nicholson of St. John. The costumes at this booth are not nearly so pretty as the booth itself. There is a suggestion of an old fashioned opera cloak about them, which takes away from their artistic effect.

Acadia and St. Mark's have the next booth, which is also built of stone, with a good deal of bright blue disposed about it- The dresses worn by the ladies here are of cream, blue. and silver, the blue rather dark. A very taking feature at this booth is the lawn where ices are served, and the Indian girl who presides over the south end of it. Miss McFatridge's costume is beyond praise.

Virgin Lodge is the society lodge at the fair I understand; it is particularly pretty, all in white and silver, and the things for sale are very good. The dresses worn by the ladies in charge of this booth are very plain, white mull most simply made in the ordinary fashion of the day, and trimmed prettily with silver. Little muslin caps were worn back on the head, in most cases very becoming. Among the things to be drawn for at th s booth was a pony, and by the way, I never saw a bazaar have so many raffles; their name was legion.

King Solomon's Temple is looked after by the ladies of St. John's and St, Andrew's Lodges, and seems to have everything on earth in it from refreshments to piano lamps. It's square entrance hall is charming, and the cream colour and gold dresses of its inmates very pretty. It does not seem strictly Biblical to have Solomon's Temple occupied by ladies, although the female sex cannot be said to have been ignored in the reign of that monarch.

The Provincial booth has some capital things in it, most of its decoration is in the all-pervading at three o'clock. blur with the Nova Scotia arms in the centre Very pretty things have come in from the country for this booth, the Pictou contribution being worthy of

The Scottish Rite has a consistory chapel for its booth, which is one of the prettiest in the whole show. Part of its effect is owing to the very smart uniforms of the ladies, whose scarlet jackets and impertinent caps are most becoming and effective. The needlework sold here is very attractive. Very pretty pale pink and white costumes were worn by the ladies in the last booth, on the western side of the building; those of the Royal Sussex and Athole, the first on the east side, while very showy were not were most enjoyable. pretty, the silver shoes especially, being a mistake, though the gold shoes, worn by the ladies of another lodge were successful. The flowers in this lodge were really lovely, and scented the whole southern end of the building. The hearts of the Scottish contingent were taken by storm by the Burn's cottage, with its thatched roof, and the distinctive Scotch costumes of the attendant ladies. The ears of the English contingent, however, were taken by storm in another way, by the sound of the bagpipes, which are too national an instrument to be appreciated by the Sassenach. The piper was a very picturesque and imposing figure, and had a crowd of admirers about him. The opening ceremonies of the bazaar took place on Monday afternoon, the brethren walking in procession, despite the deluge which was falling. Captain Boileau, B. A., made a long speech at the tain Boileau, B. A., made a long speech at the opening, and many of the principal people of the town and garrison were on the platform. I hear by the way, that no officers of the garrison walked in the procession, though General Montgomery Moore and others took a prominent place on the platform.

The march has been a very good feature at the fair, and very well done. It has not been as great an attraction as the "living whist," which had the great charm of complete novelty, and drew imgreat charm of complete novelty, and drew immensely. Many comparisons have of course been drawn between this fair and the Wanderers; and most people give the palm to the Wanderers for booths and dresses. There is nothing as pretty for instance in the Masonic fair as the Japanese booth of last year, while the colors used in the dresses being necessarily limited, do not make so good an effect, the attractions and side shows at the present fair are about equal to those at last years, excepting theatrical line on Monday evening, when she re-peated to admiration, her performance in "Twenty Minutes Under an Umbrella." Some of the young ladies looking particularly well in their Masonic costumes, are the Misses Abbott, Lyde, Albro, Seeton, Story and Sheraton in the Scottish Rite; and in the Virgin Lodge, Misses Lawson, Richardson, Paygant, Stairs, Oliver and the musical and theatrical performances which are infinitely better. Miss Sara Nicholson by the way, had another chance to distinguish herself in the Dimock.

The whole thing is pretty sure to be a success, but things have been so well and expensively done to all appearance that it is doubtful if any large sum will be cleared. The people who deserve most credit are the ladies selling, whose work has been hard and onorous. The consolation they may take to themselves for their efforts is, that they looked very well and accomplished much.

Two ladies had an unfortunate experience in returning from the fair on Monday evening, in having the hand bag carried by one of them snatched by an unknown person. Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. G. Story, the ladies in question, were almost at their own doors when this unpleasant thing occurred. It is almost the first time so daring a thing has been heard of in Halifax.

Mr. and the Misses Keith, and Mrs. and Miss Wickwire are expected from England by the Labrador. Mrs. Wickwire will go almost at once to the house just purchased and done up for her, almost next door to Keith Hall. Dr. and Mrs. Wickwire will probably give a dance to introduce their daughter to society. I hear that the latter is very clever and accomplished.

Mrs. Whitman has arrived from Annapolis and will make a short visit to her sister, Mrs. A. Tremaine Halifax has lately had an acquisition in the return from a long residence in Germany, of Mrs. Leonowens, the well-known authoress, and her daughter, Mrs. Fyshe. Mrs. Leonowens will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Fys. e, who have not yet moved into the house just built for Many Halifax people will regret to here of the death of Mr. Charles Cameron, R. N., which took place last month at Malta. Mr. Cameron was the eldest son of Colonel Cameron, who was stationed in Halifax for so long.

A death regretted by the whole community is that of Mr. Wakefield Free, ex-consul general for the United States. Mr. Frye had been in office here through two administrations, and was esteemed and beloved by every one having any knowledge of him either officially or socially. Mr. Frye had been ill for some time, but every hope was entertained for his recovery until Sunday last when his illness took an alarming turn which ended fatally on Monday evening. Mr. Frye was a native of Belfast, Maine, where his remains have been sent for burial. Mrs. Frye and family have the heart lelt sympathy in their affliction of all their friends here.

The regatta which takes place on the Arm next month promises to be a very good one. It is altogether a garrison affair, and will be held opposite Oaklands, the residence of Colonel Leach, R. E. Among the events is to be a ladies' race, or rather a race for crews composed of a lady and gentleman. There will be races for cutters, which are always so well worth seeing, and all manner of attractions. The prizes will probably be presented by the Hon.

Mrs. Montgomery Moore. A temporary whart and staging will be built at Oaklands for the occasion.

The Hon. Mrs. Montgomery Moore gave rather a large steam launch party on Friday last. The guests were taken to Parcell's Cove and up the Arm in two launches, and returned to town in time for dinner, an unusually early start having being made

The Lorne Club are to be congratulated on their very successful regatta of last Saturday. It was not quite so pretty a sight as that of the Baubers' perhaps, but the harbour is so much wider than the Arm that the large attendance of steam launches and row boats was, perhaps, not appreciated. Great interest was taken in the regatta by almost every one, and it had a great effect in lessening the attendancee of society people at A miralty House The prizes were presented by his Worship the

The visiting officers of militia artillery have been tendered a very respectable round of dinners. Every evening from Thursday of last week to Tuesday of this, having had its function. Besides being enter-tained at Government House and the R. A. and R. E. mess, dinners have been given for them by Sir John Hopkins at Admiralty House on Monday evening, and by General Montgomery Moore on Tuesday evening. Both the latter dinners were attended by Colonel Armstrong and the other militia officers from St John. The artillery camp breaks up this week, it has not been very lucky in its weather, as the incessant firing seems to have brought down the

Colonel and Mrs. Leach have issued invitations for a garden party at Oaklands on Tuesday next. This seems to be a garden party season, as there are no other excitements beyond the picnics of which people have begun to get tired. Such a dull sum-mer has never been known here, and last year's fortnightly dances at a certain well known house are deeply regretted. * * *

Lady Hopkin's second garden party took place at Admiralty House on Saturday afternoon. It was not at all large, and had oddly enough for an afternoon affair, more men than ladies as guests. Very little tennis was played, and the great amusement was Aunt Sally, with variations. A "blue jacket" was snugly ensconced in a barrel and bobbed down out of sight when sticks were thrown at him. I believe no missile has ever been thrown to strike him, but it looks rather risky. Although there were not a great many ladies present on Saturday, there were some smart and pretty frocks. Mrs. Mellor was looking very well, and Mrs. M. Morrow quite charming in black and mauve. Mrs. Carroll and Miss Hendry (of Hamilton), were among the strangers present, and were both most smartly attired. Tea was served in the house, in the large dining room, and there was absolutely no crush in the tea-room. Admiralty House teas, by the way, have quite changed their character of late. There was a time when they were the om nium gatherum affairs of the whole summer, but to the unbiassed observer it seems as if that characteristic had quite disappeared.

AMHERST.

[PROGRESS is for sale at Amberst by Charles Hillcoat and at the music store of H. A. Hillcoat.] Aug. 16 .- The very oppressive heat of the past week greatly increased the exodus to the various watering places, Tidnish seeming to have the preference and most deservedly too, when a genuine rustic outing is the main thing sought for. Parties returning from a sojourn at that delightful point seem to bear an unmistakeable impress of their surroundings. Pugwash, however, still claims the honor of being the most fashionable resort for those who enjoy a trip of less exertion and more congenial pleasure, while for the artistical portion of our summer wanderers, Parrsboro is over and above all other points on account of its charmingly varied scenery, pretty location and easy access to the famed Land of Evangeline. It would require too much space for me to expatiate upon the beauties and advantages of the pretty seaports and rural nocks that surround Amherst, to which our townspeople resort, suffice to say their attractions are sufficient to make society in town extremely dull this month.

Rev. Mr. Harris and children and Miss Harris of Annapolis went to Baie Verte on Tuesday, where they intend making a stay of several weeks. Mrs. Harris went for a visit with her friend, Mrs. Hibbert, Lower Cove, her friends will be much pleased to hear that she is improving in health.

Mr. Hay of Halifax, will supply Mr. Harris' place in Christ church during the Vicar's absence. Rev. Canon Townshend is expected to arrive the last of the week, and will assist at the Sunday ser-

Mrs. Munroe comparatively speaking, is among our young hostesses and if all her social undertakings prove as charmingly successful, as her first tea, there is a host of pleasures in store for her friends. It would scarcely do to individualize as regards the gowns of the guests as they were all decidedly natty and perfect in style. The hostess looked particularly well. Among her guests were Mrs. H. G. C. Ketchum, Mrs. H. J. Legan, Mrs. B. Baker, Mrs. Hodson, Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Hillson, Mrs. E. Biden and Mrs. Girtson (St. John), Misses Turnbull, Bent, Black, McLeod and Harding. Aug. 15 .- Mrs. Chadsey of Lockport, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Robertson.

Mr. G. P. Archibald of Halifax, who has been very ill with gastric fever, arrived in Barrington on Tuesday evening, to spend a few weeks at "Ro k Cottage" and recuperate his hea'th. He is adding very much to the enjoyment of the young people, who, though anxious to see him regain his strength, will be very sorry when the time arrives for him to return to his duties in Halifax

Two of the most delightful trips of the season. were those given by Mr. Archibaid with Mrs. G. H. Shepard as chaperone-the first, last Friday afternoon, was a drive around Cape Sable Island, stopping for a couple of hours at the beach for surfbathing, and searching for "curios" which search was rewarded by the finding of several choice garnet stones, and about twenty perfect specimens of "sea urchins" which are to be taken away as mem-

The second was a private picnic to the wellknown "Hamilton Place" up the Clyde river. The day was an ideal one for a picnic, cool and overcast. The dinner under the spreading oaks would have delighted the heart of an epicure. The entire cuisine department was under the management of Mr. Emmett M. Wilson, and the manner in which he served up hot coffee, English peas, etc., etc., would lead one to suppose, that he had at his command, all the latest electrical appliances for cooking, or carried in his pocket "Allidin's Lamp." The showers which came up in the afternoon, served only to give more variety to the amusement of the party. Nothing which care and thought could provide was forgotten by Mr. Archibald, and if happiness consists in making others happy, he ought to be a very happy man. The party was as follows, Mrs. Shephard, Misses Chase, Winnifred Crowell, M. C. Robertson, Doane, and Messrs. Archibald and Wisson.

Miss Jennie Crowell has been quite ill with congestion of the lungs, but is now recovering.

Mr. John Hopkins of Memphis, is expected home as soon as he is able to travel. He has been for some weeks a victim of malaria, in the hospital at Memphis, but is now convalescent.

Aug. 16 .- The death of Miss Belle Godfrey, which occurred on Thursday evening last will be deeply regretted by the large circle who had the pleasure of her friendship.
