On Wednesday a garden party in aid of the blind was held at Lindsays hill, which is situated half a mile from town, and from its summit no prettier view or variety of views can be seen any where. The grounds are very beautiful and the trees all to be desired, and from its easy access, and surroundings it would appear as if nature had intended it as a place for gatherings of this kind. Chinese lanterns and torches further adorned the grounds and the civilian band decoursed some of its fine selections during the evaning. Fancy work, ice creams etc., were sold and when the proceeds were counted up it was found that about $100 was cleared over all expenses. It was an immense success financially and enjoyably.

Three hundred people embarked on the S. S. Lunenburg accompanied by the civilian band for Liverpool on Thursday last the day was sunny the wind light and the sea smooth, so that the most unnautical could scarcely find fault with the ripple. The people of Liverpool closed their shops, decora ed the town in holiday attire, so renaded the excursionists with their band, threw their houses and beautiful gardens open, horses and carriages were placed at the disposal of visitors free of charge. Mrs. Charles Swan opened her beautiful home to a number of young lady guests last Friday afternoon, who were invited to meet Miss Edith King, of Portland, Maine, who is Mrs. Swan's guest. At five o'clock the guests began to arrive, and were received by Mrs. Swan, who looked very elegant in a gown of black ottoman silk, richly trimmed with lace; she was assisted by Miss Edith King, who looked very pretty in a blue and white organdie, and Miss Emma McCully, who was attired in white and violet. Refreshments consisting of chocolate, chocolate wafers and chocolate bon-bons, in fact, everything was made of chocolate, was served on the broad piazza, which was beauttfully arranged with easy chairs and tables. Mrs. Swan is a perfect hostess, and left nothing undone that would make her young triends enjoy themselves; and not until the twilight had deepened into darkness did the battle of cups and spoons, and the sound of merry laughter cease. Then they all entered the parlor. and Miss Alice Cullinen gave a delightful hour of instrumental music. Among the guests were, The Misses Nellie Hall, Chase (Lynn,) Carrie Lord, Margery Rideout, Georgie McAllister, Mary Mc-Cully, Millie Sawyer, May Jones, Robbins, Cullinen, Florrie Cullinen, Berta Smith, Josie Ham Mollie Clarke, May Simpson, Ida Boardman, Alice Boardman, May Barnard (New York,) Charlotte Young, Nellie Murchie, Carrie Belle Boardman, Dora Rounds, Clara Jordan, Helen Newton and [PROGRESS is on sale at W. T. French's.] Aug. 9 .- On Thursday of last week a very enjoyable evening lawn party was given by Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Nevers, at their residence on the corner of Court and Military streets. The event was given in honor of the following guests who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nevers :- Miss Margaret Jaffery of Fredericton, Mrs. Geo. Phillips of Rat Portage, Ont., Dr. E. W. Stevens and Keeley of Philadelphia. The grounds were lighted by electricity and encircled with various colored Chinese and Japanese lanterns. About 6.30 the company sat down to tea in the open air under the large shady trees. During the evening the Misses Lane furnished some fine music on cornets and mandolins. Singing was also a feature of the evening. There were upwards of eighty persons present, including the following from a distance: Mr. Job Abbott of New York, Mrs. Doty and daughter of Chicago; Mrs. John M. Rice of Waltham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Waterall of Philadelphia; and Hon John P. Donworth of Fort Payne, Ind. Before the company broke up ice cream, cake, and other refreshments were served. The event was successful in every detail. The second interesting reception of the past week occurred in Music Hall, Monday evening. The pleasant gathering was given for Rev. N.F. Dutton and wife, who have closed their labors here in be-half of the First bapust church. The hail was finely decorated, especially the stage, which was so artist ically trimmed that it presented the appearance of a private garden. The guests were met at the hall door by Messrs Geo. A. Gorham, Jr., Frsnk Car soo, Geo. Edward Wilkins, H. D. McIlroy, Chas. F. Thom, Ira F. Ingraham and Geo. W. Bul, who were the ushers. The guests were escorted one at a Miss Campbell, of Fredericton, is visiting her brother, Major, H Montgomery Campbell, Fox time upon the arm of an usher to the receiving party in front of the stage, composed of Mr. Chas. P. Tenney and wife, W. A. Nickerson and wife, and Rev. and Mrs. N. T. Dutton. Upon the left of the stage were six refreshment tables, very attractively desorated and containing a generous supply of dainties to which the guests were served after meeting the receiving party. The orchestra was stationed upon the stage and rendered some very attractive selections.
