Belightful weather prevailed on the afternoon of the second garde" party at Government House, and almost every one inv. ad appeared at it, a good many of the guests having also Mrs. Montgomery Moore and her nieces the Misses Colburne, with Lady Hopkins and nearly a. official people were among the last division with ail the more intimate circle at Government House. Mrs. Daly looked, as usual, charming, and was assisted very ably by Miss Daly in entertaining the house is not large, large number of guests. Miss Daiy was charmingly dressed in white and green, and looked extremely

There were o course a large number of strangers present, Americans and new arrivals, and the display of frocks was something tremendous. Some of these latter were fearfully and wonderfully made, giving great joy to their wearers and in another way to the spectators. Among the ladies who were at this time of writing there are doubts of the enterment coming off.

Morris Granville. beautifully dressed were Mrs. Ferrie and Miss Henry, the former in a very handsome blue and white gown, the latter in sulpher yellow with white and black. Tea was served in the large dining room as on Wednesday, but the band of King's regiment played out of doors on the lawn. All together, this was a most successful party, and an ex | front. The van piled high up with boys of all ages, tremely pretty one. There were very few young under the chaperonage of the rector and Mrs. men at it, by the way. The sex seemed to be represented by the middle aged and the married.

Several small dinners have filled up the spare evenings of the week, and the afternoons have to fond mammas been taken up a good deal by children's picnics and parties. Mrs. Stairs-Duffus, Mrs. T. day by the Misses James of Evergreen, to their Ritchie and Mrs. Corbett all gave large children's parties during the past week.

Many years ago when we were all much younger than we are now, the banker's regatta was one of weeks. the social events of the summer, but gradually people got tired of it and it dropped. This year, however, this feature has been revived and revived in such a way as to make it a certainty of continuing. Saturday was a fine day, one cannot say it was a perfect day, for there was too much wind and the nature, those on the shores feet it; but otherwise the day was lovely. Never had the Arm looked so pretty, gay as it was with launch and yacht, boat, barge and canoe, yachts all dressed in bunting and ladies in the highest of colors. Here and there a bright red parasol or a brilliant colored dress, marked a pleasing effect of color. The launches were numerous. Mr. Corbett was out in his Naptha and seemed to be getting a maximum amount of and seemed to be getting a maximum amount of speed out of a minimum amount of labor. She looked a graceful crait careering about without much visible means of doing so. Mr. Stairs' launch the Eulala, was used as the referee's boat and carried the referee, Mr. Lithgow, and Mr. Gardner t e secretary of the day. On board besides were Mr. and Mrs. James Stairs, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. stairs, Cent. and Mrs. Trouman, Dr. and Mrs. Fowler, Mr. Capt. and Mrs. Trotman, Dr. and Mrs. Fowler, Mr. Wallace and others. A large party were on the A. C. Whitney, including Mrs. W. A. Henry, Mrs. Geoffry Morrow, the Misses Troop, Mrs. Mo.en,

Mrs. Charles Wylde. The General's party were on the Lily and included Gen. Montgomery Moore, Mrs. Montgomery Moore, the Misses Colburne, Major and Mrs. Waldron, Col. North, Capt. Colburne. The ad-inirals' pinnace dashed about in a picturesque manmirals' pinnace dashed about in a picturesque man-ner and had many people on her, Lady Hopkins, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. T. F. Kenny, Capt. Bayley, Mr. Saademan. The officers of the R. A. and R. E. mess were at home in one of their launches. The Youla, Hebe, Hi.dred, Valkyrie and other yachts

all had large parties on board.

It was however at Thornbale that the gayest throng was gathered. Mr. and Mrs. Kenny are always good hosts, but the genial president of the Merchants' Bank fairly outdid himself. Crowds Merchants' the wearf or reamed lined the shore and crowded the wharf or roamed about the beautiful grounds listening to the band. Everyone was there and many were the pretty ses worn, although many of the ladies had confined themselves to a strictly nautical turnout. Tea was served in the house.

The ladies' race was not a success, for the reason that no one seemed to know that it was coming off. I do not know whose fault that was, it would be hard to biame any of the officials, for they worked hard, especially the president and promotor. I must congratulate Miss Lawson and Miss Curren for they deserved to win for they have worked hard and have been in hard training for some times. and have been in hard training for some time past. They rowed a good clean, even stroke and showed that they could have stayed it for a much longer distance. The magnificent rowing of the Italian They were indeed popular. The Italian ships launch was a picturesque feature and had on board, besides the Italian officers, the Italian consul and

Mrs. Fisher.
There were no mishaps although two gentlemen fell in, but fortunately they were both nautical men, and used to the Yacht Club, and therefore could It would be impossible to describe the costumes worn, for they were so many, and so varied and scattered, one could, from a boat, only see the general effect, and it was impossible to individualize; but certainly it was the gayest and prettiest sight we have seen for many a long day. Messrs. Bankers, I can only hope that you will repeat your feature next year, and that you will repeat your success. The Arm is a delightful place for a regatta, when the weather is fine, and no doubt, it ould not be anything else when the Bankers are disporting themselves.

The "at home" which was to have been given at Wellington Barracks on Wednesday was unavoidably postponed owing to the repairs now being effected in the barracks. Lady Hopkins has issued invitations for a garden party at Admiralty House on Tuesday next. Lady Hopkins always gives pleasant parties, and beside tennis provides a game of "Aunt Sally" for her guests, which is chiefly gone in for by elderly gentiemen.

There has been a great strain of late on garden party toilettes. With two or three such entertainments a week it requires a well stocked wardrobe for ladies to look well. Mrs. Thompson's yearly garden party at Fernwood, which takes place on Thursday, is a very old institution, Fernwood being quite a show place, both for hot house and out of door flowers. People are always delighted to go and walk about the well kept grass and admire the

DARTMOUTH.

JUEY 15 .- The picnics and driving parties last week were legion, and far beyond keeping any run of. The Christ church B. B. R. S., was early to the Mellor and Mr. Reginald Walker, and to judge by the "sound of revelry" both by day and night, I should say that they had an awfully jolly day.

The town has awakened from its slumber and there were no less than two teas and a large children's party last week. One tea given on Wednesyoung lady friends, and another on Thursday at Mrs. L. L. Thorne's, both of which were exceedingly pleasant and made a diversion after the almost total cessation of anything like gaiety during the last few

Mrs. Thorne was assisted in receiving her guests (about thirty I heard) by her daughter Miss Emily Thorne, and her sister Miss McNab. Some very smart gowns were worn and the day was charming. Mrs. W. Stairs Duffus, gave the childre-

July 25 .- Some delightful teas have been given by hostesses on Victoria street, which as luck would have it, were privileged with fine weather. On Wednesday, Mrs. Arthur Dickey entertained a large number of guests, including gentlemen, which is a variation to the general order of teas, and one which is certainly as commendable as agreeable, after such a round of feminine gatherings, to say nothing of the effect of their sombre hued garb, as an accent to enhance the tone of the smart gowns, which were exceedingly pretty. Mrs. Dickey's home is capitally arranged for such events, and her tea was a tric lights, chinese lanterns, etc., made a most decharming success. On Monday, Miss Bessie Harding gave a delightful afternoon tea, which was a bright and cheery event, comprising guests blessed with youth and beauty, attired in picturesque and stylish gowns, that were very becoming. The modern tea is such a fleeting thing that it gives small chance for the full display of the gay 1830 gown, and it is to be hoped that the revisors will soon bring up the good

Mrs. Will Douglas gave a tennis party on Monday, which was not a prime success, as regards the game, the courts being somewhat effected by the wet weather. It however, makes but little difference in a slight change in the hostess' arrangements as to entertaining, for her pretty home affords every facility for a charming party, despite the varying moods of the weather.
