Tennis is very much the principal interest this week as there has been two tournaments going on, the first at the Wanderer's grounds among the members, which of course is purely masculine; the second at the Garrison ground for both men and ladies. This latter has been managed on the American plan as regards prizes, the entrance money of gentlemen playing all going to buy a prize for the winning lady; ladies of course are admitted without entrance from a chivalrous regard for the purses of the sex. Among the players in the mixed doubles of which the tournament consists are Major and Mrs. Maycost, Captain and Mrs. Long, Mrs. Norman Lee and Mr. Adams, King's regiment, Miss Roberts, Miss Stokes, Mrs. Hole, Miss Dobbin, Miss Lily Norton-Taylor, Captain Alexander, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Court. enay, Mr. Ellishaw and Mr. Tupman. There was a very smart and fashionable assemblage looking on and consuming tea and cake in the process. Among the spectators were the Lieut. Governor and Mrs. Daly, General and Mrs. Montgomery Moore, Lady Hopkins, the Hon. Misses Colborne, Colonel and Mrs. Leach, Colonel Isaacson and indeed nearly every one of local importance.

There were some very smart and pretty frocks to be seen, notably that of Mrs. Carroll, who was wear ing black, with a hat of fashionable sunburnt straw. The Hon. Mrs. Herbert, who was here for a few days with General Herbert was looking on as was the Misses Nicholson, of St. John, and too many others to mention. Among the pretty frocks was that worn by Miss Slayter, who was looking especially well. Plenty of chairs for lazy people were a very good feature of the Garrison tennis tournament; and a couple of tents had been erected for tea and other refreshments. The tournament was not to finish until Thursday evening, too late for Progress to publish the result which must wait till next week. Socially speaking the affair was most successful.

Miss Mc Garry had a capital audience on Tuesday evening at the Academy of Music, where she appeared under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Miss McGarry was assisted very valuably by Mrs. Hagarty who shared with her the honors of the evening. The programme was a very good one, certainly varied enough to suit all tastes. One of the best things on it was Deprez's famous Texan ballad, Lasca, a most effective thing for recitation and very little known here though it has made the reputation of its author both in England and the United States, where it is a favorite recitation. This is probably the last time we shall hear Miss Mc-Garry before her marriage to Mr. Clifford Granville, which takes place this autumn, and it is a fact much regretted by her audience of Tuesday evening, who would be more than willing to have her finished and talented performance repeated.

Mr. Geoffrey Francklyn, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Weatherbe and Mr. Stephen returned this week to the Royal Military college at Kingston, where one of their instructors this winter will be an old Halifax boy, Lieut. G. Twining, R. E.

The dates of the coming dances are as follows: Mrs. Daly's on Tuesday next, Mrs. Henry's on Friday, Mrs. Charles Townshend's on the Tuesday following. There will be no excuse of wear and tear possible as regards ball dresses, for the above are positively the first large dances of the summer, excepting that given by Mrs. Moren some weeks certain to be both pleasant and crowded. Bishop's Thorpe has, however, a very fair sized garden, always a great factor in the success of a summer tea

The other festivities of the week have been a couple of dinners, and a small picnic and tea party, out door amusements having been pretty well swamped by the prevalent tennis. In spite of the grumbling people have indulged in regarding the dull summer, it seems rather a good way to devote the very warm weather to picnics by sea and land, and keep the dances for the autumn, even though society has followed the plan willy-nilly this year.

The death of Mr. James Farquhar, which occurred at Brooklyn on Tuesday, will be much regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr. Farquhar was an old resident of Halifax, and a partner of Mr. Alexan-

A co-operative subscription dance is talked of by a number of ladies, and is very likely to take place a little later on in the autumn. It is, I believe, proposed to have it at Maplewood, Mrs. Clarkson of course being one of the joint hostesses. If this rumor proves correct, Halifax ladies may be able to dance out one pair of shoes before Christmas, after all! Once the ball of party giving is started it is pretty certain to roll.

Mrs. L. E. Davies and Miss Davies of Charlottetown were in Halifax this week. Mr. S. J. Plunkett of the Bank of Montreal, in Moncton, has also been paying a short visit to Halifax friends.

General Herbert arrived on Tuesday. General Montgomery Moore, Mrs. Moore, the Misses Colborn and Catpain N. Colborn, A. D. C., the exhibition. Afterwar s it is probable that they will go on to Chicago.

Captain and Mr. Lushington have taken a house on Victoria Road. The Rev. G. Osborne Troop left on Tuesday for Canada, having spent a few days here for the purpose of officiating at the anniversary service at St.

in Halifax without a single cricket match taking place in Halifax without a single cricket match taking place in which the garrison played. This year, however, seems a case in point. In the match which took place this week, between the Wanderers' and Woodhouses' eleven, the latter comprised various members of the garrison, of course, but they were playing as individuals and not for the garrison. What has become of the ancient reputation of Hali-fax for cricket? The Wanderers seem to have been beaten all round this year and it is a sad pity. Is the interest in cricket dying out, or what is it which has changed things so from the record of years gone by? The club's beautiful grounds had a goodly crowd of spectators on Tuesday afternoon to look on at the cricket match, which latter was quite a novelty, so great has been the dearth of cricket this season. It was a perfect day, and people were delighted to sit out of doors and watch place today week are filling up grandly, the ladies' and gentlemen's race bidding fair to be an especially good one. Among the competitors of whom ally good one. Among the competitors of whom I have heard are Miss Lawson and Mr. Grierson, Miss Currie and Mr. Tracy, Miss Abbott and Mr. Marsh, Miss Worsley and Mr. Worsley Miss Kenny and Mr. Adams and Miss Kenny and Mr. Elliott. Among all these crews there certainly should be material for a very pretty race, which is pretty certain to be taken by one of the three first-named crews who have strength and training on their side. crews who have strength and training on their side. The regatta will probably finish between six and seven o'clock, and between eight and nine the illumination of boats, and of the eastern shore of the Arm will take place. All the residents are taking great interest in the affair, and everything looks at present like a success. Colonel Leach, R. E., is one of the prime movers, and the prizes will be presented by Lady Hopkins. H. M. S. "Blake" is expected on Sunday, so that her officers will be in

Weeks, of Hartford, Conn., came off with considerable eclat in the First baptist church, on Thursday evening last. Long before eight o'clock, the hour appointed for the ceremony, the church was filled to its utmost capacity. A large portion of the body of the church was reserved for the guests, of whom there were over a hundred. The bride appeared promptly at eight o'clock, on the arm of her father, immediately followed by her bridesmaid, Miss Agnes McKay, daughter of Sena-Mrs. Courtenay has invitations out for a large tea | ior McKay. The bride was arrayed in a truly on Thursday of this week, an entertainment pretty | bridal toilet of white brocaded satin, trimmed with real point lace and seed pearls, with the accompanying veil and orange blossoms, and carrying a huge bouquet of cream rosebuds. The bridesmaid's toilet was also very lovely, being an imported gown, Empire, ot creme brocaded satin, with huge puffed sleeves of amber velvet, bretelles of creme chiffon and a half bodice of amber net work, with long girdle of abbner beads. A small ruff of creme feathers, completed what was a very elegant toilet, and one particularly becoming to Miss McKay's brunette style. The groom was attended by Mr. Harry Cox of New York, brother of the bride, as best man. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. H. F. Adams, assisted by Rev. John Robbins. Mr. W. F. Compton of Halifax, presided at the organ. The full choir was in attendance, who sang the marriage hymn before the ceremony. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party and guests drove to the residence of the bride's parents, "Cedar Bank," where a reception was held and refreshments partaken of. Many of the ladies were in very elegant gowns. Miss Annie Louise White, of Boston, the talented elocutionist, was one of the guests in a lovely gown of blue and white silk, with trimmings of oriental lace Miss White delighted everyone who met her with her graceful manner and charming versatility. The bride's presents were more than numerous and unusually elegant, and some handsome purses, too; from the father of the groom a check for a thousand dollars, from the uncle of the bride, Dr. Cox, Australia, five hundred dollars and expenses for a trip to the Chicago fair. Among all her beautiful and costly presents the bride values none more highly than a portrait by Lewis Rice, of Rev Dr. McCullough and his wife who were honored guests last Thursday night. Mrs. Week's "goingaway" dress was of cloth, cadet blue, trimmed with black satin ribbon, hat to match. The newly married couple left per midnight express for Boston, where there home will be, after a short stay there they will proceed on their trip to the exposition, at Chicago, and may luck go with them! The groom's present to the bridesmaid was a beautifully woven chain of There are not many summers which have passed | fine gold with gold pendant set with pearls and engraved on the back with her initials and monogram. Drs. F. S. Yorston, S. L. Walker, Messrs W. D. Bowers and C. M. Page, were very efficient ushers. Too much cannot be said in praise of those ladies

The bride was attended by two little maids, her youngest sister Miss Nellie Smith and her cousin Miss Dottie Smith. Mr. Charles Power of Charlottetown supported the groom, Rev. Thos. Cumming performed the ceremony, after which supper was partaken of by those present. The bride was attired in a very pretty travelling costume of fawn cloth shot in green and rose with trimmings of shot sirk, hat to match. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and useful presents. An elegant Bible, leather bound, from her grandfather, Mr. Daniel Smith is one high-ity prized; from the lady teachers of the model school, a member of whose staff Miss Smith was for some years, a large banquet lamp. The members of St. Andrews' choir, sent a handsome biscuit jar, solid silver. Many other presents both useful and ornamental, were received from friends in Chicago, New York, and Boston and vicinity.
