ST. STEPHEN AND CALAIS.

[PROGRESS is for sale in St. Stephen by Master Ralph Trainor, and at the book stere of G. S. Wall. In Calais at O. P. Treat's.

DEC. 13.—There has been but little going on this week in the way of entertaining in doors. The fine weather and good sleighing tempt everyone out and the streets are so crowded with sleighs that it is almost a sleighing carnival.

I heard of a pleasant tea party given a few evenings ago by Mrs. Frank P. Woods, in honor of Mrs. William A Murchie. The tea was a most delicious one and was served in the most dainty and elegant manner. Mrs. Woods received her friends in a most becoming house gown of pale pink crepe, trimmed with rich cream colored lace, in which she looked most graceful as she moved about entertaining her guests. It was a most delightful affair and well deserved the many pleasant comments it

As there can be no marriages in New Brunswick until we have a new Governor, Mr. Harry Leslie Cole and Miss Ida Blanche Lorimer, who were to be married yesterday afternoon in all saint's church, St. Andrews, were obliged to drive to St. Stephen, and resterday morning were married in St. Annes' church, Calais, by Rev. O. S. Newnham, rector of Christ church, who most fortunately has a special license to marry in Calais. The bride looked exceedingly handsome in a stylish travelling costume of russet brown with hat to match. She was attended by Miss Dollie McKee, who was attired in a costume of tan colored serge with trimmings of green velvet, which was most becoming. The bride was given away by Mr. Frank A. Grimmer. The groom looked most manly and handsome and had for his support his brother, Mr Horace Cole. Immediately after the ceremony they returned to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Grimmer, and partook of cake and wine. At eleven o'clock they left for St. Andrews, where a wedding reception was held at Rosebank, the home of the bride's mother. They then left for an extended visit in New York, and Boston. The wedding presents were most elegant, and said to be the handsomest ever presented to a bride in St. Andrews. The groom's gift to his bride was a handsome seal coat. The young ladies of the society of Trinity work ers in connection with Trinity church, give a dramatic entertainment in their school room tomorrow evening. There are also some tableaux, and Miss Julia Kelley, Mrs. Walter Bradnee, Miss Bradnee and Miss Annie Porter, will assist in providing instrumental and vocal music.

DEC. 13.-Moncton has been in a state of quiet agitation during the past week over the election for the expropriation of the water works. The voting on the question took place on Monday last, and as will be seen by the daily papers, the vote stood: for expropriation 324; against expropriation 102. Less than half the number of those entitled to vote did so, which certainly displays a lack of interest on the subject. There was a shade of politics in the question, the Times supporting the water company, the Transcript contra. The next, and certainly the most important feature of the affair is the price, and it will likely take some months, if not years, to come to a decision on this point.

Waiter Hillson, son of station master A. Hillson, died at his home here on Thursday last of consumption.
