SOME EVIDENCES OF ADVANCES.

While it may be that the country comprised within the maritime provinces is not moving fast enough to suit some people, it is a mistake to suppose it is either going backward or standing still. In some respects, no doubt, more could have been accomplished in the development of the country than has been the fruit of the years since confederation, but in other respects there has been, a good deal more progress than the pessimists are willing to acknowledge. In manufactures, for one thing, the census of 1891 shows some remarkable progress made as compared with the condition of affairs in 1881. Whether any of this is due to a protective tariff, or whether the advance has been made in spite of that tariff, is a matter for the politicians to discuss. It may be that the tariff has fostered some industries while depressing other branches of trade and commerce, or it may be that had there been no protection, there would have been a very much worse state of things, than even the persistent runners down of the country delight to dwell upon. Whatever may be the case, the census figures show some things which are apparent at a cursory

In the year 1881, there were but five cities in Canada having more than seven million dollars of an annual output from the product of manufacture, and not one of them was in the maritime provinces. In 1891 the number of such cities had increased to eight, and included Halifax and St. John. In the former city considerably more than five million dollars capital was invested as against two million in the previous decade, while there was an increase of more than fifty per cent. in the number of hands employed. The value of the produets, at factory, was $7,492,993, as against $5,355,670 in 1881. In St. John, in the ten years, the number of manufacturing establishments rose from 204 to 773, the capital invested was increased from $2,-143,064 to $5,384,658, the number of hands employed was much more than doubled, while the factory value of the products which was $4,123,753 in 1881, jumped to $8,050,230 in 1891.

glance, in regard to an increased extent of industries in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Nor was the advance in these cities alone, as may be seen by a glance at some of the other cities and towns. The first line of figures opposite each town represents the returns of 1881, while the second shows the record of 1891:

Other places, showing a proportionate increase might be quoted, and of the maritime provinces it may be said, as the Government Statistician, Mr. GEO. JOHNSON, has said of Canada as a whole, that "the cities have not grown in manufacturing at the expense of the towns and villages, nor the urban population. The development has been very generally diffused."

Prince Edward Island, the latest of these provinces to enter into confederation, increased the number of its employes thirty seven per cent in ten years. New Brunswick now stands second in the provinces of the Dominion in the proportion of popu- the city employes. More luck to it. The lation engaged in manufacturing and all fad for flowers is one which should be enthe maritime provinces have made great | couraged.

headway in this respect during the last decade.

The table given above will be found worthy of study by those who are prone to complain that the country is going to the dogs. The Nova Scotia readers of Pro-GRESS, in particular, may find something on which to reflect a little. The figures are in evidence and speak for themselves.

LANGUAGES IN THE SCHOOLS.

The New York Sun had a very pertinent article, recently, on the teaching of languages in the public schools of that city. It appears that the French and German are to be introduced into the grammar school grades as permissable studies. The excuse given is that a large number of people in New York speak those languages, and this step is what the Sun terms the strengthening of a vicious system. Its idea is that the function of schools is to fit children of all nationalities for American citizenship, and that the principle of instructing German or French children in the language of their parents is opposed to the best interests of the country. Beyond and above this, however, is another principle, which cannot be better given than in the Sun's own words:

If French and German are taught, why not Italian, Spanish, Swedish, and Hebrew? If the schools are to be polyglot and not English alone, what justification is there for confining the languages taught to French and German when people of every nationality must contribute to their support?

If a few of the children can get the higher education of the colleges already provided, another little fraction of them have as much right to expect business college where they can enjoy the luxury of receiving training at the public expense as bookkeepers, stenographers, and linguists. Still another lot can demand to be trained as typewriters, telegraphers, cooks, machinists, or craftsmen of any sort; and why are they not equally entitled to special fustruction at the public cost.

Once you have started on that road, there is no stopping short of furnishing in the schools whatever is asked for; and if children are to be taken care of in this way, why should not grown people get whatever they fancy at the public cost? As soon as you extend public-school instruction beyond the simplest elementary education required by all and possible for all, you get on the road which leads straight to

The pertinence of this argument may be recognized by the citizens of St. John, who are now paying for the teaching of French and German in the public schools. There seems no good reason why they should do so, any more than there is for their paying for stenography and typewriting. The latter, indeed, are much more useful fection, and is, besides, an extraordinarily that the French and German taught in schools generally is seldom of use to its students anywhere outside of the school. Yet there is no reason why stenography and typewriting should be taught, because they are used by a limited class and are not Blowitz has written an article which will part of an education needful for all. Bookkeeping is perhaps more important than either of them, but even that can hardly be called a necessary part of every boy's education. The line must be drawn somewhere when the masses are to be educated by the people, and a good many are of the opinion that the Latin language is all that is necessary in addition to the English branches. That is allowable on the ground that it is important as the tongue from which a large proportion of the words in common use is derived. As to Greek, however, it may not be too much to say that in most instances the time devoted to it in the common schools is wasted.

What the public schools should undertake to teach is an English education, and if that work is thoroughly done the result will be of the best for the individual and the state. To attempt to give a boy or girl a smattering of many things means usually a want of thoroughness in all. There is too much surface education, because more is undertaken than can be properly carried out. What the Sun terms a polyglot school is not the kind of an institution for which the people ought to be

SEEMS TO BE A BAD CITY.

Somebody writes to the Toronto World a letter which reveals what appears to be a bad state of affairs in the big and beautiful city of Toronto. Here is what he says?;

I wish to call attention to certain young men who parade the streets for the purpose of making mashes. It is almost impossible for a young lady to walk along King, Queen or Yonge-streets without being subjected to insult. If these young men have sisters let them consider the respect they wish to be shown them. If they do they will never address a lady on the street of whom they know noth-

The World makes no comment, and presumably the statements in the letter are correct. If they are, it is about time that Toronto had either a new police force or a vigilance committee. The street loafers in St. John are bad enough but the time has not yet come when the ladies who walk along the principal streets are subjected to insult. When things get to that pass the decent citizen will soon find a remedy for them. Toronto must be a pretty wicked sort of a city.

The World's Fair was thrown open to the public last Sunday, and the crowd, to the extent of two hundred thousand persons passed in and enjoyed the sights as on other days. This looks discouraging for the prospect of the proposed boycott by people who are opposed to keeping Sunday otherwise than in the line of the Sabbath.

The movement of the Horticultural Association to beautify the squares, is said to have started a gardening craze among

BOOKS AND REVIEWS.

"Worthington's Illustrated Magazine" for June, opens with a paper entitled, "Random Notes on Hawaiian Life," by C. T. Rodgers, M. D., a prominent physician, now and for many years a resident of Honolulu. The engravings are from special photographs and are very artistically reproduced. Another timely article, and one which will prove of special interest to all progressive people is that upon "Sorosis: The Pioneer Women's Club." The author, Mrs. Hester M. Poole, a member of Sorosis, was chosen by the Society to prepare its history for the Columbian Exposition. The paper is well illustrated with portraits of most of its presidents and executive officers. A third illustrated paper is upon the London Church Choir System, by Frederick J. Crowest, the English author of several critical works upon musical topics, a musician of high order and a leading London organist. "In Ole Virginny-Fifty years Years ago," the sixth paper, by Mary Livermore, is well sustained, and is full of incident and interest. "Have Women Good Taste," by Junius Henri Browne, is the striking title of an article upon dress and manners, that is sure to attract attention and provoke discussion. The short stories are as varied and interesting as they always are in this Magazine, each being, in its own way, of special interest. The poems are noticeably good; choice in diction and elevated in thought, partaking of the spirit and beauty of the season, they rank far above the usual grade of Magazine poetry. The department matter of "Worthington's Magazine" is well-chosen and attractive. The special articles, stories for young people and little children, the original puzzles for those who find relaxation instead of weariness in this form of brain-work, are all such as any publisher might feel a worthy pride in presenting to his readers. [-A. D. Worthington &

Co., Hartford, Conn. Another new magazine has made its appearance and will be known as "McClure's Magazine." It looks well and its price is just half that of its older rivals. It is very fully illustrated, and the first issue contains ninety-five pictures and fourteen different | brilliant and successful entertainments ever given

Perhaps the greatest novelty in the magazine is a dialogue between William Dean Howells and Professor H. H. Boyesen. This is really the interview carried to perbranches of education, apart from the fact | interesting article, in which Mr. Howells in a frank manner tells more of his early struggles and literary career. Professor Henry Drummond contributes a paper on "Where Man Got His Ears," that is a perfect study in evolution. The veteran journalist De provoke thought and discussion in Europe at the present moment, in which he characterizes the men and measures of the great nations of Europe.

The personal interest in the magazine is marked. Besides the "Real Conversation" there are twenty-three portraits of four famous people at different ages of their lives, Mr. Howells being honored with nine. The articles describing "A Day in Gladstone's Life" and "Count de Lesseps at the Present Moment," are full of great personal interest. The new department, invented by this magazine, "The Edge of the Future," contains some very interesting matter gained by interviews with Thomas A. Edison and Alexander Graham Bell.

There are three short stories: one by Gilbert Parker, one by Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, and a typical story by Joel Chandler Harris.

The conductors of the magazine annuunce contributions for the next two or three issues by Stevenson, Kipling, Thomas Hardy, Octave Thanet, Conan Doyle, W. D. Howells, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, Henry M. Stanley, Archibald Forbes, and a series ot interviews with Jules Verne, Archdeacon Farrar, Alphonse Daudet, Emile Zola, Camille Flammarion.

This magazine is only $1.50 a year, and 15 cents a copy. Published by S. S. Mc-Clure, Limited, 743, 745 Broadway, New York City.

In "Donahoe's Magazine" for June is a striking paper contributed by Professor N. S. Shaler of Harvard University, dealing with "The Undiscovered Mineral Wealth of the World," and the other striking features are: Excellent papers on "The Woman's Club Movement," by Estelle M. H. Merrill; "Catholicity in the Maritime Provinces (illustrated), by John Boden; II) by Hon. John F. Finerty; "Irish Writers in London," by Eugene Davis; "A Bit of Homespun," by Herbert M. Sylvester; "In American Studios," by Henry Austin: "The School of the Future," by Rev. Joseph V. Tracey, and "Where Columbus is Buried," (illustrated) by Richard H. Clarke, L. L. D. The poetry of the number is contributed by James Jeffrey Roche, W. D. Kelley, J. C., and Charles S. O'Neill, while the regular departments are exceptionally bright, timely and interesting. It is a grand number of a grand publication. Donahoe's Magazine Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

More About Dr. McGlypn.

TO THE EDITOR OF PROGRESS:—A correspondent in your last issue asks under whose auspices, Dr. McGlynn lectured in St. John. I may say that I made an engagement with Dr. McGlynn for a provincial tour, opening in this city and visiting the principal places in the provinces. His subject was the labor problem, but unfortunately there were strong prejudices against him, among protestants and catholics. the former ssserting that he had not gone far enough and the latter maintaining that on account of his disobedience towards his ecclesiastical superiors he was unacceptable to them. On account of the boycott I dropped a cool six hundred dollars and gained an experience which may be of service in the THEO. L. CHAPPELLE.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., May 29.

The first high grade American bicycles to come to St. John this season can be seen in the window of Mr. Harold Gilbert, King street, who has been appointed agent for the Remington machine. This bicycle is as highly thought of in the states as any other. It is manufactured by the Remington Arms Company whose reputation for high grade mechanical work is not only national but world wide. An illustration of their light roadster bicycle appears on the eighth page of this issue and is worth the attention of every patron of the cycle. Mr. Gilbert will be glad to answer any queries and quote prices on this machine which certainly appears to combine the excellent points of many high class wheels with some additions of its own. Notwithstanding the duty the price is about the same as that of the English wheel.

Another Man Says The Same.

From the first appearance of his advertisement in Progress Mr. J. I. Noble custom bootmaker of Germain street had among his letters one from Shippigan, inquiring how the writer might send him a measure. To overcome this difficulty Mr. Noble had an engraving made showing how anyone could take his own measure which has already brought him most satisfactory results. Besides it proved that "advertising in Progress pays.'

Wedding Invitation Printing.

The month of June is the month of marriages. Scores of them are announced in this city alone. Many have looked around already for their wedding invitations and PROGRESS has secured more than its share of orders. Its stock is more complete than ever it was in view of the season's demands, and PROGRESS Print is in a better position than ever to cater to the wants of those who require wedding invitations, announcement cards, &c.

The Great Attractions.

At the Oratorio concert on the second evening, Friday the 16th, when "The Daughter of Jairus" is to be given, Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker will sing "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth," from the Messiah," and Mr. Parker will sing " Cujus Animam." These attractions, in addition to the other selections on the programme will no doubt be highly appreciated.

Look Out For The Change. The changes in the Yarmouth and Annapolis railway time table in effect June 1st arrived at Progress office too late for insertion in this issue. Passengers by that road can ascertain by inquiring at the regnlar ticket offices or any information will be cheerfully furnished by Progress.

Signs of Summer.

"Please change my advertisement, and say that we have green beans and spinach and asparagus," was the telephone message received from Thomas Dean in the city market this week. These are comforting signs of summer.
