It is seldom that a more enjoyable dance is given in St. John than that on Tuesday evening last by Mr. C. E. McPherson and Mr. H. Edwards, at the assembly rooms of the Mechanics' Institute. For completeness of detail, forethought and enjoyment this dance was unequalled. A great part of the preparations were undertaken by the ladies' committee, composed of the following: Mrs. C. F. Harrison, Mrs. G. K. McLeod, Mrs. James Stratton and Mrs. R. C. Grant, and well they did the part assigned to them, not only assisting with the supper arrangements and receiving the guests, but made the rooms look pretty and cosy with some of their own furniture and bric a brac.

The music by Harrison's orchestra was of course first class, the floor newly waxed, the number of guests just enough to make dancing comfortable. Without any crash while the elder people enjoyed what or chatting with their friends around many tables. No enclosures of the dances were allowed but each dance was begun and kept up with much spirit by some 30 or 40 dancers who were generally on the floor at a time. Messrs. McPherson, and Edwards made capital hosts and were here, there and everywhere indefatigable in looking after the enjoyment of their guests. When the supper room was thrown open, a magnificent spread table was to be seen decorated profusely with choice flowers and colored lamps and loaded with a bountiful supply of solid sweet and fruits of all kinds. Through the evening less and claret were handed round by efficient waiters. The amusement of the programme was finished about half past 2 o'clock and much to the regret of all present the entertainment was over, though pleasant recollection of it will long remain.
