Sin John Poss was unfortunately prevented from attending many of the tarewell entertainments given for him of late, by a bad attack of gout which seemed to grow obstinately worse instead of better at the close of last week. The dinner given for him on Friday evening at Thornvale, the residence of Mr. T. S. Kenny, M. P., he was unable to go to, and the same ill luck attended him on the following evening, when some of the members of the Halifax Club had invited him to dine with them at that institution His indisposition disposed of this latter function as there was not another evening vacant before his departure; Monday evening having been chosen by the King's Liverpool regiment to give a dinner in his honor, and Tuesday by the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers. On Wednesday, the usual dinner at Government Honse "in honor of her Majesty's birthday" was on the cards. It was of course a masculine party and comprised most of the local lights, political, military, and social. Thursday evening had been chosen for the departure from Halifax of the general and his party, in order that Miss Ross might have time to visit Quebec before leaving not as noticeable from a picturesque point of view society. but their salute in honor of her majesty is a very imposing part of the yearly ceremony. On Wednesday morning a small and select party of ladies had always a good hearing in Halifax where there are ings from inside the fort. But the outsiders had just as good a point of view and less exertion in the way of climbing Citadel hill.

In the morning of the Queen's birthday there was a base-ball match at the Wanderer's grounds; interest in this game has waned of late, but efforts are to be made to revive it during the coming summer. In the afternoon trotting races, two matinees, and the Doll's carnival, took up the attention of the town, such of it has had not gone visiting.

On Monday afternoon Mr. J. F. Stairs, M. P. had a small party of ladies and gentlemen on his yacht the Ulala, including Mr. Daly, Minister of Interior. The yacht visited Lawlor's Island, in order that Mr. Daly might see the quarantine dinner was given at the Halifax club by Mr. T. E. Kenny, M. P., and Mr. Stairs, to the visiting Cabinet ministers, who took their departure for Ottawa at eleven o'clock by a special train.

There was a small dinner at Government House on Friday evening last, of an informal nature. Mr. Daly, who has been very much indisposed of late, not feeling up to any function either large or long.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Waldron, had a small dinner for Miss Ross, who spent the last week of Ross has also been the guest of Major and Mrs. have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

Lady Hopkins and Mrs. Hamilton are expected very shortly from Bermuda. Mrs. Hamilton, I hear, has taken rooms at the Clairmonte.

Major Waldron returned from England on Sunday The Misses Ritchie, of Belmont, were also passengers by the same steamer, and will take up their residence at their cottage with their brother, Mr.

Miss Spratt, the fiancee of Mr. H. Thompson, arrived in the Madura and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. Brookfield, from whose house in Inglis street her marriage will take place.

Mrs. James Morrow has returned from Toronto, and will go to her house at the Arm next month.

Mr. W. B. Ferrie, of the Canada Life office leaves today for Hamilton, Ont. His marriage with Miss Turner will take place on June the first. The bride elect is exceedingly pretty, and will be a charming acquisition to the ranks of young married women in Halifax.

Miss Bella Albro will not enter the hospital at Newark, I now hear, until the autumn. She will in all probability leave this week for England where she will spend the summer with Mrs. Charles Alexander. Miss Dever, of St. John, is staying with Mrs. Farrell, Morris street.

The death of Mr. Peter Lynch has deprived Haliax of one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mr. Lynch bad been much shaken in health by the sudden and shocking death of his daughter during the past winter, and being also well on in years was unable to rally from a recent attack of influenza which during the past fortnight developed into pneumonia. The late Mrs. Lynch was, if my memory serves me, a Miss Emma Creighton, one of a well known Halifax family. Mrs. Wilby, the only surviving daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, will probably leave Halitax for England as soon as her business affairs here are settled, as she no longer has any ties in Halifax. I understand that General Wilby has long been anxious to have her and her children near him on the other side of the water. Mrs. Wilby will probably be left very comfortably off, and her son and daughter equally so.

Mrs. Curzon-Howe leaves on Thursday by the Portia to join her husband at Newfoundland, where Commander Curzon-Howe has taken a house in Purdy and Mrs. Fullerton, and the pretty and useorder that she may spend the principal part of the ful goods exhibited were very creditable to the summer near him. Both Commander and Mrs. young girls of the guild who must have worked Curzon-Howe are already very popular in Halifax | with a will to make such a fine display in so short a society, which will welcome them very cordially on their return in September next.

Mr. Harris, Q. C., of Harris and Henry, left on Monday for England, on legal business, and I hear that Mr. Borden, Q. C., is likely to follow his example early in June.

Mrs. Abbott and Miss Nelly Abbott have returned from England.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. J. F. Kenny gave a small tea for Miss Ross, which was extremely pleasant though limited in numbers. Sir John Ross was not able to be present, nor did he get to the tea given for him and his daughter by Mrs. Robie Uniacke on

The entertainment given at Sydney Mines on Monday evening proved very successful. The audience being appreciative, insisted upon many encores, which made a lengthy programme.
