THE COMING WEEK WE ARE HUM DETERMINED TO MAKE THINGS HUM

We know that this can only be done in one way, and that is by giving values unapproachable in themselves and not to be found elsewhere. During the last few days a series of fortunate purchases has enabled us to place before our patrons many lines, the choicest of seasonable goods, at the most ruinous prices, which have ever prevailed in the annals of the Dry Goods

There never was a time when so much good, reliable merchandise could be had for so little money at our establishment, everyone should avail themselves of the opportunity now presented.

In addition to the low prices we are giving a of ten per cent. Ten cents. off every dollar's worth bought at our store, a saving alone worthy of every lady or gentlemen's consideration.

gold tables, and pure white floor cloth.

Mrs. D. I. Weich and Mrs. C. D. Thomson presided over the comfort of guests at the White Horse inn, and served a bountiful and appetizing tea for a very small sum. They were assisted by two little damsels. Two charming Rebeccas, the Misses Rippey and Stronach, drew lemonade from a very oriental well. The Misses Williams, Weir and Mc-Kenzie, in charming costumes, sold every variety of candy, some made on the premises, and some imported from more distant parts of the city.

When I say that Rev. Canon Pentreath, of Winni without further telling that the church was filled, and it was, it was literally packed. The day was observed as a harvest thanksgiving and the church was very beautifully decorated with grain, flowers, fruit and autumn foliage. In fact I have never seen it so extensively and beautifully decorated, the pulpit was literally covered with panels of wheat and wreaths of rowan berries, on one side of the chancel was a cross of red and yellow apples and on the other a large anchor of rowan berries, while the altar and reading desk were glowing with chrysanthemums, astors, rowan berries and autumn flowers. The font was most artistically decorated chiefly with color and light. The service was fully choral and

The teremony took place in St. Joseph's church,

Shediac, in presence of a large number of invited guests and friends of both parties. The bride looked exceedingly pretty in a bridal toilet of white silk, en traine, profusely trimmed with white silk lace, veil and orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Fanny Arsenault, a pretty brunette, who was gowned in a becoming pink silk with green velvet trimmings. Mr. Alphonse Bourque, of Moncton, was groomsman. The elegant dresses of the bride, bridesmaid and guests, with the handsome decorations of the church, le tout ensemble, had a charming effect. The numerous presents received shows in what high esteem the young couple are held. A wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Isidore Bourque, after which the happy couple took the train en route for Chicago amid showers of rice, congratulations and best

Of course, a Dickens' Fair is a novelty in the Oct. 13 .- On Tuesday, Oct. 10th, St. Mark's church was the scene of a very pretty event, the marriage of Mr. N. D. Quigley of Amherst, N. S., to Miss Alice Sutherland, fourth daughter of Mr. James Sutherland. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. M. Bliss, rector of St. Mark's. The bride, who looked particularly pleasing in a cream cashmere and satin gown, veil and wax berries and carried a magnificent bouget of white roses, entered the church, which had been very prettily decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. C. Stanley Sutherland, and proceeded to the chancel steps, while the choir sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," The bridesmaids were Miss Kate Sutherland, sister of the bride, and Miss Sadie Fowler, who were most becomingly attired in dresses of pale pink cashmere and white lace. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Harry Black of Amherst. At the close of the very impressive service, a reception was given at the home of the brides's parents. After the congratulations, the guests proceeded to the dining room, where a tempting repast was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents.
