The bonnet party given by Miss Maud Bailie on Friday last, was not only the first of the kind given here but one of the most amusing. To watch the gentlemen struggling, sometimes vainly, over the construction of a bonnet of ancient, as well as modern shape, was, to say the least of it, laughable, and the result, in some instances was grotesque. Mr. Frank McNeill won the prize for the best trimmed bonnet. It was worn by Mrs. J. Underwood Dr. Wright the prize, for having the most original ideas in trimming, his bonnet being the most unique, and was worn by Miss Issie Graham. Mr. Cutting, of Truro, received the prize for the daintiest struc-ture, it being a dream in lace and flowers and quite becoming to Miss Bessie Graham who wore it. The ndges were, Mrs. Bailie, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, and Mr. Will McDonald, of Truro. Refreshments were daintily served, gomes indulged in, after which adieus were said, all voting Miss Bailie a charming
