Dec. 19.—The new Presbyterian church was opened last Thursday evening with a sacred concert. The audience was large and very attentive, indicating no doubt their high appreciation of the efforts of those who took part.

The choir were assisted by the best talent in the city. The concert opened by the singing of the Doxology by the entire congregation and choir.

Prof. Watts came next with solo on the organ, at the conclusion of which he played "The Dead March in Saul," in memory of the late Premier Thompson. The professor executed this in his most perfect style and there were many favorable remarks passed upon his playing, after the concert.

Mrs. Geo. W. Daniel, who followed with a vocal solo "Come Unto Him," was in excellent voice, and rendered her solo beautifully. Mrs. Daniel has a sweet and powerful voice, and this was probably her best effort since coming among us. Then followed organ solos by Prof. Watts, and Mr. Blair, the organist of the church. The second part consisted in the rendition of St. Clair's mass, in G by the choir. In this solo were taken by Mrs. Benedict, Mrs. Geo. W. Daniel, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Wetmore, Mrs. Robb, Mrs. Ward, Messrs. Wetmore, Spencer, Sitten, and Girvan. Though a little long, the mass was much enjoyed. The concert terminated with the singing of the national anthem. The new organ is a very handsome one costing over four thousand dollars. It is of Canadian manufacture.

The opening piece, "The Mill" (Gillet), by the string orchestra, was exceptionally well rendered. Miss Blanche Wilson's two solos were well received but perhaps she was heard at her best in the "Arie" from the Daughter of the Regiment (Donizetti). The other soloist of the evening was Miss Maed Johnson, whose beautiful voice was most advantageously heard in "Elizabeth's Prayer" (Falkhauser Wagner) which won Miss Hanington a prolonged encore, to which however she failed to respond. Miss Boal played a piano solo with much brilliancy and Miss Annie Black rendered a difficult Etude by Chopin. Miss Dorothy Webb played a violin solo very sweetly, but the gem of the evening was the andante from symphony by Prof. Chisolm's violin class. Miss Georgie Cole read very acceptably, her selection being "Gone with the Wind." The closing piece was "Gone by" which was most suitably rendered by a chorus and the orchestra.
