|PROGRESS is for sale at Amherst by Charles Hilicoat and at the music store f H. A. Hillcoat.

JAN. 3.-On New Year's afternoon from four to seven, Mrs. James Gates entertained a large Lumber of young folks at her home on Havelock street. The party was principally for the friends of her son Ralph, and it was certainly a most enjoyable event. On Monday evening Rev. and Mrs. V. E. Harris entertained the members of the adult choirs and choiristers at the vicarage. Upwards of thirty were present, and spent an unusually pleasant evening. The vicar was in his happiest mood, and in a very a propriate way thanked the choirs for their efforts in assisting him. Mr. Hillcoat was unavoidably absent, but Mr. Wiltshire, the organist, and the wardens, Mr. B. D. Bent and Mr. R. C. Fuller, re sponded very heartily on behalf of the singers Mrs. R.E. Fuller and Mrs. Munro were the matrons of the occasion. Mrs. Fullerton assisted Mrs. Harris in serving a delicious supper, comprising turkey and other viands, with a host of cakes and sweets surrounding a plum pudding, that was illuminated for the special benefit of the choiristers, who did all in their power to extinguish it rapidly. Rev. Mr. Lynds, who is at present a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harris, was a valued acquisition to the company. Mrs. Will Douglas gave quite a large dance on Monday evening at her home on Victoria street, which was a decidedly pleasant event. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Hickman, Dorches ter, Mr. and Mrs. Paterson, our most recent bride and groom, Mr. Robert Douglas, Toronto, and Miss Sleep, who has just returned home,—all of whom must have made the evening one of much interest to all present. Mrs. Douglas is famed as a hostess, ST. STEPHEN AND CALAIS. [PROGRESS is for sale in St. Stephen by Master Ralph Trainor, and at the book store of G. S. Wall. In Calais at O. P. Treat's.

JAN. 3 .- New Year's day was one of the most de lightful days that the people of the St. Croix) valley have enjoyed for years. Everybody was out enjoying the beauty of the day. The streets were filled with handsome sleighs and prancing horses. The youth and beauty of the three towns took advantage of the fine sleighing, and the streets were lined with spectators; especially Main street in Calais, where the fast trotting took place. This street was a mov. ing mass of teams, and although so many driving not an accident took place. Among the handsomest turnouts seen, was that of Mr. Henry F. Todd, which was grealy admired. Mr. W. C. H. Grimmer, drove a handsome pair of chestnut horses, who with their handsome strings of bells, made a fine appearance. Mr. Charles Beard also drove a fine looking pair of black horses. It was not until a late hour that the merry sleigh riders left the streets for their homes The custom of making New Year's calls seems to have gone out of fashion here, for I only heard of two gentlemen who honored their lady friends in this way.

Mrs. John Bell, is entertaining a small party of children this afternoon, at her residence, in honor of her daughter Esther's birthday.

The New Year's ball, given at the St. Croix exchange on New Year's night, was a most brilliant affair, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who were there. On the arrival of the guests they were received by Mrs. Henry R. Eaton and Mrs. C. W. Young, who chaperoned the party. The reception room was prettily decorated with evergreen. Wreaths of the green were fastened at each corner of the room and festooned to the centre of the ceiling, from which hung bright colored chinese lanterns, which gave a soft light, and gave the room a very pretty appearance. The large dining hall was turned into a ballroom. Dancing began at half-past nine o'clock and continued until one o'clock, when supper was served, after which dancing waj resumed and waxed long and merry, until; three o'c ock in the morning. The ladies all looked exceedingly well and stylish. Mrs. Henry Eston wore a pale pink silk dress covered with black lace, diamond ornaments. Mrs. C. W. Young was most becomingly attired in a nile green silk, richly trimmed with gold passa menterie and white lace. Her ornaments were pearls. Mrs. Albert Sawyer wore the most elegant cos.

tume in the ballroom. It was rich cream satin brocade, richly embroidered with pearls. She also wore pearl ornaments.

Mrs. Chas. King, old rose brocaded satin, en train, diamond ornaments. Mrs. George Gibbs, Cambridgeport, white corded silk trimmed with point de Venice lace, diamond ornaments.

Mrs. Frank Amsden, grey and yellow silk costume, which was most becoming. Miss Florence Sullivan, looked very pretty in Ouite a buzz of excitement existed in town since last week, when it was officially announced that a Jewish wedding would take place on New Years' evening at 7 o'clock, on Mar-h street. As the hour approached, all classes of people could be seen wend ing their way to the place appointed for the cere-mony. Numbers of Chinese lanterns were strung across the street, and a tent brilliantly covered with noth of a decidedly East ra hue was erected in the centre of the street, under which the silken knot was tied. The invited guests carried lighted wax candles, and formed as it were, a guard around the contracting parties. Of course, only those who were forunate enough to be on the ground early, could see the ceremony, as there were hundreds of persons present, many of whom climbed trees, ver andas and fences trying to get even a prep. After the marriage, the bride, groom, Rabbi, invi ed guests, (and many who were not invited.) entred the home of the bride, where refreshments in abun dance were provided, and to which ample justice was done. Then came the musical parties the pro-gramme, to which the "Farmer's Quartette" gave valuable assistance. One of our leading merchants sang a tenor solo with violin accompaniment, waich was well received and loudly applauded, I think it must have been original, as it reated | rincipally of his first visit to New York, Then dancing began sas was kept up unceasingly until morning. The bride had a continued court about her, and got in cense enough offered at her shrine to please the most exacting. Of course she was "the bride" for one thing, an i it was simply indisputable, that, in her youth and beauty, she was the most attractive amongst the fair ones who thronged the rooms.
